'WE'RE ALL FOR PLAN' PREMIER BENNETT SAYS

QUEBEC (CP)—Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta today gave their support to the federal government's Canada pension plan as the second day of the federal-provincial conference got under way.

"We're all for the plan," said a beaming Mr. Bennett. "It would be better if Ontario and Quebec were in—I hope all provinces will take part—but B.C. will take part."

Pension Plan Goes Ahead Despite Ontario, Quebec

Beautiful Derrick, Burner Enhance Beacon Hill

Oilmen were excited today by reports that a rich petroleum reservoir had been discovered in Beacon Hill Park. Firm to be known as Kiernan Explorations wasted no time in erecting rig (centre, above), at same time announced that oil venture would be integrated with energetic sawmill development (right) pointing towards establishment of oak furniture factory adjacent to unused duck pond. "It is appropriate that this important source of revenue should be discovered April 1," president Kenneth F. Kiernan told the Times. Opening ceremonies featured HMCS Naden band playing: "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

Ontario Wants All To Join In

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robarts strongly indicated today Ontario will enter the federal pension plan only if it is "truly national"—that is, applies to all provinces including Quebec.

Mr. Robarts said his government intends to make sure that Ontario people will have "the best possible pension protection," whether this comes from federal or provincial legislation.

He told the federal-provincial conference that whether the federal plan is to be truly national—taking in the whole country—is a matter of some doubt.

RESERVE RIGHT

In the event that it isn't—that Quebec doesn't come in—"then we reserve our right to make the decision as to our further action in providing pension benefits for our people in Ontario until we see the ultimate form of the federal bill and the position of our sister provinces."

Mr. Robarts said Ontario wants to know whether the federal government is able to establish "a truly national pension plan in the sense that it will involve the people in all the provinces of Canada."

He stressed this all-Canada coverage several times in his relatively short statement.

Ontario does not dispute Quebec's right to decide to stay out of the federal plan, instead setting up its own pensions system, Mr. Robarts said.

NEW ATTEMPT

However, he noted there have been reports that the federal government is "to make another attempt to have Quebec join the plan."

If some provinces stay out, it would have "deep significance."

It could mean that non-participating provinces — through their elected MPs—would have the power to regulate and alter the plan, even though it would not apply to their own provinces.

And these non-participating provinces would be consulted on possible changes in the plan—so their own plans could be brought into line with the proposed changes — even though such consultation will not be necessary with participating provinces who will be controlled by the federal plan.

JOINT COMMITTEE

Mr. Robarts said he recognizes that the federal bill, Bill C-75, introduced recently in the Commons, will be scrutinized carefully by a joint Senate-Commons committee.

SPREADING REVOLT in Brazil today threatened to oust President Joao Goulart. Centres of rebel activity were cities of Juiz de Fora, the "revolutionary capital," 80 miles north of Rio de Janeiro; Belo Horizonte and Sao Paulo, all shown on above map. (AP Wirephoto.)

Brazil Rebels March on Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Governor Carlos Lacerda, a bitter foe of Brazilian President Joao Goulart, told the people of his state tonight that the revolution against Goulart has been won.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A revolt to oust Brazil's President Joao Goulart gathered speed today.

Declaring they would not allow Brazil to become another Cuba, army, navy and state political leaders deserted Goulart. The rebels said their army columns marching on Rio de Janeiro were being joined by soldiers sent out by Goulart to repel them.

Goulart, faced with demands to quit, flew from Rio to the inland capital of Brasilia where Congress is in session.

Some sources speculated his mission was to hand over the government to Ranieri Mazzili, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

There was other speculation that he had gone to make a stand against the rebellion.

Firing was reported in Rio itself. Some soldiers in famed Copacabana Fortress, in the fashionable beach and apartment section of Rio, proclaimed their solidarity with the rebels.

Shortly afterward, firing between the fort and soldiers on a nearby hill broke out, a radio station source reported. He said one officer and nine soldiers were wounded when the rebels took over the fort.

In a series of broadcasts, the rebels claimed seven of Brazil's 27 states had rallied to their banner in a drive to "lift the Red Yoke" from Brazil.

His opponents charge Goulart is leading the country of 71,000,000 inhabitants to Communism by nationalization of private industry, expropriation of land and his demand to legalize the Communist party. Goulart says he is only working to improve the lot of 20,000,000 illiterate peasants.

A spokesman for the Second Army said its commander, Gen. Amaury Krueh, would enter Rio to deliver a personal ultimatum to Goulart that he resign or be deposed.

The spokesman said troops of the Second Army, whose headquarters are in Sao Paulo, 220 miles southwest of Rio, already were near their objective.

Pearson Backs Plan 'As Drafted'

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today that the positions of Ontario and Quebec don't alter the federal government's intention to go ahead with the Canada Pension Plan "as it has been drafted."

Mr. Pearson was commenting to reporters on those two developments today in the federal-provincial conference:

1. Premier Lesage said his province reiterated its position that Quebec wants to have its own pension plan. He supplied the conference with a preview of the Quebec plan—not yet announced publicly. Both he and Mr. Pearson said it appears the plan would be comparable to the federal proposals.

TRULY NATIONAL

2. Premier Robarts, in a statement, strongly indicated Ontario may not come into any national pension plan unless it is "truly national"—covering all provinces. If it wasn't, Ontario reserved its right to take further action on pension benefits for Ontario people until it saw the federal plan in its final form, and the position of other provinces.

Said Mr. Pearson:

"I do not think Mr. Robarts has said anything this morning that would alter our federal decision to go ahead with the second reading of the Canada Pension Plan bill and send it to committee where it will be examined and ultimately decided on third reading in the House before the end of the present session . . .

See Story Page 34

"We think it is a good pension plan and we are anxious to proceed right away."

One section of the federal bill provides that the federal plan would not apply to any province which has announced its intention to have a pension plan of its own, offering comparable benefits and wide general coverage.

After hearing the preview of the Quebec plan, Mr. Pearson said it would be "comparable" to the federal proposal.

It would make it "undesirable" to have both plans operating in Quebec.

Asked to comment on Ontario's position, Mr. Lesage said:

"There is no question at all of changing our attitude."

GO-AHEAD

He noted that the Quebec government has a unanimous mandate to go ahead with its own plan, in the form of a resolution of the legislature.

Mr. Lesage said detailed reports by actuaries and economists on the Quebec proposals will be tabled in the legislature by the end of April. But when asked whether the government would introduce a bill at this session of the legislature, the premier replied:

"I'm afraid not. It's very complicated."

Special Sitting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons agreed today to a special sitting tonight to consider authorizing temporary loans to the dwindling unemployment insurance fund.

RESTIVE AND IMPATIENT

Senators May Go Home

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A restive Senate today served notice it may close up shop and go home until April 20 unless the House of Commons speeds up its handling of public business.

Impatient over Commons' delays, senators held a special sitting shortly before noon to express their frustration at having to stand by and do nothing while business is held up in the Commons.

Should the Senate finally decide to adjourn until April 20, this would mean a government bill for appropriation of more than $240 million could not get Senate approval or royal assent, and thus become law, until then.

The Senate has had little business to conduct this week because it has not received any from the Commons. For a week, MPs have been squabbling over the supplementary appropriations and have talked themselves out of a previously scheduled 10-day Easter recess.

POWER LEADS ATTACK

Liberal senators led the attack on the Commons. Senator Charles G. Power, who was air minister in the King government, wondered whether the problems in the Commons resulted from "political amateurism" or "stupid opportunism."

Armed Cypriots Mark 'EOKA'

(CP From AP-Reuters)

NICOSIA—Thousands lined Nicosia's streets today to watch Greek-Cypriot police and national guards parade in honor of the EOKA underground's fight for the independence of Cyprus.

President Archbishop Makarios took the salute from more than 2,000 marchers, many of them carrying weapons.

Home-made armored cars rolled by under fluttering blue and white Greek flags.

It was the largest turnout ever on EOKA day, commemorating the start of the fight against British rule in April, 1955.

The line of march was routed away from the Turkish quarter for safety's sake.

Earlier Makarios attended a special Te Deum mass at Phaneromeni church inside Nicosia's old walled city.

Nicos Koshis, former top EOKA man and now a member of the Cypriot Parliament, told the packed church that EOKA day again found the "Cyprus people armed and ready to protect . . . the integrity and independence" of Cyprus.

"The threat of Turkish invasion and plans of foreigners will not frighten us. We are going to fight to the end because Cyprus is Greek and is going to stay Greek," he declared.

Turkish-Cypriots continued their criticism of the UN force which took over the task of peacekeeping on the island last Friday.

VISIT to Ottawa April 14 and 15 is set for Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys. He will open the new British high commission building in the capital. On April 16 Sandys will proceed to Montreal to open the British motor show. He will return to London that evening.

Power Reductions 'Political Tool'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Bill Rathie said Tuesday it appears B.C.'s latest power rate reductions are being used as a political tool by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He likened the premier to a political Robin Hood.

"Hydro appears to be continuing its policy of taking from the high user and giving to the low user," the mayor commented while criticizing the reduction announced Tuesday. It is estimated at $2,000,000 a year.

"It is the same politically-inspired policy used last year when Hydro cut rates by 19 per cent for the largest group of consumers in the city compared with 25 per cent in rural areas of the province.

"There is no economic justification for rates to be cut the way the Hydro Authority has cut them," he said.

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said he didn't expect any more reductions to be made this year although the cut is $3,000,000 below the annual reduction promised by Premier Bennett.

"We make a reduction every March in accordance with our revenue. This year our revenue was not as high as we expected because of the mild winter," he said.

Premier Bennett, contacted at the federal-provincial conference in Quebec City, said that unforeseen costs prevented B.C. Hydro from making a bigger cut in electric power rates this year.

LABOR UNIONS STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS

Belgians Protest Doctors' Strike

By SERGE NABOKOFF

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Some 12,000 Belgian doctors went on strike today against government health service plans and quickly touched off protest demonstrations by workers.

The strike began at 7 a.m. after the collapse of talks between government officials and labor union leaders Tuesday night.

Two thousand metal workers in Charleroi, near Brussels, staged a rally in the centre of town in protest over the strike and caused a gigantic traffic jam. They whistled and shouted in front of the offices of the medical association.

The striking doctors left in operation a skeleton emergency service to handle the most serious medical cases, but warned in a communique the emergency service would halt immediately if there were any "maltreatment" of doctors, their families, or their property.

A labor union leader called for demonstrations outside doctors' homes this afternoon.

Prime Minister Theo Lefevre called the strike "deplorable." He said the doctors were "practically a monopoly" and would be conscripted—placing them under government orders — if necessary.

The doctors claim the government plan would curtail their freedom, abolish professional secrecy and impede standards of medical treatment.

PLAN FIXES FEES

It provides for a fixed scale of fees for all medical treatment and the granting of free medical treatment to certain categories of patients.

Negotiators said the main stumbling block was what fees should be paid to the doctors and how many afternoons a week would be left free for private practice.

During the Easter weekend, doctors from many parts of the country staged an unofficial warning strike when they walked off their practices and went on vacation in other countries.

Observers here said it was likely many of them would remain away until a settlement was reached.

Although many professional men appeared to side with the doctors in the dispute, the majority of the population supported the government reform program.

It provides for a 75-per-cent reimbursement of all medical costs and free medical care for disabled persons, widows and orphans.

Giant Rebuilding Job Moves Ahead in Alaska

By WARD SIMS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—New, chilling stories of earthquake and tidal wave terror mingled with constantly changing casualty figures for the stricken areas of Alaska.

The loss of life in the Good Friday disaster was still undetermined. Figures, gathered independently by various state agencies, changed constantly.

It might be weeks before an accurate count of the dead can be obtained.

State civil defence said its count showed 19 dead and 71 missing and presumed dead, plus 55 injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard had one death, at its Cape St. Elias station, which was not included in the civil defence figures. There were unofficial reports of single deaths elsewhere.

Additionally, there were unofficial reports of 31 persons missing who did not show on the civil defence list, including 23 at Chenega, five at Port Ashton and three at Port Nellie Juan.

START REBUILDING

In Anchorage, the state's largest city, most debris has been cleared. Workmen were preparing to remove what items of value they could from condemned buildings and start the mammoth job of reconstruction.

In Washington, various federal agencies were under orders from President Johnson to speed up relief.

The air force, navy and military air transports service flew supplies to Anchorage and Kodiak. Four commercial airlines —Northwest, Alaska, Pacific Northern and Pan American—also carried tons of food, hardware and clothing.

Alaska Governor William A. Egan said it might be necessary to call a special session of the state legislature next fall to meet problems of reduced tax income and increased state spending resulting from the tragedy. The legislature recessed Friday night after the quake.

Egan said Alaska has an adequate force of construction and technical workers to handle reconstruction. He left unsaid the matter of financing but Smoke was belching out from around the furnace motor and Mrs. Bishop was able to turn it off before any damage was done.

Nikita Replies To Peking Blast

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today made his first comment on the growing Soviet conflict with Communist China since Peking's personal attack on him last weekend.

The Soviet premier made no direct reference to the attack in a speech at a Budapest factory meeting today.

But in an impromptu addition to his prepared speech he commented that there were "some people who call themselves Marxist Leninists and at the same time say there is no need to strive for a better life."

According to them "only one thing is important—revolution," he said.

Khrushchev made the remark during a visit to a lightbulb factory here on the first full day of his "official, friendly" visit to Hungary.

His audience consisted of about 5,000 factory workers.

Khrushchev and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko arrived here by rail Tuesday to begin the Kremlin leader's first visit here since 1959. It was expected to last eight or 10 days.

Khrushchev began the visit amid persistent speculation that it might include an East European Communist committee conference.

Whether or not this develops, the ideological rift between the Soviet Union and Communist China was expected to figure high on the agenda for Khrushchev's discussions during his stay here.

In Paris, Khrushchev's son-in-law Alexi Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, said it was "possible" that Russia's "present passive attitude will not be prolonged indefinitely" in the face of increasing sharp attacks on Khrushchev by Communist China.

Did Poison End Life Of Ivan the Terrible?

MOSCOW (AP)—Was Ivan the Terrible poisoned by enemies he made in turning 16th century Russia into a totalitarian state?

Maybe so, say Soviet scientists who have found an abnormal amount of mercury in the disinterred remains of his body. But maybe the mercury was not the cause of death, or he was accidentally killed by it, they add.

Death in the Kremlin by poison was far from unknown in those days.

Some historians believe Ivan's mother was poisoned in 1538 while she was serving as regent for the eight-year-old boy. Ivan himself believed his first wife was poisoned in 1560 and terrible was the vengeance he took, historians relate.

After that, he appeared to lose emotional balance and historians speak of him as a pathological case until his death in 1584.

The remains of the czar who ruled as Ivan IV was uncovered in the Kremlin recently. Mikhail Gerasimov, a sculptor with medical knowledge, now is reconstructing Ivan's face on the basis of clues given by the skull.

An article in the weekly magazine Ogonyok discussing this work said chemical analysis showed Ivan's body had an abnormal amount of mercury in it.

He might have been treated with mercury ointment, common in 16th-century medical practice, the article suggested. But such an unexpected supposition he was killed by poison cannot be ruled out, it added.

Poisoning might not have been intentional, the article said. "It is quite believable that a container with mercury was left open in the rooms where he lived. In those times they could not know about the deadly actions of evaporating mercury."

Further analysis is being made in an effort to solve the mystery.

. . . ONTARIO

"The other matters we raise are based on the broader effects that we see arising from the right of any province to remain outside the federal plan and to exercise its own powers to legislate for pensions for its own people."

Under the bill, the Canada Pension Plan would not apply in any province which intends to set up its own pension system provided the latter gives broad, general coverage and pays benefits comparable to those in the federal plan.

Mr. Robarts noted there is some doubt whether this provision is constitutional.

However, he said this question can be "examined elsewhere." He did not say where.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba said he told the conference he was concerned about several points in the federal pension plan, and Manitoba was reserving final judgment on it.

He said section 3 of the federal pension bill "apparently allows the federal government to decide whether the provinces are fulfilling their constitutional responsibility in the pension field."

"This might be a very serious bone of contention in days to come."

Mr. Roblin said he asked that 100 per cent—instead of 50 per cent—of reserves of the federal plan be invested in provincial and municipal bonds.

He was concerned that 20 to 25 per cent of the Manitoba population wouldn't be covered by the federal plan. He also asked the federal government to consider the problem of priorities — whether welfare and education needs weren't more important than the pension plan.

. . . BRAZIL

Another force attached to the 4th military region was reported bearing south from Juiz de Fora, 80 miles north of Rio, proclaimed the "revolutionary capital."

The government announced it was sending loyal forces out of Rio to meet the rebel columns.

STILL HELD CONTROL

The government - controlled national radio network kept up a continuous broadcast saying Goulart still held control of the armed forces throughout the country except in the state of Minas Gerais, where Juiz de Fora and Belo Horizonte are located. It was in those cities that the uprising began Tuesday.

The Goulart government asserted it controlled the 1st Army based in Rio, the 3rd Army at Porto Alegre and the 4th Army at Recife.

The force heading south to meet Kruel's rebels was headed by Gen. Sizeno Sarmento.

The latest area to join the revolt, a rebel spokesman said, was the 5th military region which includes all the state of Parana southwest of Rio.

CALL FOR MEN

In Belo Horizonte, capital of Minas Gerais, Radio Inconfidencia announced that vice-governor Clovis Salgado had called for men 18 to 30 years old to volunteer for service against Goulart.

The chief leaders of the rebellion appeared to be retired army Gens. Nelso de Melo and Cordeiro de Faria.

During the night, Gen. Humberto Castello Branco, chief of the army general staff, and two other high commanders declared they had swung to the rebel cause.

Rio's transport and many other commercial operations were paralyzed by a general strike, as members of the Communist-dominated general confederation of workers walked out in support of Goulart.

As the general strike tightened in Rio, backed up by domestic airline employees who quit work, streets were cleared of all buses.

Some food stores were cleaned out of supplies. There were long lines in front of stores.

War Minister Jair Dantas Ribeiro issued a communique from his hospital bed saying he was resuming active command despite ill health. He promised the military would act with "maximum energy against the rebels."

To prevent a run on banks, the finance minister ordered a three-day bank holiday.

Goulart broadcast a warning to his opponents Monday night that he would not modify his plans to speed land distribution to peasnats, give voting rights to 30,000,000 illiterates and legalize Brazil's Communist party.

He charged that foreign capital was being used to finance a campaign to overthrow him nad said he would not permit Roman Catholic opposition to be used as a political weapon against him.

More than 500,000 Catholics staged a street demonstration against the government in Sao Paulo March 19. Roman Catholice leaders have called a similar public march in Rio Thursday.

. . . SENATORS

In any event, he said, Parliament had suffered from the bickering more than from any other situation in years.

"Parliament as such is no longer holding the high dignified position it should have in the public esteem," he declared.

Senator Power suggested the Senate adjourn until next Monday, in hopes the Commons might have approved the appropriation bill by then. The Senate, he said, couldn't "stand for this much longer."

Liberal Senator Arthur Roebuck said the Senate was "entitled to some consideration."

He said he agreed with Conservative Senator Lionel Choquette, who had spoken earlier, that if the government couldn't satisfy the Senate as to the urgency of approving the appropriation bill, the Senate should adjourn until April 20.

The Senate could adjourn until later in the afternoon, after finding out what the Commons might do with the bill. If there was no sign of quick Commons' passage, the Senate should go home.

BAD FOR EGO

Senator Roebuck agreed it was "not very dignified or good for the ego to have to cool your heels in the anti-chamber of the great."

Government Senate leader John Connolly said he understood the government needed approval of financial assistance to the near-bankrupt unemployment insurance fund by this weekend, otherwise the fund might not be able to make payments next due.

But he, too, agreed parliament had suffered although he said he wouldn't criticize the Commons. He said he was sure the public agreed parliament had suffered, but added the Senate should get credit for being prepared to "do its duty."

'WONDERFUL SUPPORT'

Failure? What Failure? Asks Festival Chairman

Victoria Spring Flower Festival chairman Pat Frumento said Tuesday this committee has received "wonderful support."

Mr. Frumento said:

"We would like to record our warm appreciation of the time and effort devoted to the various events by so many people.

"Certainly, mistakes have been made, but after our first year we are convinced the festival can and will become an annual event of international importance."

NO FAILURE

Mr. Frumento said the advertising budget had been small, "but to say that we have had poor publicity is to disregard the wonderful assistance we have had from local newspapers, all the radio stations and the TV station."

The festival has not been a failure, he said.

The committee had deliberately adopted the policy of encouraging other organizations to take part and in all instances the results have been first class, he said.

"At the Daffodil Queen festival at the Mayfair shopping centre, in which the committee played no managing part, the principals said they were completely satisfied.

"SUPERB"

"The publicity which came from Miss Laidlaw's tour to Montreal, Toronto, Calgary and Edmonton was superb and she made a wonderful impression on all she met.

"Over 1,000 ladies were seated for tea at the fashion show; another 100 or so stood to watch the show and the Empress management estimated that they had to turn several hundred away.

"Fred Usher played to an enthusiastic capacity crowd of 400 in the Empress Ballroom.

"This is a failure?

GOOD CROWD

"The Fellowship Day put on by the Auto Courts and Resorts Association was a complete success and the Kiddies' Parade attracted a large crowd.

"The marine pageant, with nine separate sections, was considered a success by those who planned it and carried it out.

"There were more entries for the predicted log race than expected.

"The Boatman's Bay at the Empress drew a capacity crowd and the fly-in staged by the Victoria Flying Club attracted 35 visiting aircraft carrying about 80 persons.

"The Inter-Club car road-eo attracted so many entries that the program could not be completed in one day.

"This is a failure?"

Officials, he said, are quite happy about the publicity the festival has received and are pleased with the success of the festival.

ESTIMATES PROBED

Commons Loses Easter Holiday

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—A week ago today the House of Commons was just 24 hours away from its traditional 10-day Easter recess. Only one possibly contentious item remained—supplementary estimates.

Today the Commons appeared sight as three New Democrats dug in with no holiday at all in took over the original Conservative decision to question in detail each item of the government's final spending package for the 1963-64 fiscal year that ended at midnight Tuesday night.

Last Thursday the Conservative balked at the government's request for speedy passage of this $240,000,000 supplementary package prior to the Easter recess. They argued that this was a government gun aimed at their heads.

After a bitter debate an unprecedented Good Friday sitting of seven minutes resulted—because Conservative Terry Nugent (Edmonton - Strathcona) blocked any alternative.

The House had to come back Easter Monday and then again Tuesday to continue the estimates study, all of the debate centering on the first of the 144 items—a $60,000 bill for agriculture administration.

NOW SEEKS PROGRESS

Tuesday afternoon Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his group's immediate desires had been satisfied by replies on farm subjects by Agriculture Minister Hays and Justice Minister Favreau. He then suggested that progress could be made, aimed at a quick recess until next Monday.

But the trio of New Democrats—aided by occasional Conservatives—intervened to confine progress to 15 of the 144 separate spending items ranging from farming to trade marks.

The trio comprised Frank Howard (Skeena), Arnold Peters (Timiskiming) and Murdo Martin (Timmins).

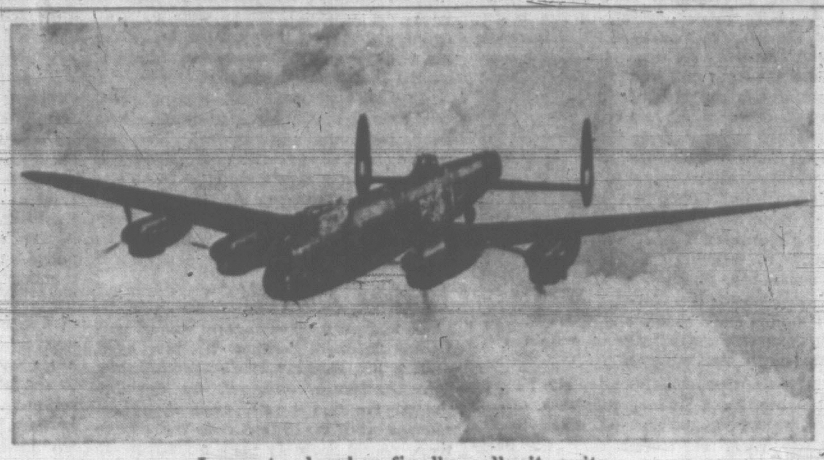
Outside the Commons, Mr. Martin said Mr. Diefenbaker had started the delaying action but "after he has made his headline he wants to sneak away. . . . The Conservatives have made their non-holiday bed and now they can lie in it."

OTTAWA (CP) — The government lost the power to lend money to the unemployment insurance fund at midnight Tuesday, thus placing its reliance on parliamentary approval of new lending authority before the fund possibly runs dry at the end of the week.

A reliable source said it was decided not to act under powers granted for the 1963-64 fiscal year to advance money to the almost-empty insurance fund for the new fiscal year that started today.

With only about $17,500,000 in the kitty, the fund faced the prospect of being unable to meet the claims for benefits unless it obtained a federal loan of $10,000,000 or $12,000,000.

In the past, the fund has been able to borrow temporarily from the government, repaying the loans when employer-employee contributions outpaced benefit payments in periods of high employment.



Lancaster bomber finally calls it quits.

WORLD WAR VETERANS

RCAF Retires Lancasters, Disbands Famed Squadron

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF Tuesday disbanded its famed 410 Fighter Squadron and took out of service today its equally famous Lancaster bomber.

The fighter squadron was disbanded at a ceremony at the RCAF station at Uplands Airport after five years of service during the Second World War and 15 years of service in the cold war.

Originally formed in 1941, the squadron served overseas until 1945 when it was disbanded. It was reformed in 1948 and has been stationed at Uplands since 1956.

During the Second World War, the squadron destroyed 87 enemy aircraft and [illegible] Qne of the unusual aircraft destroyed was a German bomber with a fighter on its back which was shot down by former northern affairs minister Walter Dinsdale, then a flight lieutenant. He now is Progressive Conservative member in the Commons for Brandon-Souris.

Removal of the Lancaster from the air force will be marked at a special ceremony at Downsview Air Station near Toronto Thursday April 9.

The departure of the Lancasters will be accompanied by the transfer of 408 Photo Reconnaissance Squadron from Ottawa's Rockcliffe Station to Rivers, Man., late in April. The RCAF's last three Lancasters were used by 408 Squadron which will be re-equipped with the four C-130 B Hercules long-range transports now being used in the airlift operation to Cyprus.

After 336 Historic Years The Admiralty Is No More

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—The crimson and gold flag of the Admiralty vanished from the London skyline today, and British history will never seem the same.

For 336 years the flag had flown over the Admiralty Building in Whitehall. Unlike other flags it was flown day and night and not just in daylight hours.

In all those years it had been lowered only for replacement or to halfmast for the death of a monarch. It was fluttering there when news came of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar, and of the loss of Britain's battleships, the Royal Navy's pride, in the Second World War.

But this morning a major change in British defence planning went into effect, and as a result the Admiralty has ceased to exist as a separate government department.

Peter Thorneycroft, 54, stepped up in rank from defence minister to secretary of state for defence and becomes overlord of the army, navy and air force.

Earl Jellicoe, who held the title of first lord of the admiralty, now will be known as defence minister for the navy.

GUIDES THE ARMY

Similarly with the army. James Ramsden, who succeeded John Profumo as secretary of state for war, becomes defence minister for the army.

Hugh Fraser, secretary of state for air, becomes defence minister for the RAF.

Thorneycroft will have direct responsibility for co-ordinating the roles of 800,000 servicemen and civilian defence staff with a budget this year of about £2,000,000,000 ($6,000,000,000).

His headquarters is the new defence ministry building by the Thames, a towering square block. Already Britons are calling it the Quadragon because it is run on the lines of Washington's Pentagon.

Henceforth the admiralty flag —technically the flag of the lord high admiral—will be flown only when the monarch visits ships or naval shore bases.

A crowd of 500 watched as the flag was hauled down from the Admiralty building Tuesday night. Some had tears in their eyes. A Royal Marine band played Rule Britannia and it will never sound the same again.

The revue includes guest acts.

Downpour Ruins March Weatherwise

March went out like a sealion Tuesday, with a downfall that sent Victoria's weather record plunging.

Rainfall, usually 2.10 inches in March, registered 2.44 inches. Of those, .42 inches fell Tuesday.

The sun, playing along, gave us 104.6 hours, 41.7 hours below average.

And just to make the bite a little stronger, the mean windspeed rose 1.9 mph to 13.8 mph.

The mean temperature, however, was down only .04 degrees at 43.9.

Only a trace of snow showed up during the month—March 6—and the maximum temperature, March 29, was 62, 3.5 degrees above normal.

Lowest temperature was 35 on March 12, 3.3 above normal.

Actress Sued

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Peter Sellers' bride, Britt Eklund, has been sued for $1,500,000 by 20th Century Fox, which accuses her of breach of contract. The suit filed Tuesday also named Sellers. Miss Eklund walked off the London set of "Guns of Batasi" March 20 and flew to Hollywood to join Sellers.

Gaglardi Lifts Tolls Early

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gaglardi in a surprise move announced removal of the tolls from the Deas Island Tunnel and the Oak Street Bridge at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, 4½ hours before they were scheduled to be abolished.

In a simple ceremony, Mr. Gaglardi said these were the last two toll structures of the provincial government and it was government policy that there be no more tolls on any government structures or highways.

The highways minister described the early lifting of the tolls as "an extra bonus." They were scheduled to be removed at midnight.

The ceremony was held at the Oak Street Bridge toll plaza.

Former MLA George Massey, long a campaigner for a tunnel under the Fraser, paid the last toll, handing it to Sgt. Norman Graham, oldest toll-taker in B.C. Graham gave the former MLA a bronze medallion, marking payment of the last toll.

Bike Swiped, Girl Turns To Camels

FEZ, Morocco (Reuters)—A Vancouver girl who gave up teaching to bicycle around the world has arrived here to prepare to set herself up in the zoo supplying business.

Muryl Anderson, who graduated as a teacher in British Columbia five years ago, plans for a start to buy 10 baby Moroccan camels and ship them to Copenhagen, Denmark, for zoos.

She bicycled across Canada and around Europe before her racing bicycle was stolen in Paris.

At Christmas, spent in Scandinavia, she learned there was money to be made in the animal business so she is hoping to make enough from these ventures to take her the rest of the way around the world in a jeep.

But her first task will be to get the 10 young camels for her first shipment from the Moroccan camel market of Goulinine, 106 miles across the desert to the port of Agadir for shipment north.

Miss Anderson says she will drive them across the desert herself.

Violence or Economics?

THE LATEST RED CHINESE outburst against Mr. Khrushchev goes beyond previous criticism and abuse. In calling on Communists to "repudiate and liquidate Khrushchev's revisionism" the Peking leaders seem to be stepping from the verbal into the physical phase of opposition. To liquidate Mr. Khrushchev's revisionism it would appear necessary also to liquidate Mr. Khrushchev.

A government not at war with Russia could hardly go farther in its attacks on the Soviet premier. What reply will Mr. Khrushchev make to this?

Perhaps in the jargon of the Marxist dialectic the Chinese diatribe will be interpreted as merely a political comment. But to some observers it could appear as an invitation to assassination.

At the moment Mr. Khrushchev is visiting his Hungarian allies, presumably to repair Communist fences. It is obvious that a vital showdown is coming with Peking; it seems incredible that the two Communist countries could kiss and make up after the violent war of words that has been carried on for many months.

Against a break-up is the fact that the two large Communist nations need each other; they are the only major countries in the world that have turned Communist and they still face a tremendous alliance of capitalist power. But even in these circumstances can Moscow permit Peking to challenge for the world Communist leadership without opposing it in every way?

Ideologically the two powers split on the question of the use of force to achieve the leftist revolution. Red China's leaders see violent revolution and military effort as the only path to Communist victory. Mr. Khrushchev recognizes that a new era dawned with the nuclear bomb, and while he has offered Soviet support to peoples trying to throw off colonial yokes it is difficult today to find would-be states in this situation. The fact is that most African or Asian peoples seeking independence have had it thrust upon them too quickly for them to adjust properly. Ideological giant killers today cannot find many giants.

The result is that Mr. Khrushchev has emerged as a Communist who is prepared instead to compete with the West in industry and commerce, to increase Soviet productivity and economic strength to the point where it will dominate the world and demonstrate the superiority of the Communist system. This to the Chinese Communists is capitulation, a desertion of the Marxist-Leninist cause.

It is obvious that Mr. Khrushchev is demonstrating the more advanced thinking and the better statesmanship. It has become equally obvious that in the course of its economic progress his country is undergoing mental and physical changes that place it far from the more primitive Communism of Red China. It is this development — this recession from Communist radicalism — that encourages the hope of an eventual world of peace. For economic competition between East and West could be beneficial to both, and in the process both would find areas of common interests.

But apart from the large question of just how far the Moscow-Peking split will go is another to concern the West. It is the question of how much support Mr. Khrushchev can muster within his own bailiwick, whether he can master those within his own regime who may support the Peking thesis or who might wish to use the crisis to seize power from him.

One of the major historical developments of this century is now taking place. Although we as individuals cannot influence it in the least degree, its outcome must affect the lives of every one of us.

One Lollipop

BRITISH COLUMBIA HOME-owners have been told what Mr. Bennett's promised cut in electricity bills this year will mean to them. For the average consumer, the reduction effective today amounts to the price of one cup of coffee a month.

The mountain has labored and brought forth a very tiny mouse.

Some consumers, particularly those using a minimum of power, will derive larger benefits. But the effects, as the majority of people who pay household bills will see them, will be even more disappointing than those in the earlier reductions.

The current $2,200,000 cut brings the aggregate for all three to date to $13,200,000—less than half the "velvet" resulting from the B.C. Electric take-over.

Measure this sum against the approximately $12,000,000 a year the B.C. Electric paid out in taxes collected by the federal government — taxes which the province escapes through the operation of the public utility — and Mr. Bennett's generosity shrinks. In the course of three highly publicized rate cuts he has extended to the people of British Columbia little more than the immediate savings in federal taxes.

Assuming that operations under the B.C. Hydro are as efficient and as economical as they were under the private company before the take-over, the public is left wondering what happened to the approximately $16,000,000 profit listed in the last B.C. Electric returns. With business expanding, where did it go?

The answer could probably be found in the analysis of costs for Mr. Bennett's two-river policy. Through the arrangement to sell all downstream power benefits from the proposed Columbia River water storage project, he appears to have denied the public of British Columbia the cheapest power on the provincial horizon at present. By pushing the Peace River project beyond the point of no return, he has imposed upon the public, directly or indirectly, huge financial outlays which deny home-owners even the benefits they could rightfully expect from the public operation of the system previously run by the private corporation.

How does this sit with British Columbians in general? On their next household electric bills they make a saving — a magnanimous gift of about 10 cents a month to most of them.

Mr. Bennett gives out lollipops —but only one per month to the bulk of British Columbia families.

Bible and School

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA Teachers' Federation has recommended abolition of Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools of the province — and no doubt will be confronted by the argument that not enough instruction of this nature is provided in the assembly hall for students today.

Conceivably the federation action is an outgrowth of certain test cases conducted in different parts of the United States where the divorce of religious instruction from the school curriculum has been advocated—and upheld—on American constitutional grounds and as a gesture of respect to varying faiths of pupils and their families.

The brief report from the B.C. teachers' convention said that delegates considered religious exercises the responsibility of parents and clergy, not of teachers.

They might have added a point made occasionally in private conversation by devout teachers who consider the exercises carried on in provincial public schools inadequate for religious purposes but sufficient to disturb some people and to take up a considerable amount of time.

The men and women on the job, as represented by a majority of convention delegates, apparently want nothing to do with this small part of the curriculum and have notified the minister accordingly.

Scene: The Open Gates of a Prison

A REAL-LIFE DRAMA — SO far-fetched that it would probably be derided as fiction—is nearing its climax in Boston. A convicted rapist and burglar facing up to 49 years in prison has been paroled with the expectation of a new job as a printer and marriage to a Canadian girl who has been instrumental in obtaining his release.

The acquaintanceship began through a Christmas card the Peace River girl sent to the prisoner. It developed into something more and gave the prisoner a goal in life. It must also have had its effect on the parole board.

Now chapter III of the story is ready to unfold. It is to be hoped it will have a happy ending—for parole boards, prisoners, wives, fiction fans, and those who believe truth can be stranger.

Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

SHIP AHOY!

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Let the Eskimos Decide First

THE government is sticking to its Brer Rabbit tactics in the matter of the Ungava Eskimos. On Wednesday and Thursday the minister sat tight and said nothing in the face of a rain of questions and spirited appeals from four interested private members. Although severely handicapped by the time squeeze, the four members did succeed in making the general case of the Eskimos versus the Governments of Canada and Quebec. Each had special qualifications which gave weight to his arguments.

Western

Of the Conservative trio, Mr. Eugene Rheaume is a former northern affairs officer whose family has lived in the North West Territories since the early 1920s; Mrs. Paul Martineau a Quebec moderate who served briefly as minister of mines and technical surveys and Mr. Erik Nielsen, a Yukon lawyer who has emerged at this session as one of the most effective and industrious opposition critics. They were joined by Mr. Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), who has long been conspicuous for his advocacy of an Indian claims commission.

Must End Distinctions

It is common ground with all the critics that the present distinctions between white citizens and the original inhabitants of Canada must eventually disappear. They do not object in principle, to a transfer of jurisdiction but they insist it be achieved constitutionally and with the consent of the people concerned. As Mr. Howard put it: "The matter should never be negotiated at the top."

"Let these people decide first," he said, "what the Government of Canada should do with regard to these negotiations, and then act like true, honest negotiators in representing them when you are dealing with the province of Quebec. If you do that first, you will have no complaints levelled against you. The people themselves will have no complaints because they will be the ones, initially, who started the whole process.

"Do not do it above, as has been the case so often in the past when dealing with the original inhabitants of this country; because, if you make an agreement above, then you superimpose it on the individuals concerned."

But who started this process? Not the Eskimos but Mr. Levesque. Who have been the negotiators? The top people in two governments. Consultation, without a referendum, is to be the end of the process. As Mr. Nielsen charged, the inference is that the Eskimos will be presented with a "fait accompli."

Natives Alarmed

Mr. Rheaume's testimony was of particular interest because he has lived among the Eskimos. He said that they were extremely alarmed by developments. He had been assured by an Eskimo at Fort Chimo that the people there would probably pack up and move away from the Quebec mainland.

This is by no means an isolated report. Mr. Gerald Waring, who visited Great Whale and Fort Chimo last September, found the people solidly opposed to a transfer. They have bitter memories of "the starvings" of pre-war days and will not risk a return to the rule of the "little government." Their plan is to move to the Belcher Islands; they hope to obtain the use of a 48-foot fishing boat for that purpose and, as Councillor Isaac Tookaluk said, "We want to take our schools with us."

Other groups are said to be considering Baffin Island. Such a move would be unfortunate because northern affairs, according to a recent release, has had more difficulty there than elsewhere in arranging for the schooling of Eskimo children.

There is some point, therefore, to Mr. Nielsen's suggestion that if the two governments are not prepared to change their plans, there ought to be some assurance that Eskimo groups wishing to move will be compensated for their removal and resettlement expenses, including the transfer of community property.

While the Eskimo fears may appear exaggerated, it is worth observing that white people also reach opinions in the light of their own experiences and such opinions have always been considered worthy of respect.

Mr. Martineau, as a loyal Quebecker, approached the question from a slightly different standpoint. He felt that the advantages of a Quebec administration were so evident that they would be quite clear to the Ungava Eskimos. He therefore had no fears of a referendum and he pointed out that 80 per cent of the Eskimos use their franchise in federal elections. (Mr. Rheaume, indeed, had cited instances of Eskimo families who travelled three days and nights in bitter winter weather in order to reach the polls; an exercise in civic virtue which certainly compares well enough with what we know in the south.)

Essentially, said Mr. Martineau, it was an issue of self-determination. "I am convinced that for those who live in the province of Quebec, the right of self-determination cannot be questioned. If there is a group in this country which should keep that right for itself and others, it is the people of the province of Quebec."

Puzzling Speech

It is precisely for this reason that Mr. Levesque's adamant speech against a referendum is so puzzling. Only the other day, in a speech to the Quebec City Chamber of Commerce, he said —with reference to French youth:

"It is necessary to show them that democracy is the best formula. It is the best formula which has yet been invented by man on earth for worldly affairs, to permit the weak to grow stronger as far as is humanly possible, to permit those who are normally silent to have a voice somewhere to express themselves, and to permit those who have the greatest need to be served."

The weak, the silent and those with the greatest need—a fair description, one would think, of the Ungava Eskimos. But somehow Mr. Levesque excludes them from his thought. There must be a different formula for them because, if they voted on their own future, it would be an "abuse of the democratic process."

Brer Rabbit tactics have seldom in the past achieved much success in stilling criticism in the House of Commons. It is as certain as anything can be that Parliament will hear more of the Ungava Eskimos. And, indeed, it should.

FROM WASHINGTON — By JOSEPH ALSOP

More of the Same 'If All Goes Well' in Viet Nam

SECRETARY McNamara's mission of inquiry in Viet Nam is universally supposed to have led to a Presidential decision to "go on with more of the same thing," at any rate until after the November election. In reality, far more subtle and, one must add, considerably more sombre decisions were made by President Johnson after the Defence secretary and his companion made their report at the White House. To begin with, the surface decision to "go on with more of the same thing" had a crucial conditional clause—"if all goes well."

Alsop

Arrangements have already been made by Secretary McNamara and his new State Department partner, Assistant Secretary William Bundy, to keep the closest and most realistic day-today watch on developments in Viet Nam. The purpose is to insure the earliest possible warning if all does not go well.

As a further check, it was also decided at the White House that Secretary McNamara would undertake another mission of inquiry in Viet Nam in the fairly near future — probably in June.

In fact, a better way to summarize the gist of the main White House decisions would be to say: "We'll see how it goes until we take another on-the-spot look; we'll do everything we can to help in the meanwhile, and, above all, we'll keep a sharp watch to see if we need to do more at once."

The vital point to note here is that direct action against North Viet Nam, in reprisal for its more and more flagrant treaty violations, is most emphatically not excluded until after the November election, or for any other period of time. It is only excluded for the present "if all goes well." But the Vietnamese war is highly likely to be widened without delay if the trend seems to be turning dangerously downward.

Preparations

For just this reason, preparations are already being made for the various kinds of direct action against North Viet Nam that are considered most likely to get good results. All will soon be in readiness, on an if-as-and-when basis. President Johnson will only have to say the word "go" if he finds that this is needful.

Furthermore, the chances are strong that the outcome of the McNamara mission would have been even more stern if it had not been for the new military leader of Viet Nam, Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

The Defence secretary asked General Khanh about direct action against the North Vietnamese Communists. In reply, General Khanh said that first of all he needed more time to build himself a solid base of support in South Viet Nam.

General Khanh influenced the McNamara report in another way, too—by the strong impression he made on the whole party.

"We found that the situation was about as bad as we had expected," one of McNamara's party has said; "but we also found that General Khanh was even better than our highest hopes."

Because of the vigor, the grasp of his problems and the effective leadership of the army displayed by General Khanh, McNamara and his group in fact concluded that it was a safe bet to give the new Vietnamese leader more time to see what he could do—just as General Khanh himself requested.

The bet is hardly that General Khanh will repel the Communist aggression against South Viet Nam with a mere increase of U.S. aid in the South. It is acknowledged that something more may well have to be done in the end. But it will clearly be far better to do this something more when Khanh has some proof of progress to show.

The bet recommended by McNamara after he returned from Saigon in truth has a negative character. It is a bet against certain things happening in the near future, such as a successful "neutralist" coup in Saigon.

Some forces in Saigon, almost certainly including the French underground riet in South Viet Nam, are still hard at work to promote a coup. But Khanh seems strong enough and sure enough of his following in the army to make another coup appear a rather minor risk, at any rate for the next months.

Communist Build-Up

A greater risk exists, to be sure, in the form of the increased reserves of men and weapons, including some heavy weapons, that the Communists have been building up in protected areas, particularly in Central Viet Nam.

The North Vietnamese commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, has an old trick of building up reserves until he has local superiority and then throwing them in for a quick strike to change the whole pattern of the fighting.

But this risk, too, is still considered small enough to be acceptable. It is to be hoped the the risks have been rightly judged.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Laws for Different People?

Would, or could, someone enlighten me as to why Mr. Harry Haigh has been constantly bothered and bugged by authorities to the point of having to appear in court at times, yet smoke and cinder dischargers seemingly continue, and have continued over the years to violate necessary bylaws, thereby annoying numerous people, including tourists, causing much nuisance, discomfort and damage, and still they are left pretty well alone hoping that time itself will solve the problem, goodness knows for how many more years.

Could it be, there are stringent bylaws for individuals, but that certain businesses are immune to city bylaws because of the nature of their business?

How often have we been led to believe it will only be a matter of a few weeks or months before we can look forward to enjoying cleaner, fresher air?

VERY PUZZLED.

Bye-bye Blackbird

It seems not to occur to members of the Solarium Junior League that the "minstrel show" entertainment is distasteful to a large section of the inhabitants of North America.

The Negro is no longer happy to be looked upon as an easy-going banjo-strumming figure of fun, nor are many white parents happy to have their children get such an idea through the entertainment medium. Even American television has been forced to change in this respect.

Perhaps next year, to mark International Co-operation Year, the Solarium Junior League will consider doing a musical show without benefit of black paint.

Sounding Off Again

I see that Mr. Gaglardi is again sounding off on his favorite theme "The fast driver is the safe driver," to which is added an astonishing statement—"Safety campaigns are not only a bore but a menace."

The truth is that it is the speaker who is a "bore and a menace." But this is the line of reasoning, or rather non-reasoning, that we have come to expect from this man.

In fact, his obsession with speed is adolescent in itself, and dangerous, in that he is pulling all his weight to change the laws in order to satisfy it.

There is another gem from his speech in Los Angeles—"Safety campaigns scare the timid and emotionalize danger." Unravel that one, if you can!

Gaglardi admits that it burns him up to get a ticket and has had six so far. Well, perhaps that could be fixed. He should ask his chief to pass one of those handy "orders in council" giving to "One Phil Gaglardi the freedom of the highways, freedom from speed laws and safety campaigns et al, with motto 'the sky's the limit' and let the chips fall where they may."

After all, Gaglardi is not concerned with the chips—the newspapers will only dramatize them anyway.

D.R.

Slow Pokes and Others

I was particularly interested in the wishes of Honorable P. Gaglardi, minister of highways, to have the speed of automobiles increased, and his stated opinion that speed, as such, is not entirely responsible for the serious, and often times, fatal accidents on our provincial highways of B.C.

As an auto driver of many years experience, both private and professional, I have come to the conclusion that these same accidents are not caused by speed in itself, but through the failure of the drivers affected to use their judgment and common sense. Bad timing is an important factor also, and lacking these all-important considerations is, in most instances, the cause of so many crashes, fatal and otherwise, which occur on the splendid highways in our lovely province.

I have observed so many drivers of auto vehicles commit the most flagrant breaches of driving ability that it is a wonder to me that these same drivers ever obtained their licences to drive in the first place!

Another violation of considerate handling of an automobile on the road is the frequent instance of "slow poking" or crawling along at 25 to 30 miles per hour in 50 and 60 mph zones thereby holding up the traffic behind which is travelling at the designated speed. Such lack of common sense consideration should be jumped upon by the police patrol—were they to be on the job—for obstructing traffic.

The apparent reckless and ignorant behavior of so many motorists surprises me not a little.

No High Pressure

Regarding the high cost of funerals —This may apply to other cities but we found here in Victoria that the kindly men of the funeral homes did no pressuring into high priced funerals.

On the contrary, we were taken to a large room where caskets ranging from low to high prices were clearly marked. We were left alone to choose whichever we wanted, which happened to be the second lowest in price. The utmost courtesy and kindliness was shown to us.

FAIR PLAY.

ON THE TIMES — By ART STOTT

In Spite of My Western Heroes

IN a decade or two of informal research on the Western story (this is the way I gloss over my depraved taste in escape reading), I have been deeply impressed by the almost total disregard of the heroes and the villain for the institution of the bath.

Stott

The hero rides into town periodically from the range and once per novel he goes to the barber shop, has a haircut and shave and then wanders into the backroom, where a tub has been filled with hot water by the bucketful. He has a real scrub—his gunbelt beside him on a chair. This one sluicing lasts a whole novel, and a novel can run over several weeks or months in time.

This has left me wondering, until a few years ago when I learned that a gracious young lady of my acquaintance was raised as a girl on a Montana ranch. As delicately as I could I brought up the question of the cowboy and the bath. Her reply was frank and removed my doubts.

"Cowboys," she said, "whew! I grew up with them. If I never catch the scent of a cowboy again, it'll suit me fine. Nice boys, mind you, but they have a complete contempt for the Lifebuoy ads. At least the ones I knew did."

Well, if they can ignore the soap opera sentiment of some commercials I've heard, more power to them—literally.

* * *

Of recent days, I've developed a certain sympathy for them. There isn't much of the pioneer in my life. The closest I come to it is the time spent at the cottage.

In the summer the problem of the bath is relatively unimportant. A man can build up a good, healthy sweat working around the place and then merely put on a pair of trunks, pack a cake of soap down to the lake, immerse himself and scrub like crazy. It isn't as effective as a hot bath, but it lets people who like people be liked.

At this time of the year there's a difference. In an earlier stage of life I indulged in Eastertime plunges—mainly out of bravado. Now my guide and counsellor tells me I've passed that phase.

"You're tissues have aged a mite," she explains. "So has your physique generally. And if you think I'm going to wade into that cold water to pull you out, you're nuts. Better not try it. You'd make the lake kind of untidy and maybe unsanitary."

So I have concocted a substitute bath, not because I'm unduly fastidious, but because I need some form of hydro-therapy to wake me in the mornings.

The substitute is an old galvanized bucket in the bottom of which I have bored a hole. Into the hole, with an ingenious assortment of nuts and gaskets made of old inner tubes I have fixed a pipe. The bucket rests on the top step outside the entry door and the pipe angles down through a wall into an excavation which is becoming my basement. On the end of the pipe is a tap and a bath spray.

Before retiring at night I half-fill the bucket with cold water. Then I put three kettles on the stove to heat. In the morning I take the boiling water, put it into the half-bucket of cold and have the ingredients of a shower. This is done in the half-light of dawn when a man's commuting from the lake in the first days of spring.

* * *

There are drawbacks. It takes a certain fortitude to roll out of a warm bed, peel off pyjamas and wrap a towel around your waist before you pack kettles to the doorstoop for pouring. It's cold out there.

It's cold in what I call my basement, too. And once the spray is dribbling water down on you, you have to scrub like mad to soap and rinse before the bucket runs empty. When the warm water's all gone, you pick up a surface of gooseflesh in the dank basement. But you're awake.

When you've towelled yourself nearly dry, and wound the towel around your waist again it has the clammy touch of Dracula. Still, it's better, I guess, than when I used to hang my bucket from a tree limb and the winds whistled around.

I mentioned the discomforts to my guide and counsellor this morning at breakfast and suggested that maybe the men in the Western stories had a practice worth emulating.

"Maybe they have," she said. "But if you follow their lead, don't be surprised if the people at the office start moving away from you. Had you considered the possibility of installing a bathroom here?"

I had. And somehow I think the plumbers are going to win out over the cowboys, even if the good guys in my Westerns never lose.

HOME GARDEN — By JACK BEASTALL

Mulch Mixed Blessing for Trees

Most gardening manuals advise a mulch of some sort over the root area of newly-planted fruit and ornamental trees.

Jack

At first glance this appears a sound practice since the material used will keep the soil cool during hot weather as well as prevent rapid loss of moisture.

But it opposes the practice of giving newly-set plants a thorough soaking periodically and permitting the soil to partially dry out and take in air between times.

The thorough soaking permits the plant to take its present requirements of moisture; the partial drying out causes the roots to go deeper in search of more moisture; the air which penetrates the soil stimulates healthy root growth at the time the roots are extending in their search.

Providing the plant is not permitted to suffer from lack of water, this soak-and-dry-out method encourages a sound root system in a relatively short period.

The mulching practice maintains constant moisture throughout the root area with no provision for partial drying and the replacement of moisture with air.

Under this condition there is no need for roots to stretch in order to reach moisture because it already surrounds them, and sturdy roots are not made due to lack of air.

The result is a tree without anchors, waiting to be toppled by the first strong wind.

Eight pear trees were planted at Saanichton Experimental Farm in 1950, four of which received a constant three-inch sawdust mulch and four were clean cultivated.

The mulched trees made remarkable growth while the unmulched did little more than hold their own. Neither group received artificial watering.

In 1953 it was reported that an October gale had toppled the mulched trees which had produced large top growth and poor root growth. The unmulched trees were not affected.

This shows that mulches are a mixed blessing, beneficial in one way and detrimental in another, and it suggests that we home gardeners should think twice before using a mulch to save ourselves some labor.

Bonn Split In Attitude Toward Reds

BONN (AP)—West Germany's leadership is split on how to handle the Communists in the East. The question is being asked: Is the firm line that Konrad Adenauer laid down in his 14 years as chancellor collapsing?

The answer is that the line was wavering for some years before he handed over to Ludwig Erhard as head of the West German government last October. It may shift even more radically in the future. The reasons seem beyond German control.

Adenauer, still head of the dominant Christian Democratic party, agreed Friday to meet the opposition Socialists and try for a bipartisan policy on helping the 17,000,000 Germans under Communist rule. That was never necessary while Adenauer was in office.

He laid down the policy and others went along or lumped it. Mostly they went along. But now things have changed.

Before Adenauer retired, West Germany signed its first agreement with a Communist nation—Poland—to exchange permanent high-level trade missions. Similar agreements followed with Romania and Hungary. A fourth was signed with Bulgaria on Friday.

It is now almost five months since Adenauer left office. Little has happened that could not have happened under his rule, but the feeling persists that a new era has begun.

"Guess who?"

AFTER 25 YEARS

Spain Celebrates Cautious Comeback

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Spain celebrates the 25th year of Franco's regime today much like a greying and once-gored majador making a cautious comeback in the bullring of world affairs.

When Franco entered Madrid in triumph April 1, 1939, it marked the end of bloody three-year civil war that had involved the passions of most of the civilized world. The generalissimo promptly imposed an authoritarian rule that politically isolated Spain from the rest of Europe and economically suspended the country between two centuries.

But in recent months Spain has shown signs of wanting to break out of her isolation, to complete her evolution into modern times. She joined the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in 1963 and this month is negotiating hopefully for associate membership in the European Common Market.

Spanish trade delegations are fanning out towards Moscow a Africa, Cuba and the Far East. Fraga Iribarne, the Spanish information minister, has been busy apologizing for Spain's apparently reactionary institutions during goodwill visits to London and other European capitals.

START NEW PROGRAMS

Inside Spain huge public works programs have begun; a four-year development plan was launched in January with the hopes of attracting foreign capital; students and trades unions are growing more bold in their protests against restrictions on activities; a church - inspired opposition, the Opus Dei, is beginning to challenge Franco's F lange party.

But Franco's writ still runs, and runs strong enough to worry any democrat with a liberal conscience. Spaniards are paying the price for their 25 years of peace under Franco's guidance.

Press censorship is still so much in evidence that last year when Julian Grimau was executed—on dubious evidence of being a Communist—Spaniards reading official newspapers only learned of his arrest two weeks after his trial and execution.

Spain is still a country where striking miners are imprisoned and allegedly tortured, where Basques and Catalans seeking ancient provincial rights are ruthlessly quelled and where the word "bed" is puritanically exorcised from a novel about an invalid.

The question remains why the Spaniards—a nation it love with the gaiety of life and awed by the gravity of death—have suffered Franco's despotism for so long and seem prepared to put up with it indefinitely.

FRANCO OR CHAOS

One reason is inherent in their character. Franco has been kept in power because of the Spanish dread of having to face up to situations, the knowledge that no two Spaniards will agree and must forever be kept from each other's throats. The alternative to Franco was a revision to chaos.

GEN. FRANCO
. . . changing?

Another reason is materialistic. Under Franco, and with massive American aid, Spaniards are better fed and housed than ever. Peasants once content with a few pesetos are beginning to reap the golden harvest of currency carried into the county each year by tourists along the Costa Brava and the Costa Del Sol.

But Franco is 71 now. Who will follow him?

There is some talk of restoring the Bourbon monarchy, although the Monarchist party is hopelessly divided among at least three claimants to the throne Don Alfonso XIII abandoned in 1931.

More likely real power will be transferred to Spain's new generation, a generation of professional and European - minded civil servants that has grown up unhaunted by the bitter ghosts of the civil war and the aristocratic flories of times passed.

GOULART ABANDONS MIDDLE ROAD

Wealthy Rancher Heads Left-Leaning Brazil Gov't

By EDGAR MILLER

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—After a middle - road course failed to pull Brazil out of its social and economic growing pains, President Joao Goulart turned back last summer to his Communist supporters.

The move brought Brazil today to its most serious crisis since 1961, when the country hovered on the brink of civil war while conservative forces tried to stop Goulart from becoming president because of his past links with the radical labor movement.

Then as now, the powerful conservative element feared Goulart would hand Latin America's largest nation to Communists or at the least would curtail conservative political and economic power. Only a compromise, instituting a parliamentary system that sharply cut presidential powers, prevented bloodshed.

Goulart swung back to the left last August after dropping his ambitious three-year plan for economic recovery. The reason: Some of the belt-tightening it called for stirred enough public opposition to make Goulart fear for his popularity.

He fired his cabinet and appealed openly to leftist labor men who had treated him coolly during his two-year period of moderate government.

With the collapse of Goulart's program, the economic crisis mounted, inflation toward the end of 1963 sent Brazil's cost of living up more than 100 per cent for the year. Widespread strikes broke out as workers demanded more money. Politieal opposition stiffened. Military unrest grew.

Goulart, already armed with normal presidential powers reinstated in a plebiscite, asked Congress last October to empower him to declare a state of siege. Congress refused and stayed in session through Christmas to block such a move by executive decree.

On New Year's Day Goulart served notice of an all-out push to ram social and constitutional reforms through Congress.

These proposals include legalizing the Communist party, which was outlawed in 1947; measures to facilitate his executive decree expropriating hundreds of thousands of acres of farmland and turning it over to landless peasants; broadening of presidential powers; and giving the vote to 20,000,000 illiterate peasants and servicemen.

SPEAK FOR GOULART

Goulart threw in his lot with the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Workers, Brazil's largest labor union, to press for public support of his reforms. The labor organization staged rallies throughout Brazil for Goulart to speak on behalf of his proposals.

As the political protege of longtime dictator Getulio Vargas, Goulart has been accused of manoeuvring for constitutional changes to allow him to run for re-election in October, 1965, and set up a perpetual Vargas - type regime. Goulart has denied this.

Vargas pulled Goulart into the political spotlight, naming him labor minister in 1954. Vargas soon had to dismiss Goulart, however, when 82 army colonels charged he was using the cabinet post to strengthen his supporters in labor organizations.

Although a wealthy rancher, Goulart became the darling of leftist labor elements and rose to head the Brazilian Labor party. He was elected vice-president in 1955 on a coalition ticket with Social Democrat Juscelino Kubitschek, then again in 1960 with Janio Quadros.

Despite his high office, Goulart continued his labor union activities. President Quadros, also sympathetic to leftists and particularly the Cubans, sent Goulart to Communist China in 1961 to study possible trade relations. While Goulart was away, Quadros resigned, and the military finally let the vice-president take over.

'OFF SEASON' RATES TOO

Atlantic Air Fares Reduced Today

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Air Transport Association announced Tuesday member airlines operating over the North Atlantic have unanimously agreed to a new schedule of fares "substantially below previous levels."

The new fares were to take effect today.

The economy fare, one-way, between Montreal and London would be $258.40 during the 10½ weeks of the summer season and $209.80 the rest of the year. The fare has been $267.10 the year round.

First-class one-way fares between the two cities would be $390.30 the year round compared with the old rate of $498.40.

First-class round-trip would be $741.60 compared with $947.

The economy class round-trip fare, which has been $507.50 the year round, would be $491 in the summer season and $398.70 in the off-season.

The old 21 - day excursion round-trip rate of $355.70 would be reduced to $289.50.

Mails Robbed Near Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Armed bandits held up two mail trucks Tuesday night in the Montreal area.

In downtown Montreal, seven armed and masked men drove off in one truck with 10 bags of mail after handcuffing the driver and his assistant.

In Caughnawaga, a community across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal, two men, armed with revolvers, escaped on foot after holding up the driver of a mail truck parked in front of the post office.

TOTAL NOT KNOWN

The value of the bags stolen in both cases was not immediately known.

The Gazette this morning reported the loot in the Montreal holdup included $400,000 in cash. The newspaper said two of the 10 bags contained money destined for an east-bound train and was to pay workers at construction projects at Baie Comeau, Que., and Manicouagan, Que.

A Hydro-Quebec spokesman said this couldn't be so because workers are paid by bank deposit slips, negotiable at a bank near the project.

Police and post office officials were unable to confirm the reports. One Montreal police spokesman, however, disclosed the mail bags did contain money and the amount stolen "could be quite high."

NO ARRESTS MADE

Police said no arrests have been made in connection with either holdup.

In the Montreal holdup, the truck, containing mail for the northern part of the city, was cut off by another truck a few blocks from the CNR central station.

The post office employees were forced into the second vehicle and handcuffed. Then the thieves drove away in the mail truck.

In Caughnawaga, the mail truck driver was forced into the trunk before the bandits ran off.

In neither case were the post office employees seriously hurt.

GRAHAM

NEXT YEAR

Billy Graham Invitation Seen Likely

An invitation to Billy Graham to bring his "crusade" to Victoria next year appeared the likely outcome of a meeting of some 30 church representatives today.

The subject was to be discussed at a fellowship meeting in the YWCA of the Victoria Council of Churches.

Rev. Robert Birch and Ronald Brown, who are in charge of arranging the scheduled Graham Crusade in Vancouver next year, were to address the meeting and also show a film strip of one of Mr. Graham's crusades.

Local representatives last January ascertained from Mr. Graham's Canadian agent, Leighton Foord, that a crusade could be brought here if there was formal support from the clergy.

"I think it would be a wonderful opportunity for the people of Victoria," commented Rev. H. Gordon Walker, chairman of the committee on evangelism for the local council. He was to preside at today's meeting.

. . . ALASKA

it was obvious that Alaska's already depleted tax revenue couldn't begin to handle the huge tasks ahead.

FISHING HIT HARD

The state's most famous industry — fishing — was more than 50 per cent destroyed.

Sections hardest hit by the quake and waves produced 33.4 per cent of Alaska's salmon pack, primarily pinks, last year 65.5 per cent of the king crab pack, and 61.1 per cent of the dungeness crab pack.

Some 4,000 Alaskans in the earthquake area were engaged full time in the fishing industry last year. Another 12,000 derived some income from it.

The important king crab packing community of Port Wakefield, heart of the free world's largest king crab processing industry, apparently escaped with little damage, Egan reported.

The governor told a press conference in Anchorage the disaster probably would have no adverse effect on the state's tourist promotion program. Many residents hoped visitors would flock to south central Alaska to see "where it happened."

PRODUCTION CONTINUES

Most production facilities in the fledgling Alaska oil industry on the Kenai Peninsula escaped unscathed. Distribution facilities suffered heavily, however.

The Standard Oil Company of California said its distribution facilities loss would run to several million dollars but it expected to resume normal operations soon.

Union Oil Company would say only its losses were heavy.

The awesome power of two 80-foot tidal waves which swept away the entire village of Chenega—with the sole exception of the school—was described by Christine Madson, a schoolteacher.

She said 23 of the villagers, including 10 children, were swept away.

"Babies were carried right out of their mothers' arms," the Long Beach, Calif., woman said.

"The waters swept in and went back out, carrying away the houses and buildings. Not even debris remained."

Sketch of "Y" Building

FUND STILL SHORT

Flying Start Given New 'Y'

Construction of the new YM-YWCA building was started Tuesday, although the fund drive is $200,000 to $250,000 short of its main objective.

Work started immediately after G. H. Wheaton of Victoria and Marwell Construction of Vancouver signed a $1,028,282 contract for the three-storey concrete building on Quadra between Courtney and Broughton.

Campaign chairman Hugh Stephen reported at the annual meeting Tuesday night that $1,110,000 has been collected. He was confident the remaining $28,000 to make the immediate objective of $1,138,000 can be collected.

Estimated total cost is $1,347,024. This includes $78,474 for purchase of the site, $77,718 for architects and consultants, $92,000 for landscaping and the remainder is a calculated amount for shrinkage in pledges and campaign expenses.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE

Mr. Stephen recommended that if necessary another clean-up campaign be organized in 12 to 18 months to raise the remaining $200,000.

Reporting on the campaign he said he was "aghast that it (YM-YWCA) attracts so little support in this town in view of the work it does."

Building chairman Joseph Cunliffe reported the new building will be completed in a year. It will include a gymnasium, 25-metre swimming pool, restaurant, girl's residence, youth centre, health clubs, a roof track and multiple meeting rooms.

The building, first dreamed of in 1948, will go into operation for the fall program in 1965.

James McConnell, managing-director of the YM-YWCA, said negotiations for the sale of the old buildings had reached a deadlock, but directors predicted there will be no difficulty in selling for $140,000 or more.

Newly-elected officers are K. O. Wright, president; S. J. Cunliffe, H. N. Cliff and F. G. Rainsford, vice-presidents; J. H. Bramley, Honorary treasurer; D. G. J. Humphries, honorary secretary; D. R. Abbott, past president and members-at-large Dr. A. F. McGill and Mrs. C. Savage.

FAMILY PARTY today marked the 79th birthday of Lady Churchill. She and Sir Winston have been spending the Easter holidays at Chartwell. Her secretary said "Lady Churchill is extremely well."

Social Credit 'Anti-Education'

HANEY (CP)—Dr. Patrick L. McGeer, Liberal MLA for Vancouver-Point Grey, said Tuesday night that Premier Bennett's Social Credit government is the most anti-educational in Canada.

Addressing a party meeting in this Fraser Valley centre he accused the government of applying the "brakes" to education and added:

"Bulldozers should be breaking ground this very minute for junior colleges, for vocational additions to secondary schools and for technical institutes all over British Columbia.

MONEY IS THERE

"The federal government has made the necessary money available to the province to do the job—$54,000,000 of it. But figures released by the federal government show that, as of today, less than 15 per cent of this money has been spent and less than 20 per cent applied for."

He said the "performance of the B.C. government is disgraceful" and that only two other provinces — he did not name them—have done less.

All the province needed to do to take full advantage of the federal assistance offer is to contribute 25 per cent of the capital costs or about $18,000,000, which was just "about one-half" of the province's liquor profits for a single year.

New Hospital Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Eric Martin Tuesday confirmed reports a new hospital is in the offing for suburban Richmond. Tenders have already been called for a 132-bed institution with plans permitting expansion to 300 beds when needed, Mr. Martin said.

JAPAN PLEA TO HALT GOODS BAR

GENEVA (UPI) — Japan called the nations of the west today to stop discriminating against goods marked "Made in Japan."

Kiichi Miyazawa, Japanese minister of state and director general of economic agency planning, told the 122-nation United Nations development conference that speedy removal of discriminatory practices against Japan would enable it to contribute more fully to the expansion of trade of developing nations.

'Beware of Reds'

LONDON (AP)—The home office has warned Britain's government employees again of the security risk in contacts with Communist envoys. A circular ordered civil servants to report all contacts arising outside normal business.

A man who was discovered to be under suspension when he was picked up for impaired driving at the weekend was sent to jail for two months Tuesday.

Ian Lake, 1047 Southgate, was arrested on Government Street after he crashed into a parked car. He showed police his driving licence but a check by police showed he was under suspension.

It was Lake's second conviction for impaired driving and Magistrate Ostler imposed a one-month jail sentence on this charge.

He also imposed a one month additional sentence for driving while disqualified and prohibited Lake from driving anywhere in Canada for two years.

Fulbright Aggravates Free China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationalist China registered a complaint with State Secretary Dean Rusk Tuesday against Senator J. W. Fulbright's call last week for more flexibility in U.S. policy toward Communist China.

Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsiang, after a 20-minute meeting with Rusk, said: "I told the secretary the Fulbright speech, in my mind and in the mind of my government, is very damaging."

Tsiang told reporters he thought Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and Senate foreign relations committee chairman, should "read and re-read" the 30,000-word statement issued by Communist China Monday denouncing Soviet Premier Khrushchev's peaceful co-existence line and re-affirming violent revolution as the road to communism.

'Graduates' in Audience For Nelson Boys' Choir

By AUDREY JOHNSON

What is probably the last tour that will be undertaken by the Nelson Boys' Choir under its founder-director, Mrs. T. J. S. Ferguson, brought the 33-year-old ensemble to Victoria for the first time Tuesday night.

The boys sang a comprehensive program at First United Church under sponsorship of the Christian education committee of the church.

They were welcomed by the minister, Rev. Robert J. D. Morris who was one of the original boys when the choir was formed in 1931.

Founded as a congregational group of St. Paul's United Church in Nelson, the choir is now non-denominational and believed to be the oldest boys' choir in Canada that has maintained uninterrupted activity under the same director.

Accompanying the boy sopranos in this spring tour are several alumni who add a pleasing texture with fine young male voices. Some of these also gave considerable pleasure to the large audience in solo numbers.

Mrs. Ferguson is obviously much "en rapport" with her singers. Her conducting is buoyant and promotes a lively, earnest effect.

The program included liturgical as well as secular numbers, and classical as well as modern composers.

There was a bit of trouble with intonation and occasional spreading of tone on forte passages but generally the sound of the choir is most pleasing and rhythm and direction excellent.

As guest artist, former Nelson choir boy Donald Brown of Vancouver, exhibited a splendid lyric baritone and an outstanding musicianship that left his audience eager to hear more of this singer.

MASSIVE SHOT in the arm the Royal Canadian Navy gives Conquer Cancer Crusade is symbolized by this giant hypo in the arm of campaign treasurer K. L. Patton. At the other end of it is Cmdr. George R. Gray, co-ordinator of the fund-raising drive among naval personnel. Holding the "shot" is Lt.-Cmdr. (Nursing Sister) V. E. Cantwell. Said Mr. Patton afterwards: "The crusade can take a few more shots like this one."

HE'S REALLY IN THE HOLE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A hand-lettered sign appeared today in a crevice in Anchorage where the earth had sunk 30 feet for an area a half block wide and two or three blocks long.

The sign, written on cardboard with crayon, was attached to a concrete block office building that had broken in half and read:

"I knew making a living in Alaska would be tough but I didn't think I'd go in the hole like this."

CANCER DRIVE STARTS

'It's Up to You And I'—Dowell

The 1964 Conquer Cancer Campaign swings into action today in Greater Victoria with an objective of $55,000.

Goal for B.C. and the Yukon is $365,000 as part of the national drive for $3,964,000.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Reeves Allan Cox, Stanley Murphy and A. C. Wurtele and Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell called on all citizens to get behind the campaign to fight cancer.

The lieutenant-governor said "the fight against cancer is the largest and most costly single undertaking, in the history of medicine.

"Money is needed now to increase the growing fund of knowledge and bring closer the day when the clues accumulated by many scientists will add up to a successful cure for cancer."

Acting Mayor Dowell said the disease calls for concerted efforts by "doctors, researchers, educators and you and I."

Reeve Cox of Oak Bay said cancer is one of the greatest menaces of our time. He said that with other great diseases apparently under control this one stands out as the big challenge.

Press Corps Safe

DALLAS (UPI) — A four-engine turbo-prop airplane carrying the White House press corps lost an engine over east Texas Tuesday night but made a safe emergency landing in Dallas.

The pilot said after landing that one of the blades of the number three engine turbine broke and flew back into the rest of the engine, tearing it to pieces.

The plane, an American Airlines Lockheed Electra, was carrying the press corps and White House staff members back to Washington from Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin, Texas, after spending the Easter period at LBJ Ranch with the president. It was about 200 miles out of Bergstrom when the engine failed.

United Press International White House correspondent Helen Thomas said everyone aboard the plane remained calm.

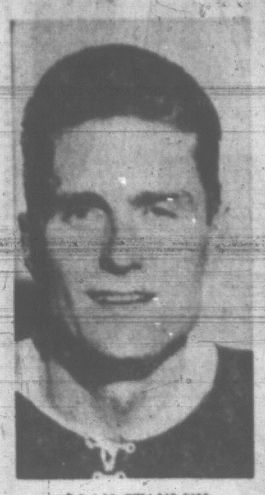
Pulford Had the Party But Habs Got Presents



ALLAN STANLEY
. . . the goat

HENRI RICHARD
. . . the hero

Stanley, Kelly 'Arrange' Soft Win for Canadiens

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs ruined Bob Pulford's birthday celebrations Tuesday night by giving all the big gifts to Montreal Canadiens.

The 28-year-old centre tried to get his teammates in a party mood by breaking the ice with two festive goals, but then two of his most stalwart friends ruined the whole affair by handing gift-wrapped pucks to the enemy.

"They were my best two men on the ice all night," moaned a mirthless Punch Imlach, manager-coach of the Leafs.

He was referring to left-winger Red Kelly and defenceman Allan Stanley who laid perfect passes on the sticks of Canadiens J. C. Tremblay and Henri Richard in the last three minutes of the third game of the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Tremblay's and Richard's goals, added to a first-period counter by Claude Provost, wiped out Pulford's dual effort and the Canadiens won 3-2, thereby taking a 2-1 lead in the series and once again establishing themselves as favorites to advance to the final.

Imlach and coach Toe Blake of Montreal found themselves in virtual agreement after the game.

Said Blake: "We stole it."

Said Imlach: "We gave it away."

Whether the win was a theft or a gratuity, it was a bitter setback to the Leafs, who had dominated play throughout most of the game and seemed to be coasting to a win before the shocking errors by the two veterans.

"I could hardly believe it when Stanley put the puck on my stick," said Richard.

Switching between English and French, the happy Habitant explained to five tiers of reporters how he potted the winning goal with just 25 seconds remaining in the game.

"It sure was a big surprise. I think Stanley thought I was one of them and passed without looking. I just took off for the goal-I had no single guy shot at and was lucky enough to deke Johnny Bower."

You Could Slice the Silence

Stanley didn't stick around to explain his version. As he dashed from the oppressive silence of the Maple Leaf dressing room, he grumbled: "You saw it. I tried to clear the puck and Richard got in the way."

The goal came only two minutes and 10 seconds after a similar flub by Kelly whose clearing pass went awry and clicked on Tremblay's stick. The Montreal defenceman zipped a 30-footer through a field of players and past Bower.

"I didn't get enough lob on the pass," said Kelly. "It's as simple as that. It was a plain goof."

The Leafs blew several earlier chances to fatten their 2-1 lead. Both Pulford and Frank Mahovlich hit the goal post after beating netminder Charlie Hodge.

"Charlie kept us in the game," said a bubbling Blake. "Now you can see why he won the Vezina Trophy."

All is not lost, according to Imlach, who ordered his players out for a workout today and invited them to a special showing of film on the three Montreal goals.

"We have to do again what we already have proved we can do—win on Montreal ice. We're going back there to do it again."

Stanley, whose expert performance during the first 59½ minutes could easily be forgotten because of his one indiscretion, set up Pulford's first-period goal with a perfect pass around Tremblay. The birthday boy beat Hodge cleanly with a short, sharp shot.

Only 41 seconds later Richard started his personal ruination of the Leafs by setting up Provost in the centre-ice zone. Provost got by Stanley, hit Bower's pads and then fired in his own rebound.

'I Can't Crucify Them'—Punch

In the second period Pulford did the lion's share of work for his own second goal by taking a hot pass from Eddie Shack in the Montreal zone. With Terry Haper leaning on him, he relayed the puck to Ron Stewart who deposited a sizzler on Hodge's pads.

The Canadiens argued that Hodge had held Stewart's shot long enough for a whistle before Pulford jammed it in, but referee Vern Buffey couldn't be sold on the idea and the Leafs took the lead.

This set the scene for Toronto's double snafu, of which Imlach commented: "I've always said hockey is a game of mistakes, and we proved it tonight.

"What could I say to those guys?" He asked rhetorically. "They were my best in the first 2½ periods. I can't crucify them for one mistake."

Only injury of the game was a split nose suffered by Toronto defenceman Bob Baun when he got in the way of a rising shot by Provost. Baun, who was shaken up by Dave Balon earlier, received a few stitches and will be ready for Thursday's fourth game here.

Balon, fanatically aggressive throughout the game, was given two of the game's 13 minor penalties and was assessed a 10-minute misconduct for jostling Buffey in the third period.

In the close-calls department, Hodge lost one rebound on the back of his pads as he sprawled, made a dramatic save on Dave Keon after Tim Horton had set him up with an end-to-end solo rush and stopped Don McKenney three times on tip shots in front of the net.

Hodge's 28 saves were more vital than Bower's 26, many of which were made on shots from outside the blueline.

OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD

Following futile pattern set Tuesday night by Chicago Black Hawks, defenceman Pierre Pilote fails in attempt to score and for his trouble takes headdr over Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk in second period of playoff game at Detroit. Sawchuk climbed out of hospital bed to blank Hawks 3-0 and give Red Wings 2-1 lead in Stanley Cup semi-final. (AP Wirephoto.)

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

NEW YORK—Playing baseball with college men in Maine, Louis Sockalexis was so phenomenal that he inspired Gilbert Patten to create the immortal Frank Merriwell under the pen name of Burt L. Standish.

D. Donald Adams of the Ricker Classical Institute, a preparatory school at Houlton, Maine, asked Ken Smith, director of the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., for information on Louie Sockalexis, who at one time attended the institute. Adams wanted the information to use in alumni work. Smith referred Adams to this department, having recalled a story we wrote about Sockalexis some years ago. Graybeards considered him baseball's most tragic figure.

Such fine judges as John J. McGraw and Andy Coakley, who pitched for the Athletics in the days of Waddell, Bender, Plank and Coombs and coached Columbia for years, called Sockalexis the greatest ball player they ever saw. Hughey Jennings said that potentially the first Indian to crash major league baseball was the finest player.

"Sockalexis had a gorgeous left-hand swing and hit the ball almost as far as Babe Ruth," recalled Coakley. "He was faster than Ty Cobb and as good a base runner. He had the outfielding skill of Tris Speaker. No one could throw a ball farther or more accurately."

His Homer Off Rusie Made History

Sockalexis, a shade under six feet, weighing 190 pounds and built like a race horse, ran 100 yards in 10 seconds flat.

Mike (Doc) Powers, the catcher who later was to meet an untimely death while with the Athletics, induced Sockalexis, a full-blooded Penobscot, to accompany him to Holy Cross, where he started building himself as a legendary figure in 1895-96.

Jesse Burkett, renowned as a .400 hitter, was the Holy Cross coach and took young Sockalexis to Cleveland with him. Within a few weeks, Sockalexis, with his perfect Indian profile, was the most discussed player in the business. In the day of the dead ball, he batted .331 in 66 games at the first asking. He made eyes pop out.

Sockalexis' home run off the fireball king, Amos Rusie, in his first trip to the plate at the Polo Grounds took its place in New York history with the purchase of Manhattan Island from the Indians.

A newspaper published a long story telling just how the mighty Rusie, the best pitcher of the day, was going to strike out the Indian upstart.

Hughey Jennings told how Rusie made his first pitch his famous fast-breaking curve, faster than most pitchers' speed ball, and how Sockalexis, undismayed by thousands of imitation war whoops from the stands, hit the ball over Mike Tiernan's head in centrefield for a home run.

White Man's Pace Was Too Swift

Sockalexis quickly became an idol but he found the white man's pace too swift. He lasted only three years in the National League and played little after the first.

Before he reached the National League, Sockalexis, son of the chief of the Penobscot tribe and a lovable character, drank nothing stronger than water or milk. One evening a group of players took him out and talked him into drinking a glass of whisky.

The drink sealed Sockalexis' fate. He liked the taste of bourbon and, once having discovered it, couldn't leave it alone. He became a hopeless drunkard. He was not incorrigible. He just couldn't take likker.

Sockalexis sank into the minors, but one manager after another gave up on him. He finally drifted out of the game and back to the reservation. He was suffering from rheumatism when he dropped dead several years later.

There is the story of Louis Sockalexis, Mr. Adams.

Not a very pretty one, but one they still talk about.

Reay Needs Answers Fast As Wings Clip His Hawks

DETROIT (CP)—It's beginning to look like 1963 all over again for Chicago Black Hawks. And somewhere in Colorado today, Rudy Pilous must be wagging his head knowingly.

He was the fall guy a year ago when the Hawks were ingloriously dumped out of the Stanley Cup semi-final by the underdog Detroit Red Wings. He shuffled off to the minors, to Denver of the Western Hockey League.

Rudy's bosses wanted the National Hockey League title badly but the Hawks fell apart in the later stages of the schedule, blew the championship and skated right out of the post-season frolics in six games.

Now, after losing the NHL title again and taking a 3-0 pasting by the ailing Terry Sawchuk and the Wings Tuesday night in the third game of the current semi-final, it is becoming increasingly apparent they are heading for another early windup with Billy Reay in the coach's hot seat.

The Hawks are behind 2-1 in this best-of-seven set because they can't stand prosperity. They walloped the Wings 4-1 in the opener last Thursday, bowed 5-4 to Bob Champoux, a raw rookie in the nets in place of the injured Sawchuk on Sunday, and continued to slide before 14,362 Olympia Stadium fans.

Unless they do some lineup juggling or somehow play up to their potential, they could be dead by next Sunday night. The fourth game is here Thursday and the clubs return to Chicago for another joust three nights later.

The changes could be made today. Reay indicated this minutes after the shutout when he told reporters: "We'll have to make changes soon, but let's wait until tomorrow." He has some minor-leaguers here itching to get into the lineup and the gossip is he may use one or two or switch lines.

Terry Sawchuk—Laughing Invalid

His big guns are firing blanks. Centre Stan Mikita, the NHL scoring champion with 39 goals and 50 assists, has scored only one goal in this series. Bobby Hull, a 43-goal prize, is still looking for his first of the series.

And while the Hawks were trying to figure just what was wrong, Sawchuk probably laughed all the way back to hospital for further treatment for his left shoulder. He was discharged from hospital just two hours before Tuesday night's game and headed right back after the shutout, his first in a playoff since he beat Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0 in a semi-final here March 21, 1961.

He said he still felt slight effects from the pinched nerve that forced him to leave last Sunday's game early and set the stage for the dramatic appearance of Champoux, the Montreal-born 21-year-old who played junior B hockey last year.

The 35-year-old Sawchuk's latest victory stretched his unbeaten string against Chicago on Olympia ice to 14 games. And he could have stayed in hospital and left the netminding chore to Roger Crozier, brought in by the Wings from Pittsburgh Hornets as his standby, because the Hawks had trouble locating the net.

Crozier watched the proceedings from the press box and today departs for Quebec City, where Hornets open their best-of-seven American Hockey League semi-final against the Aces. He is due back Thursday for another standby assignment.

Have Chicagoans Been Introduced?

While the Hawks were skating around and passing as if they had not been formally introduced, the Wings—with Gordie Howe prancing around like a teen-ager although celebrating his 36th birthday—did the job in a workmanlike fashion. And the Detroit defence, led by veterans Bill Gadsby and Marcel Pronovost, effectively smothered any would-be Hawk offence.

Two young guys—Bruce MacGregor, 23, and rookie Paul Henderson, 21,—gave Detroit a 2-0 lead and Alex Delvecchio, a 13-year Red Wing player, put the game out of reach with his 31st playoff goal at 17:43 of the third period.

MacGregor scored early in the first period with Mikita off for crosschecking. He coasted in front of Chicago goalkeeper Glenn Hall as Howe let go with a rising 50-footer and the puck caromed off his wrist into the net.

Henderson scored at 4:51 of the third period after a goalmouth scramble and Delvecchio took a perfect pass from Howe directly in front of the Hawk goal and casually poked the puck between Hall's legs.

Howe's two assists gave him 125 playoff points, just one short of the record held by former Montreal Canadiens right-winger Maurice Richard. The official scorer credited Howe with the first-period goal but he asked to have it credited to MacGregor in the intermission. "We won a hockey game, an important one, and it doesn't matter who gets the goals," he said later. "Now we're ahead and the Hawks have to chase us."

For a while it appeared that Frank Udvari was doing the chasing. He cracked down hard from the opening faceoff, sent 11 to the penalty box in the first period and from then on things settled down. He called 20 penalties, 10 to each club.

RACQUET CLUB HOSTS JUNIOR SHUTTLE EVENT

This is the big week for B.C.'s young badminton players.

Play started this morning in the annual B.C. junior championships at the Racquets Club courts.

Approximately 100 competitors from throughout the province are entered in events in two divisions—under 15 and under 17.

Finals will be played Friday evening.

Hamilton Squad Surprises Saints

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Hamilton Quigleys came from behind in the fourth quarter Tuesday night and defeated the Vancouver CYO Saints 63-58 to tie the Canadian junior men's basketball final at one game each.

Third game in the best-of-five series will be played Wednesday night and a fourth game Friday. A fifth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Saturday.

The game was a stormy, ragged affair as 46 personal fouls were called, 23 against each team. The Quigleys, who lost Monday's opener 64-50, played the final five seconds with only four men on the floor.

Hamilton started with only seven players and lost Jim Dynia by a disqualification. Jerry Plasky and Tom Bondarenko went off the floor on five personal fouls.

Saints led 15-9 after the first quarter but Hamilton tied the score in the second, 29-29, and went ahead 44-43 in the third.

Saints took a 52-49 lead midway through the third quarter but the Quigleys, behind the scoring of Bob Patti and Brian Middlemiss, roared back. They went ahead to stay with two minutes left as Patti scored what proved to be the winning basket on a twisting layup.

Plasky, the individual star of the game, led both teams by scoring 17 points before he fouled out in the last minute. Middlemiss added 16 points for Hamilton and Patti had 15.

Roger Kettlewell and Brian Adams scored 15 and 14 points for the defending Canadian champion Saints as star centre Neil Williscroft was held to only seven points. Williscroft, who scored 32 points in the opening game, sat out most of the first half after he was assessed three fouls early in the game.

Soccer Battle Tonight

They're playing for a trophy that isn't there, but as far as Victoria United is concerned, that's beside the point.

The Pacific Coast Soccer League side, supposedly the city's best, hasn't been able to topple the District League's all-stars this season. In two previous matches, the select surprised United 3-2 and 3-0.

Tonight, at Royal Athletic Park, United and All-Stars tangle for the missing Tony Hope Trophy. The trophy fight is being revived after a two-year layoff.

Game time is 7:30.

The match will help United warm up for its PCSL date with New Westminster in Vancouver on Sunday. All-Stars are scheduled to return to action April 11, playing Vancouver in the second half of a home-and-home series.

Triangle Meeting

A general meeting of the Triangle Pony League will be held tonight at 8:15 in the Luxton Hall. Player registration will commence Saturday.

Mets Plan Scoreboard That Even Keeps Score

NEW YORK (AP)—A scoreboard, largest in the world, is being built for Shea Stadium which the Mets will open against Pittsburgh Pirates April 17. The board has 28,000 lights, shows movies, plays music in color and even keeps score.

A model was unveiled Tuesday at a Manhattan hotel. First, the inventor, Bob Roston, played some music on a tape recorder. Each musical note produced a different color on the white shell behind the scoreboard.

Roston's firm designed the exploding scoreboard for Chicago White Sox. He said this one will be much larger, but it will not explode.

Roston didn't say, but the reason probably is gun-powder could go stale waiting for the 10th-place Mets to hit a homer.

Instead the board will play music, flash the colors, display the words for songs, and show color slides of each player as he comes to bat.

The board can also show movies or television programs if a game is held up by rain.

This brought suggestions that the board be used to bring in other games on those frequent occasions when the Mets are behind 13-1 in the third inning.

Injured Boxer Dies

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Alejandro Lavorante, former Argentine heavyweight champion, died today in Mendoza City. He had been unconscious since Sept. 31, 1962, when he was knocked out by Johnny Riggins in a fight in Los Angeles, Calif. He was 27.

He remained in a Los Angeles hospital until May, 1963, when his father took him home to Argentina.

Lavorante never completely regained consciousness after his sixth-round knockout by Riggins. He recovered to the extent that he could walk, talk and eat, although he could not open his eyes.

Dad Makes Decision; He'll Date the Model

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Jack Segriff, a 32-year-old father of four, has decided to keep a dinner-dancing date with a pretty 19-year-old model so his wife can get a free spring outfit.

He won the prizes at a fivepin bowling contest March 22.

Segriff had a choice. He could have passed up the date with the model and taken out his wife while the model baby-sat. But his wife Audrey would not get the spring outfit.

Segriff will keep the date with Joanne Gayre of Toronto this Saturday.

A spokesman for the bowling alley said the spring outfit was donated and cost of the dinner-dancing date won't be known until they get the bill.

OLD AND ODD RIVALRY . . . . . TO CONTINUE NEXT YEAR

More in the Sporting Spirit

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Organizers of one of the world's oldest and oddest annual sports events agreed Tuesday to continue the contest next year.

The game is the more than 600-year-old bottle kicking rivalry between the villagers of Hallaton and Medbourne.

A spokesman for the committee that sponsors the game said: "The new committee set up to manage this year's game has agreed that the 1964 match was much cleaner and more in the sporting spirit. Happily, we are going to continue it."

Before Medbourne beat Hallaton 2 to 0 Monday, the following happened:

Bob Burrows, the Medbourne captain, was knocked unconscious.

Rafe Peters was unconscious for 28 minutes.

A girl spectator was carried off by ambulance, knocked cold by the contestants.

An unidentified Hallaton player had his shoulder dislocated.

"But it was much cleaner," said the spokesman. "Last year the players beat one another with belts and bottles."

The object of the game is to get two nine-pound casks of beer—called bottles—over the goal line. The players can kick the cask, run with it, throw it or wrestle it.

The players warm up for the game for two hours in neighboring pubs.

B.C. CHAMPS OUTCLASSED

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings bounced Kamloops Rockets from the western junior hockey playoffs with a 19-5 thrashing in the third game of their best-of-five series Tuesday.

Kings now meet Brandon in a best-of-seven series, the winners to play the Saskatchewan champions. The Edmonton-Brandon series opens in Winnipeg Friday.

Threats of Violence In Harness Squabble

A threat of musclemen and possible violence hung over "strike-bound" Blue Bonnets raceway in Montreal today.

Several owners who entered horses for Friday's scheduled opening, since postponed, "were threatened with violence," according to a track spokesman.

He added: "If there are muscle boys around the track, the drivers might be nervous and this could be very dangerous during a race."

Officials promptly called off the Friday card when only a handful of entries dribbled in following a squabble between horsemen and track owners.

The battle is over purse money. The track has offered 40 per cent of its nine per cent take of the mutuel handle. Horsemen want 47 per cent. The track is shooting for a Saturday opening but the word in Montreal is "wait."

'Lay Off or . . .' Lassman Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward Lassman, World Boxing Association president, is reported to have received threatening telephone calls, one implying he would be shot after he attempted to strip Cassius Clay of his world heavyweight championship.

The Senate anti-trust and monopoly sub-committee heard of this Tuesday from WBA counsel, Robert M. Summitt, who said one caller warned:

"If this is not discontinued you will get the same thing as JFK."

President Kennedy, often referred to as JFK, was shot and killed in Dallas last Nov. 22.

Summitt said the FBI has been asked to investigate the threat.

It was the last scheduled hearing by the sub-committee in its investigation of the Feb. 25 bout in which Clay upset Sonny Liston.

The hearing brought these other developments.

Sub - committee chairman Philip A. Hart (Dem.—Mich.), said "anyone who has sat through the hearings can depart with only one conclusion: That if the Kefauver bill is not passed the future of boxing is a dim one indeed." Testimony of secret money deals and possible underworld connections with boxers prove the need for the law, he said.

Lassman said that without federal backing his association is "hamstrung" in its efforts to clean up boxing.

Senator Kenneth Keating, (Rep.—N.Y.) urged approval of the Kefauver bill, saying in a statement the federal government must move in until "the fight game is rid of the leeches."

Machen May Be Next for Floyd

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wealthy sportsman Walter Minskoff, who manages heavyweight contender Eddie Machen, said Tuesday a title elimination fight in Sweden between Machen and former world champion Floyd Patterson is "98 per cent made."

Minskoff said one hurdle was cleared when he persuaded his brother Leo to bow out of the Machen-Patterson picture with his promotional organization, Civic Boxing Enterprises, Incorporated.

Civic had offered Patterson $15,000 or 40 per cent of gate receipts to box Machen in Los Angeles this summer.

"I convinced Leo my fighter could make more money fighting Patterson in Sweden than here," Minskoff said.

He said Al Bolan of New York would co-promote the match, probably in Stockholm in July, with Edwin Ahlquist of Sweden, Patterson's adviser.

Ehman Takes Scoring Title

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gerry Ehman of Rochester Americans won the American Hockey League scoring title with 85 points, one more than linemate Bronco Horvath. Ehman scored four points to Horvath's three in the final week.

The 31-year-old right winger captured his first scoring title and ended the three-year reign of Springfield Indians' Bill Sweeney, who finished 10th with 73 points.

Willie Marshall of Providence Reds, Brian Kilrea of Springfield and Cleland Mortson of Quebec Aces all finished tied at 83 in one of the closest scoring scrambles in AHL history.

Mount Pleasant Clouts Kittens

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mount Pleasant Legion took a two-game lead in the defence of the Canadian women's junior basketball championship Tuesday night, dumping the Hamilton Kittens, 56-40. Third game of the best-of-five series will be played tonight.

EAGLE BACK WITH STAMPS

CALGARY (CP) — Eagle Day, Calgary Stampeders' quarterback, has signed for his fourth season with the Western Football Conference club.

The one-time Mississippi signal-caller last season firmly established himself as Canada's top passer. He passed 374 times and completed 228 for a total of 3,126 yards. In 1962, he was named WFC and Canadian all-star quarterback and won the Jeff Nicklin Trophy as the most valuable player in the west.

Your Merc dealer invites you to compare

Mercury's small-bore, short-stroke design with competitors' "big-bore" outboards

"Bore," in engine talk, means the diameter of the cylinders in which the pistons slide to and fro. "Stroke" is the distance through which the pistons move within the cylinders. Piston displacement, or engine size, is a product of bore, stroke and the number of cylinders.

Most high-horsepower outboards use a few big-bore, long-stroke cylinders. Mercury uses small-bore, short-stroke cylinders — and more of them. Thus the Merc 850 and Merc 1000 outboards each have six cylinders, while other makes of equal piston displacement have only four.

Because Mercs have more but smaller cylinders, the pistons can be much lighter. Because they are lighter, it is far easier to stop and start the pistons at each end of their travel within the cylinders. This results in far less wear and tear throughout the engine.

Mercury's small bore means also that less force is exerted on each piston by the explosion of fuel and air within the cylinder. Big-bore fours are subjected to explosion forces 37% greater than those in six-cylinder Mercs. And, Mercury's smaller, forged aluminum pistons get rid of unwanted heat faster to insure long piston life and to maintain healthy conditions in the combustion chambers.

Besides reducing wear and tear, Mercury's small-bore cylinders are more efficient in squeezing the most work from every drop of gasoline . . . giving you more miles per gallon—and more miles per dollar. Small-bore, short-stroke design allows Mercs to be made smaller and lighter . . . and still deliver more horsepower at the prop than other outboards of equal or greater piston displacement.

We like to compare Mercs with other outboards . . . in design, performance, efficiency and economy. Your Merc dealer will show you how to make your own comparisons. See him soon . . . I am a new car prospect— why should I buy a STUDEBAKER ?

Studebaker is a family car. Studebaker is made to be loved by families. It has family-size stretching out room, enough weight for stability and safety, enough power to carry you safely out of tight places. The roof is specially reinforced, the brakes are operated by two separate systems. Studebaker really looks after you and your family . . . keeps you comfortable and safe, respects family budgets. This quality car will never be an "orphan".

However, some skeptics thought Studebaker might not make it when they consolidated automobile manufacturing at the Hamilton plant. They said Studebaker would be an "orphan".

Obviously they didn't know what a good family car was . . . maybe they hadn't even driven a Studebaker. They most certainly hadn't considered the aggressive Canadian management with the know how it takes to always operate profitably . . . to export to the world the only Canadian-made car . . . to build a quality car, not the lowest priced car, but the best, low price car.

Yes, there will always be Studebakers and more and more of them. Why? Because there will always be people who appreciate quality, who want a dollars worth for a dollar spent. They recognize the benefits of the car named, for the second time, "Car of the Year".

You are probably one of these discerning people. Test-drive a Studebaker soon. Prove to yourself why Studebaker will never be an orphan.

Light-Stick Shortstops Suddenly Flex Muscles

Canadian Press

They don't keep records of baseball's spring-training performances. So three light-hitting shortstops will have to keep their own notes if they want to tell their grandchildren about the day they turned into tigers at the plate.

Ron Hansen, who disappointed Chicago White Sox with a .226 average last season, turned into a one-man gang Tuesday, driving in all but one of their runs with two homers and a double in a 7-6 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. His three-run blast in the eighth inning wiped out a 5-4 lead for the Red Birds.

Bobby Wine of Philadelphia was living up to his .215 average of last season with 18 straight at-bats without a hit when he singled with the bases loaded in the 11th inning to give the Phillies a 4-3 edge over Cincinnati Reds.

And Ed Brinkman, one of the least distinguished members of the anemic Washington batting order, had three singles and two doubles as the whole team stepped out of character to wallop Baltimore Orioles 11-5 with [illegible]

PODRES HAMMERED

It was that kind of day. Johnny Podres, one of the aristocrats of Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff, was hammered for 11 hits in five innings by Houston Colts, of all people, and absorbed a 6-3 defeat that sent his earned-run average soaring to an abysmal 7.00 for the training season.

And New York Yankees committed five errors against Kansas City Athletics before Charlie Lau put them out of their misery by defeating them 5-4 with a bases-loaded squeeze bunt in the 10th inning.

Milwaukee Braves got a homer from Hank Aaron as they subdued Detroit Tigers 6-3 and Ron Santo contributed a two-run blast to Chicago Cubs' 6-2 victory over Cleveland Indians. Pittsburgh Pirates downed New York Mets 8-4 and Camilo Pascual pitched seven innings of shutout ball as Minnesota Twins overcame the Phillies' B team 6-0.

Veterans Jack Sanford and Billy Pierce faced only 30 batters and got plenty of support as San Francisco Giants drubbed Boston Red Sox 9-1 and Los Angeles Angels outslugged their Hawaii farm team 8-5.

FIVEPIN CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ladies' Champion Tops Men's Best

REGINA (CP)—Marion Taylor of Saskatoon and Bill Hoult of Scarboro, Ont., won the Canadian women's and men's singles fivepin bowling championships here Tuesday night.

Teams from Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto won the mixed men's and women's team events, respectively, in the east-west national championship tournament.

Mrs. Taylor, who went into the second day of play Tuesday with a lead of 79 pins over her eastern opponent, Midge Fox of Hamilton, won the title by 254 pins. It was her second championship in three years.

Mrs. Taylor had a 10-game final total of 2,498—better than either of the finalists in the men's singles could manage.

Hoult defeated Jack McArthur of Vancouver in a dramatic finish, winning in the tenth frame of the final game with a strike and a spare.

COULDN'T CONNECT

McArthur, who was ahead 83 pins after the first game Tuesday, failed to get a strike in the final frame of the last game.

Hoult had a score of 2,468 for the 10 games and McArthur had 2,453.

In the mixed event, the Calgary squad defeated a Toronto team by a score of 11,862 to 11,403.

In the men's team event, Winnipeg took the title with a score of 11,824 to York-Simcoe's 11,594.

Anaheim Lure To Get Angels Tempting One

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) Fred Haney, general manager of Los Angeles Angels, said recently the American League baseball club has received an attractive offer to move its franchise to Anaheim, Calif., in 1966.

Anaheim is a city 40 miles south of Los Angeles near which the Disneyland amusement park is located.

"We have received numerous offers," said Haney. "And the Orange County (Anaheim) one is very attractive.

"If they come through with everything they say they will, we will certainly give it further consideration."

Hansen Rink Defeats Dagg

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian men's and women's championship curling rinks clashed Tuesday night—and the ladies won out.

The Ina Hansen rink from Kimberley shaded the Lyall Dagg rink of Vancouver 7-6 in an exhibition match presented as part of the Canadian Firefighters curling championships.

Dagg was leading the Hansen gals 5-2 in the fourth end and then elected to use Scotch push brooms to lend color and tradition to the game.

It was Dagg's undoing.

In the fifth end the Hansen foursome, with superb curling, blanked the end and then scored two in the sixth to make it 5-4.

In the seventh the ladies picked up three points to go out in front. In the eighth and last end the Dagg's quartet had a chance for a double to tie the game.

Instead skip Dagg elected to draw for one and made his shot, giving the ladies the victory.

CLIMBER TAKEN SAFELY OFF SQUAMISH CLIFF

VANCOUVER (CP)—A mountain rescue party Tuesday rescued Paul Fhakowit, 21, of Vancouver, from a rocky ledge on 2,700-foot Chieftain Mountain near Squamish, 40 miles north of here.

The search and subsequent rescue started when Ron Rostill, 27, of Vancouver, told the RCMP his climbing companion was trapped on a ledge on the mountain.

IT ALL STARTED WITH ADAM

Church Can Be Fun, He Said Swiftly

TORONTO (CP) — "I like a little sense of humor," said Rev. J. R. Hord Tuesday in explaining why he has included a half-page of theological Tom Swifties in a United Church annual report.

The 285-page annual report of the church's board of evangelism and social service is called Breaking the Barriers.

A Tom Swifty is a gramatical construction in which the adverb modifying said, or an equivalent, is closely, and preferably illuminatingly, related to the preceding quotation, the report says. Some examples:

"I have sinned," said Adam originally.

"Well, if you really mean it you might build some sort of monument to commemorate my victory," said Constantine archly.

"I see through a glass," said Paul darkly.

Mr. Hord, secretary of the board, said the Tom Swifties originally were meant as fillers for the report, but were put together in the half page. They were written by Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion at Stanford University and an official observer to the Vatican council.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second questior a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Vanessa Carpenter, age 10, of Richmond, Va., for her question:

Where does the water come from when we cry?

Once in a while you may have a terrible day when everything turns out the wrong way. But sometimes mishaps strike suddenly from a clear sky—a cut finger, a bumped head or a broken toy. Then without warning the face puckers up with misery and down drip the tears, tears and more tears.

A sorrowful spell of sobbing brings rivers and rivers of runny tears. Your head feels full enough to burst, and an attack of sniffles adds to the misery. You wonder where all this water comes from. The flood may stop if you see something funny. It may stop if something interesting catches your attention—such as the Latin word for a dewy teardrop, which is lacrima.

We borrowed this word to name the glands that manufacture our salty tears. The two lachrymal glands are about the size and shape of shelled almonds. You have one at the outer corner of each eye, under the upper lid. These glands are always making lachrymal fluid—but they do not store up tears for a rainy day.

The teary liquid is meant to bathe the eyes and keep them moist. It contains salt and other soothing substances. When you blink, the muscles squeeze a drop of moisture into each eye, and the glands manufacture more to replace it. The eyelids work like windshield wipers and wash the dewy liquid over the surface of your bright eyes.

Laughter Produces Tears

The used bath water drains away through the tear ducts, which are tiny holes at the inner corner of each eye. From here it goes into the lachrymal sac and then down into the nose through a nasal duct. When the eyes blink, the lachrymal fluid is squeezed out time after time, and the glands work overtime to make more. Feelings of pain also may force the glands to make extra tear fluid.

At such times the surplus tears flow too fast to drain away by the normal channels. The nasal ducts become clogged and you get the sniffles. Surplus fluid overflows from the eyes, and rivers of tears run down the cheeks.

You do not have to wait for a teary tragedy to test the working of your lachrymal glands. Blink fast for about 20 times and you will feel extra moisture in your eyes. This happens because the eye muscles squeeze out the dewy liquid, and the tear glands are forced to replace it with more. These glands also are squeezed when you smile or giggle. And the very best tears flow from a spell of merry laughter—when you laugh until you cry.

Andy sends a 12-inch World Book globe to Dan K. Fitzsimmans, age 10, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

Does the Evening Star twinkle?

The Evening Star really is not a star at all. It is one of the planets like the earth, shining with the reflected glory of the sun. And planets do not twinkle like the distant stars with arrows of darting light. The Evening Star that tags along after the setting sun may be bigger and brighter than any true star in the sky. The Morning Star that rises ahead of the dawn does not twinkle either, for it, too, is a planet.

The wandering planets forever are changing their places in the sky. Sometimes one, sometimes another is there to greet the dawn or put the sun to bed. The role of Evening Star and Morning Star may be played by Saturn or giant Jupiter, by rusty-red Mars or golden Venus.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The great wild comedy team, Marty Allen and Steve Rossi, celebrated Marty's 41st birthday at Roma Di Notte . . . Because of the wild hairdo of "Hello Dere" Marty, one guest gave his wife Frenchy a bag of steel wool to take his place when he's away . . . Marty and Steve, who spoof the national scene, had this to report: Gov. Rockefeller made an urgent phone call to Henry Cabot Lodge, like this . . . "Henry?" . . . "Hello, dere!" . . . "Can I ask you something very important?" . . . "Certainly" . . . "What's the name of your campaign manager?"

They claim that Bobby Baker refused to answer on the grounds that he might incriminate the U.S. Senate . . . They recently quizzed Lawrence Welk: "You've played for thousands of college dances. What request did you receive most?" . . . "The way to the powder room." . . . The team is now really going big-time after recent successes in Hollywood and on TV. Their "Hello Dere" routine is known around the world.

Sammy Davis Jr. made a speech in Paris that they loved: "I'm Negro, I'm Jewish, I'm one-eyed, and I'm wonderful." And the crowds agreed, as he bent to kiss the hand of one of the Rothschild ladies, that he is, indeed, wonderful. He's now captured that continent . . . The Merv Griffin World's Fair TV show, thought dead, has been resuscitated already, so look out there! We were in his office when he got the news . . . Sarah Miles, the beautiful little English star of "The Servant," smokes those wee Dutch cigars all over NY . . . Gordon Jenkins, who wrote "Manhattan Tower" so lovingly, tells us he's from Webster Grove, Mo., and Bob Goulet, who sings it in a new album, is from Boston and Canada . . . Ohio does it again!

Funny story's going around B'way about a new matinee idol who got a new dental plate—and now he lithps! In a holdup scene, he said, "Thtick 'em up!" Thith embarretheth hith manager who'th been busy getting him new ttteeththththth.

Cassius Clay was asked at Basin St. E. if he wanted to go into Show Business, and replied, "You think I'd sell $200 seats if I wasn't an actor!" . . . Helen Traubel was flown to a Santa Monica hospital from a Naples-to-Southampton ship . . . Juvenile hit John Davidson of "Foxy" got his draft notice . . . Richard Burton's expected to introduce Liz Taylor from the stage in "Hamlet" here as he did in Toronto with a cute speech . . . Producer Michael Meyerberg of "The Deputy" is in Johns Hopkins for a checkup and director Herman Shumlin went into NY Hospital for virus

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . Sarah Miles will star in the London company of "Barefoot in the Park" . . . Douglas Fairbanks led the applause when Yul Brynner sang at Asti's . . . Jayne Mansfield asked a fellow to dance with her at the JFK tribute in Palm Beach, and Mickey Hargity threatened to belt him.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Mathews reports he took one of those economy flights—and instead of movies the pilot showed snapshots of his children.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Mort Sahl notes that Beverly Hills is very exclusive: "For instance, their fire department won't make house calls."

EARL'S PEARLS: How old must a girl be before her mother tells her about the birds and the Beatles?

Royal Dutch Planes Refuel at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Daily flights by KLM Royal Dutch Airlines from Amsterdam to Tokyo will make their refuelling stops at Vancouver instead of Anchorage. The route alteration begins Wednesday.

The Alaska earthquake collapsed the air control tower at Anchorage and damaged runways.

GLINZ BROTHERS WERE FIRST

Y Campers to Trace Paths of Pioneers

Campers at Camp Thunderbird this summer will hike through the Sooke hills around Glinz Lake much the same as the Glinz boys did 50 years ago.

Arnold and Leonard Glinz left Switzerland in 1910 and headed for Canada armed with a pistol. Friends had warned them they must go armed if they were going to that wild country of Canada.

The boys laughed at the time for they fully intended to continue on as hoteliers in Victoria.

Instead, they homesteaded two quarter sections (320 acres), off the Sooke Road.

SLEPT ON FERNS

Arnold Glinz, who now lives at 1032 Oliphant, recalls that during their first winter here they slept on beds made out of ferns and in sleeping bags made from sacks.

"We practically lived on venison at that time," said Mr. Glinz as he described quartering the deer and leaving it to hang in a bag on a tree.

There were bears in the area but Mr. Glinz only killed one during his hunting expeditions.

It was rugged outdoor life but didn't provide much of a livelihood.

Soon Leonard left and went back to the hotel business, and Arnold bought a Sooke farm which became well-known between 1922 and 1947 as the "Woodside Farm".

In the meantime the boys continued to use the Glinz Lake property for hunting and "out-tripping."

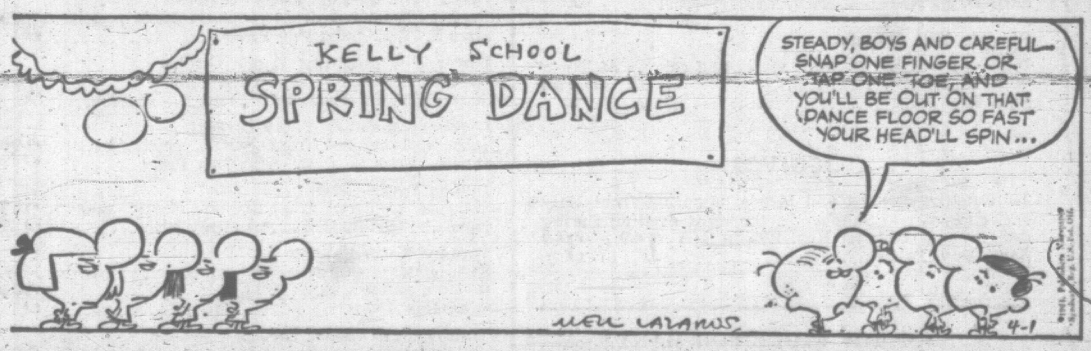
NOMINAL PRICE

Then in 1932 they turned the large stand of timber and the lake over to the YMCA for a nominal price.

For 30 years now boys from the Victoria area have been enjoying "out-trips" through the same Sooke hills.

This summer the camping season has been extended to a two-week period in order that more emphasis may be put on the campcraft skills, all too familiar to the Glinz boys.

Every year many boys attend camp under the sponsorship of clubs and private citizens. This year with the season extended and the fees higher, more sponsors than ever before will be needed.



WASYLENCHUK

Seattle Suspect 'Fixing His Boat'

SEATTLE (AP)—The defence in the John Wasylenchuk murder and bank robbery trial has presented five witnesses and deposition by a sixth to substantiate its contention that the defendant was at home in Burnaby when the crime took place.

Wasylenchuk's wife Elizabeth, their 17-year-old daughter, also named Elizabeth, Richard Alton of Vancouver, and Donald W. Ross of South Burnaby, testified Tuesday Wasylenchuk was laminating a boat with fiberglass March 12, 1954, when a Seattle bank was robbed and a policeman killed.

The deposition which began to be read into evidence in federal court was given by Ernest Nuttall, a retired Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant. Nuttall is suffering from a severe heart condition and has been unable to attend the trial.

WITHIN HOUR

Nuttall said he found Wasylenchuk at home at Burnaby within an hour of the time the government has charged the defendant was among three men who held up the bank.

Nuttall said he was notified of the Seattle bank holdup within minutes.

"I thought, well, just for the hell of it, I will take a run up to Wasylenchuk's and see if he is home, because he is a good suspect," Nuttall said. "To use police parlance, he was hotter than a firecracker. He was sticking up one bank after another in Canada.

"So I went up to Imperial Street and he was on the lawn there is his working clothes."

NUTTALL CERTAIN

Nuttall said he was certain the man he saw was Wasylenchuk.

"You see, sometimes he wears a wig, you know, and it is pretty sneak, and on most of his stickup jobs he wore a wig, you know."

Nuttall said the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation "made a bitter complaint against me because I said I had checked Wasylenchuk."

ON CARPET

He said he was "called on the carpet" and it cost him a promotion and thousands of dollars. Eventually, he said, he was "not only cleared but promoted to a sergeant" and retired on an "exemplary discharge, the highest that can be obtained from the force."

Carl Bollman, a roofing contractor of North Surrey, testified he had employed Wasylenchuk from May, 1963, until the defendant's arrest and found him a "very satisfactory employee." Bollman said he would give Wasylenchuk a job again if Wasylenchuk can return to Canada.

Powderpuff Pilots Far Afield

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—Ohio housewife Mrs. Jerri Mock took off for Cairo early today from Tripoli, Libya, on another stage of her round the world trip in a single-engine plane.

Another woman pilot, Mrs. Joan M. Smith of Long Beach, Calif., was expected to land in Natal, Brazil, today on her attempt to retrace the route taken by the late Amelia Earhart when she set out to fly around the world 27 years ago.

Hydro Hires Top Planner For Columbia

VANCOUVER (CP)—James W. Wilson, a leading regional planning authority, has been hired by the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority to co-ordinate power projects on the Columbia River with plans for the future development of the areas affected, it was announced Tuesday.

Mr. Wilson has been executive-director of the B.C. Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board since 1951.

The authority said in its announcement his appointment will become effective in mid-May and he will "help the authority apply and expand policies worked out during the past four years by the Columbia Redevelopment Committee established by the Power Commission in 1960."

Objectives of his assignment will minimize the disruption caused by Columbia construction and flooding and enable relocation of people and facilities affected by the projects to be smoothly carried out.

Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, co-chairman of the authority, said Mr. Wilson will directly assist the authority's land division in the study and application of plans for the resettlement of individuals and communities displaced by Columbia River reservoirs.

'Give Taxpayer Idea Of His Total Tax Bill'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark says the taxpayer should be given a clearer picture of just what his total tax bill is and what he's getting for it.

Addressing a service club here Tuesday the new minister said:

"As it is now, his tax goes through such devious channels that he can never measure the efficiency of government spending.

"It's an unhappy arrangement to have the power to tax concentrated in Ottawa while the duties and responsibilities of spending are concentrated in the provinces."

The minister criticized Ottawa for clinging to wartime concepts of tax collection, for trying to tell the provinces how the money should be spent and for failing to recognize provincial tax responsibilities.

The federal government had met the tremendous cost of the Second World War by increasing its taxing powers at the expense of the provinces. But now the national emergency was long gone.

Dog Proves His Worth

NAZEING, England (UPI) — The owners of Kilnaglory Magpie, a black and white racing greyhound, know now why the animal is worth $1,400. He escaped from a kennel here during the weekend, but even though he has been seen several times, police have found him to be too fast to catch.

HOUSEBREAKING BREAK

Tragic World Saved By Token Day in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — A token day in jail Tuesday saved from collapse the tragic world of John Flater, a widower with four children.

Flater was convicted of being in possession of housebreaking tools — a crowbar and pink gloves — but overwhelming evidence of personal tragedy resulted in a compassionate hearing.

In sentencing Flater to one day in jail and a $200 fine in lieu of a long jail term, Magistrate Gordon Scott commented: "People seldom think of these things until afterward."

Herbert Groberman, Flater's counsel, told the magistrate Flater's wife died last December, his father died last week and his mother-in-law had spirited away his four children.

"If you send him to jail his whole world will collapse," the lawyer pleaded.

"He most certainly will lose custody of his children and it's doubtful his mother can handle his father's estate."

Mr. Groberman said Flater's mother-in-law took the children, ranging in age from seven to 11, to lunch soon after their mother died—and never returned.

He said the children are in the custody of the court at Vernon, pending outcome of a civil suit by Flater.

CANADA COUNCIL MEDAL awarded posthumously to Chief Mungo Martin was received on behalf of the family by Times publisher Stuart Keate, a member of the Canada Council, at a ceremony Tuesday night in Ottawa. With Mr. Keate is Chief Justice Robert Taschereau. Chief Martin achieved fame as a totem carver here and the medal will be added to the Mungo Martin collection on display in the Provincial Museum here.

V.I. CARVER HONORED

Coveted Medals Go To Six Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Six Canadians received Canada Council awards Tuesday night for outstanding accomplishments in the arts, humanities and social sciences.

Toronto composer and conductor Sir Ernest MacMillan, 83, artist Frederick Varley, noted Montreal economist Esdras Minville and the late Chief Mungo Martin, an Indian carver from Vancouver Island, all received the Canada Council Medal — the council's highest award.

Two other men, historian Donald Creighton of Toronto and writer and poet Alain Grandbois of Quebec City became the first winners of the council's newly-created $15,000 Molson prizes.

These new awards, made without restriction as to their use by the recipients, are to be given annually in recognition of outstanding service to the Canadian cultural heritage, or for outstanding contribution to good relations between Canada's two major language groups.

MEMORIAL UNDER WAY

A memorial to the late Kwakiutal chief is under construction.

It will be placed in Thunderbird Park where he worked restoring and carving totem poles.

Dedication of the memorial and presentation of the medal may take place at the same time but so far there has been no decision.

Mungo Martin is the first Indian to win a Canada Council medal and only the second person to receive it posthumously.

Segregation Move Shelved by Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP)— Separate high schools for boys and girls was debated hotly Tuesday at the B.C. Teachers' Federation convention, but it was shelved before any decision was made.

Pat Webb of North Vancouver told the 1,200 delegates he wanted a segregated school for his own three boys and two girls because girls mature earlier and give boys an inferiority complex.

Girls become fashion-conscious too soon, boys and girls date too young and marry too young, he said in presenting the motion.

"I don't want my children to commence their overt sexual life when they are too young. Sex is here to stay—they can wait for it."

Ed Nelson of Burnaby appealed to delegates to keep the debate at an adult level, avoiding all "cute remarks."

Opposing segregation he said: "as a teacher I can run into more difficulties in an all-girl class than in a mixed class."

Delegates voted against setting up a $500,000 reserve fund for emergency use, and decided present reserves of $228,000 would be sufficient.

Reserve Fund Plan Rejected By Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Delegates at the B.C. Teachers' Federation Monday voted against setting up a $500,000 reserve fund for emergency use, and decided that present reserves of $228,000 would be sufficient.

A report to the convention said an increased fund would protect the federation from a sudden loss of income. It said this could occur if the School Act were changed to make membership in the organization voluntary rather than compulsory.

"Whether or not such action would result in a substantial loss of membership is highly speculative, but possible," the report said.

"A large reserve fund would strengthen the position of the federation when dealing with salary issues, and could be used to fight legislation that would be totally unacceptable to teachers."

Blackmailer Jailed

BERLIN (Reuters)—Manfred Ratthey, a 25-year-old West Berliner accused of having spied on West Berlin prostitutes and homesexuals for possible blackmail by the East German Secret Service, has been sentenced to 30 months in prison on charges of having treasonable relations with East Germany.

New S. Viet Nam Plan To Strike at Reds

SAIGON (AP) — Informed sources said today South Viet Nam has reached an understanding with the leader of rightist forces in Laos that will enable South Vietnamese troops to strike inside Laos against Communist Viet Cong bases and supply routes.

At a recent meeting in Dalat, the South Vietnamese hill station, between the rightist Laotian vice-premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, and South Viet Nam's premier, Maj. - Gen. Nguyen Khanh, approval was reported to have been given by Phoumi to Khanh's plan under which Vietnamese raiding parties would strike against Viet Cong targets in Laos designated in advance.

Informed sources said Khanh argued his plan to root the Viet Cong out of South Viet Nam can succeed only if Communist bases and supply routes in Laos are put out of action.

Phoumi is reported to have insisted that he wants no part of a military alliance with South Viet Nam, a move that could bring down the Laotian coalition government. For that reason, informed sources said, Laotian troops will not participate in any actions with the South Vietnamese.

Khanh is known to be trying to reach an agreement with the Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, for a "hot pursuit" agreement under which Khanh's forces could follow Viet Cong guerrillas operating in the Mekong Delta when they cross into Cambodia. Talks collapsed recently after the South Vietnamese attacked a Cambodian border village.

PETERSON BACKS SCHOOL BIBLE READING

'Don't Abolish It . . . Improve It'

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today called for suggestions on how to make Bible reading in schools more effective.

The minister made it clear the government has no intention of abolishing the observances.

The B.C. Teachers' Federation at its convention in Vancouver Tuesday took a stand against Bible readings and recitation of the Lord's Prayer. Both are compulsory under the School Act.

The teachers had ducked the controversial issue at 10 previous conventions.

But a majority now say the exercises restrict freedom, have little or no effect on students and should be the job of parents and clergy.

Mr. Peterson's reply:

"Our position is reflected in the present legislation with the agreement of the major religions that certain selections of Bible passages should be included as well as the recital of the Lord's Prayer.

"I wouldn't anticipate any change. I would be interested in any proposal that would make religious instruction more effective or to inculcate any higher degree of morality in students.

"Personally I think it is good for every young person to be familiar with the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments.

"If we abolish this from our way of life, what have we left?"

CLERGY MEETS

Archdeacon J. W. Forth, president of Victoria Council of Churches, called a special meeting of the executive for noon today.

He expected that a protest would be filed with the government.

"It would be a shame to eliminate the reading of the Holy Scriptures and the saying of the Lord's Prayer," because there is "practically no religious instruction given in schools," Archdeacon Forth said.

CAN BE EXCUSED

"I think it's valuable," said District 61 chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson.

Bible-reading is properly the responsibility of teachers, she felt, although those who don't agree may ask to be excused.

Saanich school board chairman Reginald Sinkinson said he is "astounded and dismayed" at the teachers' request.

Burnside PTA president Mrs. Sylvia Cross said Bible reading is not a teacher's responsibility.

'NO REAL LOSS'

"I think the home and the church is the place. It would be no real loss if the practice were discontinued in schools."

At the convention, Burnaby teacher George McLean said the practices only antagonize students and smother interest in religion.

"The exercises have a negative effect on our children. They are mumbo-jumbo, which have no meaning," he said. "I believe prayer is a sacred and vital thing. There is nothing sacred and vital about the exercises in school."

Arthur Mayse

The other day I asked geophyicist Dr. W. R. Hugh White of Little Saanich Mountain what one should do if caught in an earthquake. Never having been trapped in a bad one, Dr. White couldn't speak from experience, but he did throw out a few suggestions.

Since quakes of the magnitude that shattered Anchorage rarely warn before striking, the instinctive reaction of the person indoors to get outside. That can be hazardous, says Dr. White. It's best to look before you leap into heaven knows what.

A doorway is as good a haven as any when the earth twitches its skin, but be wary of signs, aerials and other objects that could tumble on your head.

In plain fact, there's no guaranieed safe place to ride out an earthquake. You can only hope it will soon be over.

With this sketchy comfort offered, Dr. White went on to explain about these most terrifying of natural phenomena.

Our earth has a crust approximately 20 miles thick, and a liquid core of heat, that defies the imagination. Between crust and core lies a 2,000-mile deep mantle, plastic in nature, through which course strong currents.

Where these convexion currents strike weak areas in the crust, we find earthquake zones.

★ ★ ★

Alaska has its Fairweather Fault, with Anchorage located above it. The press of earth-currents against the San Andreas Fault in California crumpled San Francisco in 1906.

Not to alarm anybody, but we too go about our affairs with a potential earthquake zone beneath us.

Dr. White and other seismologists are working to trace our British Columbia coastal fault.

As yet, it lacks a name; but at intervals, it offers the earthquake measurers a clue in the form of a shiver-and shake that sets the seismograph needles zigzagging along their graph paper.

Up at Port Hardy, a new seismograph station keeps close watch on a hotspot 80 miles off Vancouver Island's northern tip.

By taking Powell River, Campbell River and Courtenay as triangulation points, the experts have defined another area at the top of the Gulf of Georgia which is peculiarly "earthquake-prone."

A further trouble section—and here we're getting uncomfortably close to home—embraces the Gulf Islands. The temblors we occasionally feel in Victoria are born out there.

★ ★ ★

Those disturbances have been minor. But the earthquake that rippled the Gulf of Georgia sea-bottom in 1946, tousling Courtenay and making itself felt cross-Island in the Alberni, registered 7.3 on the seismologists' Richter scale of energy released.

In 1949, this logarithmic scale gave a reading of eight for a Queen Charlotte Islands upheaval, and the shudder that passed through another Queen Charlottes area on Monday night was noted as a six-pointer.

The Anchorage earthquake registered an awesome 8.3, which is close to the 8.5 of earth's heaviest recorded shocks.

Usually (but not always, Dr. White points out) a severe shakeup relieves the stresses in the affected area. The main quake is followed by after-shakes, which gradually fade away.

It is those lesser temblors which Dr. White's seven busy seismographs are recording this week on Little Saanich Mountain. They will continue for several weeks.

Quake-inspired waves of the sort that beat up lowlying sections of the Alberni take their direction from the nature of the coastline and the depth of water over the Continental Shelf which projects seaward.

The Alberni Canal was a natural target: a relatively shallow funnel mouth tapering inland to a narrow channel.

Our earth, Dr. White agreed, is a restless creature. He did offer one ray of doubtful sunlight, however.

Downtown Parking Tax Drops 1 Mill

Victoria Parking Commission today asked city council to levy a special 3.5-mill tax on downtown properties to cover an anticipated deficit of $36,628 in this year's operations.

"It's down from last year's 4.5-mill levy and we are confident that we will be down to about one mill next year," said commission chairman Ira Hill.

The commission estimates 1964 revenues will almost double to $94,900 compared with last year when 12-months operation of the Yates Street parking garage and six-months operation of the View Street garage garnered total revenue of $55,735.

Expenses are expected to rise from $110,019 in 1963 to $131,528 this year when both facilities will be open a full 12 months.

"Our revenues will just about cover our debt charges of $95,330 this year and within two or three years the parking facilities will be very close to paying their way completely," said Mr. Hill.

"They are very well patronized now and the business is still showing increases each month."

Total sales of validating stamps to merchants underwriting customer parking charges were $6,132, accounting for more than 10 per cent of 1963 revenues, city comptroller James Bramley said.

Downtown property owners have to make up any deficits in the civic parking garage operations as guarantors of the $1,115,000 debentures used to build the facilities.

Servicemen Save Boys From Gorge

A soldier and a sailor rescued two young boys this morning when their boat capsized on the Gorge near Craigflower Bridge.

Gerald Garneau, HMCS Naden, was at Craigflower Service Station when a youngster raced up and said two others were in difficulty in the water.

He ran across the road to the Gorge and saw two boys hanging on to their small boat which was upside-down in the middle of the Gorge.

Mr. Garneau said the youths were trying to get in to shore. He said a soldier arrived and the two men waded in the water up to their hips to haul the boys out.

Saanich police were on the scene within minutes with an inhalator which was not needed. Names of the youths have not been released.

NO WISER, NO RICHER, NO PRISON

Henry McDonald told the magistrate today if he were sent to jail he would get out "that much older and no wiser and no richer."

Magistrate William Ostler let the 57-year-old man off with a suspended sentence on a charge of begging in front of St. Andrew's Cathedral last Sunday morning.

McDonald pleaded not guilty but didn't try to contradict the evidence.

"I'm defending myself and he who defends himself has a fool for a client," he said.

The magistrate told McDonald that he recognized the expression, "having heard it from you before."

He released McDonald on a $500 bond to keep the peace for six months.

DR. JOHN PETER

Uvic Professor Wins $10,000 Book Prize

University of Victoria English professor Dr. John Peter has won a $10,000 Doubleday Book Award for the best Canadian novel of the year.

An added distinction is his acceptance of a year's visiting professorship at University of Wisconsin, one of the top graduate English schools in the United States.

The book, Along That Coast, is his first, and is about his homeland, South Africa, a story of love and hate.

Dr. Peter, 42, is in his third year at University of Victoria. He is a scholarly writer as well as a novelist and poet, and prior to coming to Victoria was 11 years in the English department at University of Manitoba.

ABOUT PRAIRIES

His next novel, half-written, will be about the prairies.

Along That Coast will be published in mid-June in Toronto and New York. The book was chosen from three contenders for the prize.

"I've seen the dust jacket," Dr. Peter remarked whimsically. He is impressed.

"It shows a huge wave with rocks sticking up out of it. But I guess the dust jacket of one's first novel is bound to be impressive."

TURNED DOWN

Prof. Roger Bishop, head of Uvic English department, was amused by the fact that Dr. Peter had been turned down when he asked for a Canada Council grant to work on his second novel.

"There is a polite answer," Dr. Peter said, "and that is I had no novel in print.

"There is an impolite answer, too. I don't live in Toronto."

Three-quarters of the prize is taxable, as advance on royalties from the publisher.

The writer leaves for Madison, Wis., in September and will teach Milton and other 17th Century poets and authors during two semesters at University of Wisconsin, returning to Victoria in June.

OFFERED CHAIR

"It will be quite valuable to have had some experience in a good graduate school," Dr. Peter said. "We will be going into graduate studies here soon."

The professor admitted one further distinction: University of Manitoba tentatively offered him the chairmanship of its English department, which he turned down.

"I felt I wanted to be in Victoria because Roger Bishop is here. A lot of people in the department feel the same way."

Teachers' Talks Open Thursday At Lake School

A two-day conference for teachers of independent schools in the province of B.C. opens Thursday at Shawnigan Lake Boys' School.

Guest speakers will be Dr. John MacDonald, president of the University of British Columbia; J. R. Meredith, director of curriculum for the department of education; Prof. Geoffrey Davies, history department at UBC; Dean Brian Whitlow of Victoria, and Dr. F. Debruler of Seattle, who will speak on the American College Board examinations.

Leading discussions on physics, mathematics, English, French and classics will be the following professors from the University of Victoria, R. R. Jeffels, Walter Thumm, Otto Fritze. Mrs. Phoebe Noble, Robin Skelton, Edgar B. Horne and Dr. Peter Smith.

Student Choir Here Saturday

The 44-voice choir of King's Garden High School, Seattle, will present an A Cappella hymn recital Saturday at 8 p.m. in Victoria High School auditorium.

This concert is sponsored by Victoria Christian Business Men's Committee under the chairmanship of John Tisdalle.

A second concert will be heard Sunday at 10 a.m. at Missionary Alliance Church, 1039 Yates Street.

Admission to both concerts will be by donation.

The sponsoring committee is still searching for billets for choir members.

$100,000 Granted Albernis

Two $50,000 grants today bolstered the Alberni Valley disaster fund.

The gifts were announced by Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop, who said the full purposes of the fund have not yet been decided.

But the money probably would be used to compensate the hundreds of persons who suffered personal losses in the $5,000,000 disaster caused by huge waves Saturday, the mayor said.

The $100,000 came from the provincial government and MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company.

Premier Bennett wired Mayor Bishop from Quebec City, accepting patronage of the fund along with Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes.

NO STRINGS

The premier put no conditions on the $50,000 contribution, although it was considered separate to what the cabinet may declare at its meeting on Thursday.

The lumber company, which suffered heavy losses at its mills, announced its gift after the government made its contribution.

Meanwhile, Lieut.-Col. W. H. V. Matthews, second in command of B.C. Area army headquarters who is in charge of 200 troops posted to the area, said mopping up would likely be finished in two days.

"Everything is in hand. It's a mopping-up job and everything is being done. Another day or two and, in the main, it will be finished," Col. Matthews said.

A few additional days may be needed to put the Alberni's sewage lagoon back into commission, but this is a job mostly for heavy equipment rather than much manpower, the officer said.

Soldiers from the Queen's Own Rifles at Work Point Barracks, and from 3rd Field Squadron of engineers at Camp Chilliwack are assembling huge piles of personal effects. These will be distributed to owners by the RCMP starting this afternoon.

The men are also clearing boats, logs, cars, houses, sheds and other debris from their unusual resting places.

APPRAISAL

The next big job will be undertaken by government appraisers, Mayor Bishop said, to evaluate ruined property before it is demolished by soldiers.

Deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace, head of civil defence and representative of the government, was due back in the valley again today for talks with disaster officials.

Mayor Bishop said serious consideration would be given to banning low-lying areas along River Road from future development.

This area has been subject to river flooding in the past, as well as being hard-hit in the weekend Inlet surges.

The highways department may need some land anyway to re-construct River Road, a main artery, the mayor said.

BURNING DEBRIS

Soldiers have already started burning some debris and an athletic field full of household appliances is further sign of mopping up.

Troops fan out into small patrols to wade through the rubble in salvage sorties. They stand guard over the athletic field.

The disaster committee headed by Mayors Bishop and Les Hammer, of Port Alberni, put a figure of $2,000,000 damage to private homes and $3,000,000 to business and industry.

Immediate needs of citizens displaced, made homeless or completely ruined are being looked after by the welfare department or private welfare agencies. Many are living with friends and relatives.

Federal aid is also expected, and in Vancouver a special disaster fund has reached $12,000.

FEARS FOR BLIND CALLED UNFOUNDED

New Legislation Aimed Only at Phonies

New B.C. legislation controlling fund-raising for the blind is aimed only at eliminating phoney and fraudulent appeals, a provincial government official said today.

"Anyone who has a legitimate cause won't have to worry—this is not put in to be dictatorial," he added.

The official was backed up by W. A. Timchuk, local director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who said he was "amused" at a story Tuesday saying some blind people fear the CNIB and that it is dictatorial.

The legislation provides for a cabinet-appointed board to police appeals for the blind.

The board has not yet been set up, but the government spokesman said it will be completely impartial.

Mr. Timchuk suggested the board include a representative of the Better Business Bureau to ensure fair decisions.

He said the legislation had been misinterpreted by some members of the public.

UNFOUNDED FEAR

A fear that it would prevent a blind person from selling his home is unfounded, he said.

"The CNIB policy is to encourage blind people to be as independent as they can and to go into business on their own," Mr. Timchuk said.

The legislation will not affect such people, he maintained.

Mr. Timchuk said there have been a number of phoney appeals for the blind recently in this area.

Most of them were conducted by people from outside the province, he said.

One such appeal was a door-to-door canvass for magazine subscriptions.

The magazines were supposedly written and produced by blind people.

The subscription was $2, of which 80 cents was commission for the canvasser.

Investigations disclosed that less than 10 per cent of the $2 actually went to benefit blind people, Mr. Timchuk said.

The magazines were not written by truly blind people, either, he added.

The CNIB keeps a complete register of all genuinely blind persons for the federal government, Mr. Timchuk said.

There are people whose sight is partially impaired who claim to be blind but are not, he added.

Mr. Timchuk said the CNIB and the Canadian Council of the Blind, which has 12 affiliated clubs in B.C., had been trying for five years to get the legislation approved last month by the B.C. legislature.

Funeral Held For Skindiver

SHOPPING GUIDE

Intricate Oriental Art Specialty of This Shop

By PENNY SAVER

Over a period of centuries, the ability of the Oriental people to create intricate design without the use of modern equipment has brought them to the fore among the realm of designers and collectors.

Paintings, needlework and carvings from the Orient are becoming increasingly popular as gift items and collectors' items.

Shop I was in this morning deals almost exclusively in imported goods from the Far East.

One item of interest to child and adult alike are the dolls imported from Formosa.

Dolls are made of cloth and dressed in Oriental costume according to the mode of life which they depict.

Hands and feet of the large dolls are perfectly formed into the fingers and toes and all are individually hand-sewn. Clothing includes the every day costume of the coolie; shimmering beaded headdress and gown of the Oriental bride, and the hunting costume of the aborigines.

Faces are hand-painted and cloth is shaped to form the nose and indentation of the eyes and jaws. Price ranges upwards from $1.65.

Another typical talent of the Formosans is their ability to paint in oils on a background of raw silk. Paintings appear to be three-dimensional and have a translucent quality. They also give the illusion of having a black velvet background rather than silk.

As the shop owner explained, the black oil paint which is used to cover the silk brings out a shine in the background.

One of my favorites showed a mother tiger with her cub, crouched in vivid green foliage. This was in full color and, as all these paintings are, was framed in solid black wood.

Although various paintings combine brilliant blues, greens and reds into beautiful daylight scenes, most paintings combine only black and white or black, white, gold and the odd splash of vivid hues into moonlight scenes. Price of many of them is only $4.95.

Wondering where Penny shopped for these items? Then, give her a call at 382-3131. She'll be glad to give you the name and address of this shop.

Grandmother Views Her Own Painting Exhibition

WINNIPEG (CP) — Phyllis Hobday, a Winnipeg grandmother who was nearly 60 before she started to paint seriously, recently held an exhibition of her art in Montreal.

The exhibition was at the Walter Klinkhoff Gallery and the artist was there for the first few days with her husband, Reginald.

They have two daughters — Mrs. Earl E. McKellar, Winnipeg and Mrs. Robert Dawson, Whitehorse, Yukon, and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Hobday used to be an "inveterate doodler," absently drawing faces, figures or designs while talking on the telephone or just sitting.

"The family used to urge me to do something about art . . . I felt I didn't have time for such things. Finally, to keep them all happy, I started."

That was in 1960. She attended art classes at the University of Manitoba. After a few weeks instructors told her she was "a primitive" and she shouldn't try to be anything else.

They also told her it would be foolish to continue at art school, suggesting she should continue on her own "in complete freedom from formal guidance."

Since then, "by just letting imagination run riot," Mrs. Hobday has done more than 300 paintings, mostly in oils and usually on big canvasses.

"I paint mostly in the kitchen because I'm happy in the kitchen."

Not partial to painting scenics, she prefers to do figures, often in symbolic compositions, and portraits.

She talks of an "odd kind of inspiration that comes out in the things I do."

"It's strange but sometimes when I have finished a painting, we all agree it looks like someone from the past whom I might not have seen since early years.

"And often, I start out on one thing and it emerges as something entirely different from my original thought."

She says she thinks some of her ideas are carryovers of impressions she gained in extensive travel. She has travelled in the United States, Mexico, the Caribbean and Europe as well as Canada.

Mr. Klinkhoff asked permission to arrange the Montreal show after John A. MacAulay, a Winnipeg art enthusiast, took him to the Hobday home to see her paintings.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Sinners and Saints!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give a couple of poor saps some information? I believe there must be hundreds of people in our shoes. We have been living together since 1941. We do not belong to a church because we do not feel we are worthy of going to church. Yes, we do have children. Abby, we want to get married and live right and, after all these years, we don't know where to turn except to you. We couldn't be married too near here as we are very well-known. God bless you, Abby, if you can help us.

SINNERS.

DEAR SINNERS: The very fact that you are troubled by the way you have been living proves that you are worthy of going to church. A church is not a museum for saints—it's a hospital for sinners. Go to a clergyman, whether you belong to a church now or not, and let him chart your course. You will be amazed at how easily you can legalize your union quietly, without publicity. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My parents are very old-fashioned. I am 12 years old and I have a paper route. I earn my own money and think I should be able to do what I want with it. I want a motor scooter but my parents are against it. I could buy one for $90 and I already have most of the money saved, but they won't let me buy one because I am not old enough to get a license yet. Don't you think I should be able to buy one just to ride around the dirt roads? I need someone to stick up for me.

WANTS A MOTOR SCOOTER

DEAR WANTS: It doesn't matter if you can afford a Cadillac. Your parents' permission is more important than the money. Listen to them, son, you'll never regret it.

Get it off your chest. For a personal unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Weavers Show Work At Recent Meeting

Three past presidents spoke on weaving and showed samples of their work when 31 members of the Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild and one guest met with Mrs. G. Singleton presiding. They were Mrs. S. Pickles, Mrs. H. Hodson and Mrs. G. Anstey.

Mrs. Pickles displayed tufted bath mats, hot mats and cushion cover. She also showed weaving from other parts of the world. Pieces included a Navajo saddle blanket and skirts from Spain, Majorca and Switzerland.

A glamorous white Cavalier scarf, 4½ yards long, was part of Mrs. Hodson's exhibit. In it were used a plastic-like yarn she'd bought in Venice, wool and novelty threads.

Mrs. Anstey exhibited a sample of her handwoven white silk material, made for a wedding gown and explained one of her early projects which had used a 40-yard warp of fine grey cotton.

Mrs. G. Singleton urged members to compete in the Canadian Annual Hand Weaving Exhibition, to be held in June in Vancouver.

It was announced that Miss F. Daniels will instruct on how to use an eight-harness loom, recently installed in the guild's work room on Government Street.

Miss M. Turner outlined plans of the exhibition committee. It was reported that two out-of-town weavers, Mrs. J. Graham, Calgary and Mrs. J. Jeffrey, London, Ont., had recently visited Mrs. Anstey and other guild members.

Victoria Man Married in Mainland Ceremony

A wedding of interest to Victoria took place in St. John the Divine Church, Vancouver, when Anne Louise Winterford exchanged vows with Richard Frederick Newell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Winterford of Vancouver. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Newell, 2083 Byron Street, Victoria.

Mrs. F. Shaughnessy, an aunt of the bride, was organist for the double-ring ceremony. Rev. J. Bishop officiated and Jean Price sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bell-skirted gown of lace and peau de sole satin that had a graceful full-length train. Her veil was in "wedding ring" style. White carnations and pink roses were in the bouquet.

Maid of honor, Miss Linda Winterford, chose a gown of princess blue peau de sole satin. Bridesmaid, Miss Irene Newell, had a similar gown in rose tone, while bridesmatron, Mrs. R. J. McNutt, wore mauve. All carried white carnation bouquets.

John Parton, Victoria, was best man and ushering guests were Richard Telford, New Westminster and Derek White, Banff.

F. Smith, White Rock, B.C. proposed the bridal toast at a reception, buffet supper and dance which followed in the Royal Canadian Legion's hall at Burnaby.

As her going-away ensemble, the bride chose pale pink boucle suit, flowered hat and red rosebud corsage.

After a honeymoon trip to Birch Bay, Wash., the newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Speaks at Home League 1-Day Rally

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Rally guest and speaker at the one-day gathering of Salvation Army Home League members of Vancouver Island, held Tuesday in Esquimalt United Church, was Mrs. General A. Orsborn (R), wife of a former head of the International Salvation Army.

The visitor, who has been on the Pacific Coast since the end of last year to visit a son Wilfrid and his family, in Vancouver, has been participitating in Army activities when requested.

She will attend and speak at Home League rallies in Calgary, Edmonton and Toronto before returning overseas to England. Her home is close to London.

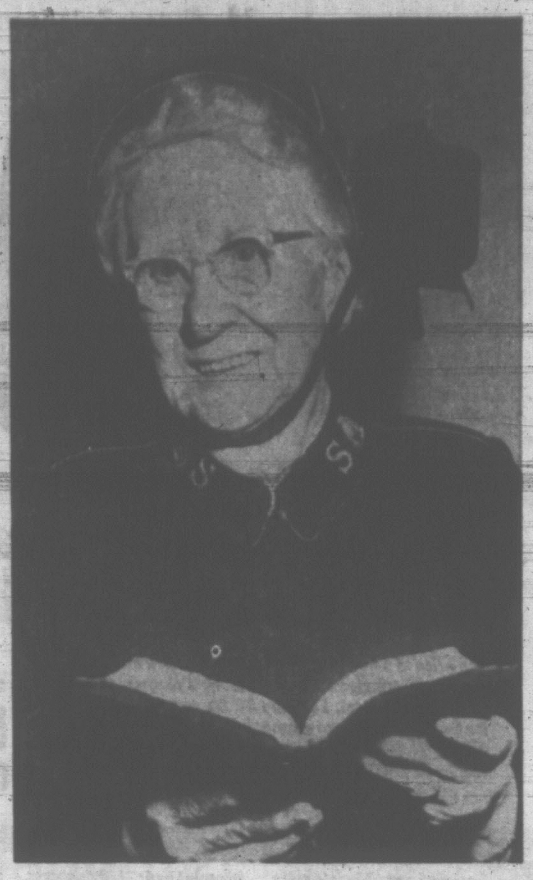
Although retired now, both she and her husband are still active in work of the Army.

"Of course, there is no administrative work now," she explains, "we participate mostly in evangelical programs.

"People ask us to go and talk to them. We have done much of this work in recent years—mostly in the British Isles."

Special interest with this dedicated woman is the Home League.

"I've been actively concerned with this phase of the Salvation Army since the first League was formed, more than 50 years ago." This was in England.



Mrs. General A. Orsborn (R) of London, Eng.

Today, there is a Home League wherever there is a branch of the Salvation Army, around the world.

League program is based on a pattern laid down many years ago and enlarged as the need became evident.

"It includes educational programs, help for the mother in the home and many other activities," Mrs. Osborn says.

Those who attend league meetings are not necessarily members of the Salvation Army. "Any woman interested in the work or in need of the help and stimulation of our programs may attend," the visitor points out.

"Our aim is to help where we are needed. If it turns out that an 'outsider' finally becomes interested in the Army itself, it only adds to our pleasure in the work."

Home League members came in special buses from many points on Vancouver Island to attend the Tuesday meeting here. Rally theme was "The Word Is The Way—For Homes Today."

Mrs. Orsborn was welcomed to Esquimalt by Mrs. Capt. G. Allen; scriptures were read by Mrs. Major J. Morrison; a scripture memorization contest was conducted by Mrs. Brig. Hawkes.

Arrangements were made by the divisional League secretary, Mrs. Lt. Col. Pindred.

Exquisite Gown Worn by Bride

Dainty eyelet embroidery extended from bodice to hemline of the floor-length nylon tulle-over-silk gown worn by Dianne Frances Thomson for her marriage to Robert Harold Pepper on Saturday evening.

Embroidery accented a floating panel that extended from back waistline to a slight train. Bodice featured a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in lily points.

The short bouffant tulle veil misted from a cluster of fabric calla lilies, each centred with pearl "stamens." A white orchid centred the cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thomson, 1145 Woodstock Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Pepper, 2531 Prior Street. Mr. Thomson gave his daughter in marriage.

Stocks, gladioli and spring flowers decorated the church for the ceremony at which Dr. H. K. Johnston officiated. Miss Pat McIvor was organist and Jim Donaldson sang "Because."

Boleros of white Dentelles de Calais lace topped the floor-length gowns of turquoise crystal charm chosen by maid of honor, Miss Helen Copley; bridesmaid, Miss Maureen Thomson, the bride's sister, and bridesmatron, Mrs. Robert McMillan, sister of the groom.

Set-in sleeves of the same lace and matching trim highlighted the pale pink crystal charm frock worn by flower girl, Deborah Morgan.

All wore circlets of pink carnations to match their bouquets.

Best man, Robert McMillan, wore a white-jacketed tuxedo. Similarly dressed were ushers, John and Stewart Thomson, the bride's brothers, and Errol Richardson.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Are Your Feet In Shape To Be Seen In New Shoes

This is the time of year when we must take our calluses seriously. Surprise of surprises, the sling pump is very much back on the fashion scene this spring. It seems like an old friend we haven't seen for a long time.

Lowman

However, you know what this means so far as a bump or rough skin on the heels. A bit later we will go barefoot and wear all sorts of revealing shoes with sports clothes, but we need to get ready right now for dress-up in sheer stockings and sling pumps.

Calluses and corns and distorted toes are practically always due to the wrong kind of shoes or those which were not properly fitted. Sometimes weak arches have this effect.

It is much better to seek professional help if you want to have the corns or calluses removed. You should see a chiropodist or a podiatrist. If you try to treat yourself you are apt to cut yourself and have a painful foot. You may also get an infection.

You might try to use a pumice stone on the rough spots. After your bath rub these gently with the wet stone. Do not rub too long. Gradually flake off the dry skin. Then, of course, you must always massage an oily cream or a good body lotion into the feet.

Practically every woman has rough heels at the end of winter unless she has given unusual thought to preventing it. The dry cold weather makes these difficult to prevent.

Exercises for the arches are always good preventive measures. This is especially true if you are overweight or are on your feet a great deal of the time. The following is an easy one.

Sit on a chair. Take off your shoes and stockings. Cross your right knee over your left. Point your right toe hard. Relax. Continue pointing and relaxing. After a while cross your left knee over your right and point your left toe.

If you would like to have my exercises for the arches send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SEW SIMPLE

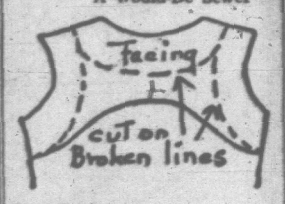
By Eunice Farmer

Beginner Bothered by the Neck and Armhole Facings

"Dear Eunice:

"I am a beginner at sewing and it's hard to narrow this down to just one question because I have so many. The thing that is bugging me at the moment, is how to finish those neck and armhole facings when they are cut in one piece. Somehow I can't get them to turn after they are stitched. One pattern I had told me to cut bias strips for facings, but I don't know what that means either, so please help me."

"A Would-Be Sewer"



Dear Beginner:

As the old saying goes, "You have to learn to walk before you can run," and so I am going to tell you the easiest way to work out your facings.

If you check the sketch, you will see the large facing can be divided into a neckfacing and an armhole facing by cutting through the facing approximately at the centre of the shoulder.

Shape the lower edge of the facing as you have seen on many other patterns and proceed as if they were cut separately from the beginning.

IWA Seeks Conciliation As Contract Talks Fold

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations between the forest industry and International Woodworkers of America on a new wage contract have broken down.

The union is asking for appointment of a conciliation officer.

Negotiations opened here two weeks ago between the IWA, speaking for 25,000 workers on the east, and Forest Industrial Relations.

IWA demands would cost the forestry industry an estimated $26,500,000 a year.

Jack Moore, western regional president of the IWA, said after the breakdown was announced Tuesday that both sides "were so far apart it became obvious that we were not going to come to a settlement without the assistance of a third party."

ASK TOO MUCH

John Billings, president of F.I.R., said the industry "recognizes that there will be a wage increase this year" but it would be difficult to find a settlement because IWA demands are "excessive."

"If the huge increase such as demanded by the IWA were incorporated into the wage scale, the result would be disastrous, particularly when a break occurs in the market for lumber shingles and plywood," said Mr. Billings. "The job security of thousands of employees would be affected."

The IWA is seeking an increase of 40 cents an hour for all employees and a total of 70 cents an hour more for tradesmen and improvers.

NOCTURNAL HUNTERS FINED $100

SOOKE—Three Victoria hunters who went shooting at night near Sooke were each fined $100 in Sooke magistrate's court Tuesday.

Magistrate Eugene Murphy also ordered that their guns be confiscated.

The three were Bruce Wight, 1033 Monterey; Fred Metters, 410 Quebec, and Douglas Mace, 1151 Roslyn. They were caught by RCMP March 14 at 4 a.m. on the road between Sooke and Jordan River.

Magistrate Murphy warned the accused of the danger of shooting at night. He said a hunter cannot possibly tell what may be in his line of fire if he shoots into the darkness.

CAMPBELL RIVER—A coroner's jury Tuesday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Peter Lactin, 48, of Vancouver, who died in a seaplane accident at Alert Bay on March 19.

It attached no blame to Campbell River pilot Capt. Gordon Wilkinson, who scrambled from his sinking seaplane without realizing Lactin was trapped inside.

Five other passengers were injured when the B.C. Air Lines Norseman flipped upside down at Alert Bay. The plane sank in six seconds.

Youth Convicted Of Manslaughter

Sentence Scheduled for Friday After Fast Verdict at Nanaimo

NANAIMO—An Assize Court jury Tuesday found 17-year-old Dennis Roy Cline guilty of manslaughter in the death last August of 14-year-old Hugh George Nesbitt of Maple Bay Road.

Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson of Vancouver remanded the Duncan youth until Friday for sentence.

The jury took 38 minutes to arrive at a verdict.

Mr. Justice Hutcheson told the jury it had four choices: guilty of manslaughter, assault causing actual bodily harm, common assault or acquittal.

Evidence at the trial disclosed that Cline jumped out of a car on Maple Bay Road near Duncan and chased the Nesbitt boy to give him a scare.

The accused claimed that he chased Nesbitt and another boy because they made obscene motions with their thumbs.

FELL OVER HIM

He said the Nesbitt boy seemed to trip over something and he (Cline) fell over him.

He denied hitting the boy.

Dr. Florence Wilson, pathologist at Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital, who performed an autopsy on Nesbitt, testified that the boy died from asphyxiation.

She said he lost consciousness when he fell on the ground and choked on his stomach contents.

'WE WILL NEVER GIVE UP'

NANAIMO — Police here are still working on one of V.I.'s most baffling murder cases.

RCMP Staff Sgt. Jack Purdy said today police are still hunting for the killer of a young Nanaimo couple, Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon. They were slain here in October of 1962.

"We will never give up," he said. "The case will never be closed until we find the killer."

156 RIFLES CHECKED

Police believe the solution hinges on learning the history of a .22-calibre rifle, found at the bottom of Long Lake a few months after the slaying.

Sgt. Purdy said so far police have investigated 156 rifles reported by people all over Canada.

Investigators have also conducted 1,500 interviews and checked 60,000 car registrations, he said.

Board Hopes For Saving On Willows

School trustees will wait a week before selecting a bid on Sir James Douglas School addition in hopes of saving money on a bid for new rooms at Willows School.

Tenders on Sir James Douglas were opened last week and found to be at least $4,000 higher than estimated.

Trustees are cautious because there is less than $7,000 remaining in a contingency fund for projects undertaken in referendum No. 5. There are two more projects to go before the program is completed — Willows and Victoria West schools.

Four additional rooms and alteration to the activity room at Willows are estimated at $93,700, and four classrooms at Victoria West at $65,000.

Buildings and grounds chairman George Curran said there could be a saving in the Willows tender that will help to cover the shortage in the Sir James Douglas low bid.

Teenders for Willows are to be opened April 9.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

"Laugh and the world laughs with you . . . cry and you cry alone."

CBS-TV discovered this formula many years ago and will press even harder next season with more comedy shows geared to fill the television hours.

Stephen

The other networks have studied the "big eye" comedy success story and have decided to place greater emphasis on chuckle programs in the new fall program lineup. Each network will open the season with at least four more half-hour comedy shows than it had on the schedule this season.

According to the lists already prepared, about 38 weekly programs in the comedy category will be aired. There also will be programs which will carry the important elements of comedy.

Here are programs already announced by the three major networks:

CBS-TV will increase its half-hour comedy shows from the 10 of last fall to 15 in the new season. Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, My Favorite Martian, Petticoat Junction, Beverly Hillbillies, Dick Van Dyke, Cara Williams, Many Happy Returns, The Baileys of Balboa, Gomer, Gilligan's Island, The Living Doll, The Munsters, Martha Raye and William Bendix and Mickey Rooney are lined up so far.

NBC-TV, which had only five half-hour comedy shows this season, will increase its output to nine in the fall.

The biggest coup pulled by the network, which had the fewest comedy shows of the three networks, was enticing Jack Benny from CBS-TV.

He will be a headliner along with Hazel, three stories comprising a 90-minute program block titled 90 Bristol Court, Kentucky with Dennis "Chester" Weaver, That Was the Week That Was, Mr. Magoo and Bill Dana.

ABC-TV, which started with nine half-hour comedies this season, will have 14 next fall. They are Farmer's Daughter, The Flintstones, Donna Reed, My Three Sons, Bewitched, Patty Duke, The Addams Family (macabre mirth), Ozzie and Harriet, Tycoon, McHale's Navy, Bing Crosby, Wendy and Mr., No Time for Sergeants and Broadside.

Comedy shows don't get the axe as often as the more serious type of show. Next season the anthology or story-form drama and adventure shows will be fewer in number than ever before.

Many of the laugh shows will also move away from the tired domestic situation comedy format.

Looking back, Grindl was dropped in favor of Bill Dana because her ratings were unhealthy.

Mickey Rooney slipped into the ABC-TV comedy lineup when network president Tom Moore and Rod Serling couldn't come to terms about the latter's "Witches and Werewolves" for next season. Moore didn't want to be "hooked into a graveyard every week." The project has been buried.

NWT Council Elections Under Way

EDMONTON (CP) — Robert Porritt, 53, a Hay River storekeeper, made a successful return to politics Tuesday as he won election on the Northwest Territories council as member for Mackenzie South.

Mr. Porritt, who had served two previous terms on the council, defeated incumbent Paul Kaeser, 61, a Fort Smith merchant, and trader E. R. de Melt, 70, of Rocher River, in a three-way fight.

It was the first of four elected posts on the territorial council to be decided. Six other members of the council are appointed by the federal government and they will be filled shortly.

In early returns from the other constituencies, John Goodall, 73, of Fort Smith, seeking his fifth term as member for Mackenzie River, led two opponents, while E. J. (Scotty) Gall of Yellowknife, seeking election for a third term, trailed in Mackenzie North.

In Mackenzie Delta, where Knut Lang of Aklavik did not seek re-election, Lyle R. Trimble, a commercial pilot and former RCMP constable, held a 92-vote lead in a three-way fight.

LONDON—Fed up with long-haired adults and teenagers with flowing manes, Britain's barbers voted Monday to charge double to customers who go more than four weeks without haircuts.

The 13,000-member national hairdressers did not say how they could tell if a customer has let his hair grow that long, but a spokesman seemed confident they can.

"After four weeks since the last haircut on most men with a full head of hair it becomes a reshape and the price should go up," he said.

The price for a haircut now ranges from the equivalent of 53 to 67 cents.

LOS ANGELES—Frank Nelson, 49, was under court orders not to use hynotism in efforts to win the affection of his nine-year-old foster son.

Superior Court Commissioner Clinton Rodda issued the order in connection with a custody battle for the boy.

Mrs. Irene Nelson, 45, three times married and divorced, was granted temporary custody of the boy while the court continued Nelson's visitation rights but ordered him not to use hypnotism on the couple's adopted son.

Nelson denied his estranged wife's claim that he used hypnotism in an attempt to turn the boy against her.

BLARNEY—Matt O'Shea, keeper of Ireland's Blarney Stone for 40 years, has died at Blarney Castle.

The stone, which according to legend confers eloquence on those who kiss it, is embedded in the castle wall just below the battlements.

Matt, who died Sunday, had to hold people's legs so they wouldn't fall to the ground in leaning out to kiss the stone.

He performed this office for hundreds of celebrities, including Sir Winston Churchill and Ireland's President Eamon de Valera.

The Blarney Stone's date of origin is lost in antiquity. So was Matt O'Shea's. He always refused to give his age but was generally believed to be more than 90.

LONDON—British producer Peter Cotes and his Canadian actress wife Joan Miller returned from spending Easter weekend in the country to find thieves had stripped their London home down to the salt and pepper pots.

Every room in the Cotes' nine-room Georgian house in nearby Greenwich had been ransacked.

Miss Miller lost several rings described as "priceless," but the robbers left her dresses and mink coat.

Joan Miller, born in Nelson, B.C., and raised in Vancouver, came to Britain in 1935.

HALLATON—One of Britain's most eccentic Easter holiday attractions Monday was the traditional bottle-kicking scramble at this rural English village.

The custom, going back more than 600 years, takes the form of a rugby football game between the men of Hallaton and neighboring Medbourne.

Instead of a ball, contestants use a small wooden cask containing nine bottles of beer.

Monday's scramble was one of the roughest in living memory.

The men crashed through hedges and over ditches and for two hours the battle went on, with innocent holiday-makers occasionally pushed into the scrimmages.

In the end the honors went to Medbourne. Its men carried the bottles over the boundary—a deep brook.

Earth's Image Changes As Continents 'Drift'

By JOHN DAVY

LONDON — The earth's "image" can never be the same again. The picture of a rigid, fossilized planet is being replaced by a churning plastic globe.

Continents drift from place to place, huge slabs of crust slide horizontally for hundreds or thousands of miles.

Europe and America are getting farther apart, while fissures are opening in North-East Africa and Western California.

Admittedly, the drifting and flowing take place on a geological time-scale, where it is customary to think in millions of years. Even so, it seems that the Atlantic may be widening by a few centimeters a year.

As long ago as 1620, Francis Bacon noticed that South America and Africa looked as if they should fit uncannily neatly together.

Then, around 1910, Alfred Wegener in Germany and Du Toit in South Africa backed up the idea with geological arguments. But their ideas were not generally accepted.

About 10 years ago, physicists started measuring the magnetism in ancient rocks and found that their magnetic "north" often pointed in a quite different direction from the present magnetic north.

When magnetic rock of the same ages in different parts of the world were compared, the theory of continental drift was at once revived—for the easiest explanation of the magnetic discrepancies was to assume that the continents had drifted relative to the poles and to each other.

Since then, many other lines of evidence have been followed up. Sir Edward Bullard of Cambridge, has told the royal society here how "we told a computer to shift the continents around until they fit."

The fitting was done not at the visible margin but at the edges of the submerged "continental shelf."

"The precision of the fit," says Sir Edward, "astonished us." The Cambridge computer is currently busy fitting Antarctica to Australia.

Another vital line of evidence is the recent growing knowledge of the ocean floors.

A vast ridge, often with a rift in the centre, has been found running along the world's main ocean basins, associated with these ridges is evidence of huge horizontal displacements of the ocean floor.

The ridges may be areas where hot material is flowing up from within the earth, and spreading out horizontally, thus carrying the continents away from the ridges.

Below or near continents, on the other hand, there seem to be descending currents, sucking material back inside the earth. These may account for some of the deep ocean trenches off South America and elsewhere, which also sufer from violent earthquakes and volcanoes.

Satellites have provided new evidence, since they have shown that the earth has "bulges," where gravity is below normal, and "dents" where it is above normal.

Professor S. K. Runcorn and his school at the University of Newcastle-On-Tyne are using this evidence to develop an elegant theory of continental drift.

Runcorn says that the rising and descending currents of flowing rock inside the earth are associated with "convection cells" —rotating masses of material between the outer crust and the inner iron core.

The "low-gravity" areas revealed by satellites may indicate "fountains" bringing fresh material to the surface, while the high-gravity areas reveal descending columns. This fits with the fact that the "fountains" lie near oceanic ridges while the high-gravity areas are near earthquake centres.

Professor Runcorn says that there may now be three to five convection cells inside the earth—but that their number is controlled by the size of the earth's iron core.

This core may have grown in course of time. Earlier, there may have been only one, then two and three convection cells.

At each change - over, caused by the core growth, a new epoch of continental drift would begin.

The latest one may represent a change-over to a five-cell system. The cracks appearing in the Red Sea and along the Gulf of California may be associated with these changes.

Some serious objections to this picture were raised by Royal Society members, but critics had no detailed alternatives to offer. And whatever the final theory to explain it, the fact of continental drift now seems virtually unchallengeable.

Baha'i Headquarters in Haifa Gets Along Well With Israelis

All the great religions have a golden rule, expressing the same thought in slightly different words, says D. R. MacLaren of 2221 Tryon Road, Sidney.

Mr. MacLaren has just returned from a pilgrimage to the Baha'i shrines at the world centre of Baha'i faith at Haifa, Israel.

He says the founder of the Baha'i Faith, Baha'u'llah, restated the same moral principles as the founders of all the world's great religions.

"Because these founders of religion, or manifestations of God, came to different people at different times in the world's evolution, their social teachings differed to suit the times. But all the great religions have a golden rule."

"Baha'ullah introduced many new principles and teachings for a new world order, such as the oneness of God and His messengers, the oneness of mankind, the abolition of all forms of prejudice, the abolition of slavery, the equality of the sexes, and many other teachings toward which the world is reaching today."

In Haifa, Mr. MacLaren said the Shrine of Bab (The Gate) at Haifa is one of the most beautiful in the world. It is a golden dome, nestling in a beautiful Persian-style garden on the slope of Mount Carmel, overlooking the harbor, the Galilee hills and the snow-covered crest of Mount Hermon.

"In common with many pilgrims, we were not sure what to expect," Mr. MacLaren said. "We wondered how the people and the government of Israel were disposed towards the Baha'is and whether there were restrictions and prohibitions.

"On the contrary we found a very cordial relationship here, and the Israeli government takes great pride in the beautiful shrine and gardens of the Baha'i faith.

"We crossed into Israel from the Jordan side of Jerusalem through the Mandelbaum Gate —the only place where crossing is permitted and a one-way crossing.

"Jerusalem is a divided city like Berlin, having a no-man's land and miles of barbed wire instead of a wall. When we approached the barrier on the Jordan side, passports were examined and stamped with exit visas for which we paid $2.

"Our escort left us there. A boy offered to carry our bags across to the little green shed in the middle of no man's land, where he left us to gape at two Jordanian machine-gunners on a low wall across the street.

"We were wondering what was to happen next when a man appeared with a baggage trolley, picked up our baggage and took it through a door marked customs and passports.

"As we passed through the small door, we found ourselves looking down the barrel of a .45-calibre machine pistol held by an Israeli soldier. However, he wasn't watching us, but was looking across the street.

"We had been warned to ask the Israeli people not to stamp our passports, as we could never enter Arab countries again with an Israeli stamp on them.

"The official asked for a reason and we told him we might wish to visit holy shrines again."

'Quake Shook Water From Lake and River

FAIRBANKS (AP) — One of Alaska's largest rivers and a big nearby lake have gone dry, a pilot says.

★ ★ ★

Since last Friday's earthquake there have been reports that the Copper River had stopped flowing into the sea. Jack Wilson, Fairbanks air taxi operator, confirmed them in a flight more than 100 miles inland from the point where the Copper flows into the Gulf of Alaska near the town of Cordova.

Wilson said the Copper was dry, and so were 20-mile-long Lake Tazlina and the Neichina River that drains into it.

"There is ice on the surface of the lake but no water underneath," Wilson said. "The ice is broken up into hundreds of thousands of fractures."

The area is only 50 miles from the centre of the violent shock, one of the most powerful in history. It caused great cracks and upheavals in the earth for hundreds of miles around.

Wilson theorized the water may have drained into giant fractures, or that earth slides or crumbling glaciers in areas he did not see could be the cause.

The scene is about 200 miles south of Fairbanks.

Windshields Broken

NANAIMO—Vandals caused $550 damage when they went on a rock-throwing spree and smashed the windshields of five cars at a car dealers, four miles south of here.

Two trucks at a nearby bakery also had their windshields smashed.

Hospital Expanding?

CAMPBELL RIVER — Permission is being sought from the provincial government to complete the unfinished third floor of the Campbell River and District General Hospital.

WORKS BRIEFS

Gov't Aid Asked For Truck Route

City works committee Tuesday ordered preparation of a brief seeking senior government assistance for creation of a truck route, including at least one and possibly three bridges.

City manager Dennis Young will draw up the brief asking financial aid for the costly project.

It could involve a bridge over the Selkirk water area of the industrial reserve, across Rock Bay and also a high level span over the mouth of the Inner Harbor, linking the B.A. Paint Co. and Sidney Roofing plant areas.

A request by Yukon Tours Ltd., which is building two paddle-wheel steamers as sightseeing boats, for permission to pave a landscaped area beside the Victoria Visitors Bureau and erect a ticket booth on the Causeway were rejected.

Mr. Young told committee the Visitors Bureau officials felt allowing one ticket booth would eventually lead to more "which in turn would make the Causeway into a kind of Coney Island."

Henry J. Smith, who presented a petition of 87 names seeking a "green belt" to separate Victoria West's industrial and residential areas, was assured that an auto wrecking operation will not be allowed near the homes. Council had approved the car wrecking proposal but Ald. M. H. Mooney, who holds the lease on the property, said "I won't give permission for it so it's a dead item."

Following complaints from Yates Street merchants that conversion from angle to parallel parking would reduce parking spaces, city traffic engineer Kenneth Reid made a survey.

"Last Thursday afternoon I checked the area and found six empty meter spaces in the 800 block and 36 or 37 empty spaces in the 900 and 1,000 blocks so there is ample parking space available," he told the committee.

New parking regulations permitting motorists to park up to 10 minutes in 17 hotel zones and to unload passengers in 18 church zones were approved.

Parks committee rejected a proposal that Saanich parks department be allowed to administer the city-owned Gorge Park after Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he had seen large pipes and other material stored there by Saanich works department.

"It would be just too bad if Saanich were to feel it could just use this park as another municipal storage yard," he said.

"I think the city should not give up control of this park, unless we sell it to Saanich. We also should begin re-developing it and putting up things like a bathhouse and easy access to the swimming beach."

Vets Cheer Decision On Hospitals

Operational control of war veterans hospitals will be retained by the federal government—and local veterans are happy.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson made the announcement in the House of Commons Monday.

He denies it was a "full retreat" from the policy on veterans hospitals announced March 16, whereby they would come under local control, and civilians could use them.

"I feel very happy about this," said S. J. Mayzes, Royal Canadian Legion Zone Commander for south Vancouver Island.

'ACTED WISELY'

"The government has acted wisely, I feel.

"The status of all veterans in treatment centres has been fully preserved.

"That's the way the veterans wanted it, and I think that's the way the people of this country wanted it."

Mr. Pearson made the announcement in answer to a question in the Commons by William Thomas (PC—Middlesex West).

He added that in any steps taken, the rights of veterans will be fully protected.

There are two veterans' hospitals in B.C.—Veterans' Hospital here and Shaughnessy in Vancouver.

Ex-Nurses Offered Refreshers

Royal Jubilee Hospital officials are initiating a new program to overcome the usual shortage of nurses during the holiday season.

A four-week refresher course is being offered for the first time at Royal Jubilee to nurses registered or eligible to register in B.C. The course beginning April 20 will include medical and surgical nursing.

Director of nursing of Royal Jubilee, Miss Muriel Thompson, reports that Victoria has experienced an even greater shortage of nurses than Vancouver during this past year which is most unusual.

Recent expansion of hospital services has increased the demand for nurses.

"It is our feeling that there are nurses in the community who would like to work but hesitate because they have been away from hospital routine for a number of years," Miss Thompson said.

Hospital officials are expecting to recruit 10 of these nurses who have been out of service to take part in the spring refresher course.

WITNESS SAYS BANKS THREATENED ASSAULT

MONTREAL (CP)—A Crown witness testified Tuesday he heard Hal C. Banks threaten to have Capt. Henry Walsh assaulted and then brag about the incident after the latter was beaten up seven years ago.

John J. Woods, 49, a former vice-president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), also testified two men broke his leg deliberately after he left the union following a quarrel with Banks.

The burly, 55-year-old union official, fired as SIU president March 18 by the board of maritime trustees, is standing trial on a charge of conspiracy to assault Capt. Walsh with intent to wound, maim or disfigure. Capt. Walsh was beaten up in a darkened parking lot in Owen Sound, Ont.

Woods' cross-examination by defence was interrupted at the noon recess when defence obtained a postponement of the trial Tuesday.

QUEBEC CONFERENCE

Equalization Remains Thorny Issue

By PETER McLINTOCK
Special Correspondent

QUEBEC—The blue and white fleur de lys flag was flapping bravely in a bitter wind from the tower of Quebec's impressive legislature as delegates to the federal-provincial conference entered the building on Tuesday to be met at the front door by a long red carpet and a smiling Jean Lesage.

Lined up inside were members of the SPQ (the Quebec provincial police) in navy blue uniforms, white belts, white helmets topped with long brass spikes, all somewhat reminiscent of the Bengal Lancers.

The conference itself is being held in the legislative chamber—an ornately beautiful room with heavy curtains, paintings on the ceiling, and more white and gold scroll work and ornamentation than is to be found this side of Bavaria.

The delegates—close to 200—jammed the chamber, with the prime minister and the premiers (they are all here except Saskatchewan's Woodrow Lloyd) seated around a long table in the centre.

Pearson Outlines Ottawa Views

First item on the agenda on Tuesday was the relationship between shared-cost programs (where the cost is shared between Ottawa and the provinces) and fiscal policy, including the implications of a province or provinces contracting out of a program.

Prime Minister Pearson led off, giving the federal government's views. As Ottawa sees it: "The only early change that we can make by federal policy, without the unanimous consent of the provinces, is to allow contracting out. That is to say, the federal government would withdraw in the case of provinces that so wished, but maintain the program for provinces wishing it to continue."

Mr. Pearson then listed the kinds of programs from which provinces might withdraw: Hospital insurance, allowances for disabled people and blind people, old-age assistance to those under 70, and unemployment assistance (relief).

The premiers then gave their opinions. Generally speaking, most of them took a cautious view of any changes, wanting to see the effect spelled out in dollars and cents. The Maritime provinces are more concerned than some of the others about any change. This is understandable, for without Ottawa's sponsorship the less-wealthy provinces could not have afforded many of the shared-cost programs.

Quebec, however, made no bones about its views. "In principle, Quebec wishes to contract out of all programs of this category (joint programs of a continuing nature in which Quebec is at present participating), that is to say, among others, unemployment assistance, disability and blindness allowances, old age assistance, winter works, hospital insurance, hospital construction and grants for public health."

Ontario Under Heavy Pressure

Quebec has also, of course, opted out of the Canada Pension Plan. This has placed Ontario under heavy pressure to join, for without one of the two major provinces in it, the plan will not get off the ground.

Premier Robarts of Ontario apparently is chafing under this pressure. For a paragraph in the Ontario submission says: "If it (co-operative federalism) means a system under which those provinces which desire to do so may remain out of the federal services, neither participating in the benefits of such services nor being required to contribute to their costs, we would also approve.

"But to us, co-operative federalism cannot mean a system under which some provinces with federal approval can stay out of programs, while against others that also elect to stay out is levelled the accusation that they are 'breaking up Confederation.' We believe that if the federal government concurs in the 'opting out' of services by one province, it cannot logically object if other provinces follow suit."

In other words, reading between the lines, if Quebec can stay out of the pension plan with Ottawa blessing, so can Ontario.

The conference spent all day Tuesday on shared-cost services. But it was clear from some of the provincial submissions that, much as Ottawa would like to think so, the thorny question of equalization was not laid to rest at last November's conference in Ottawa.

Even before Tuesday's session opened, the B.C. delegation was passing out a press release criticizing the present equalization formula and suggesting, in effect, a means test for the less wealthy provinces on which their equalization grants would be based. The net effect of this would be that the rich (B.C. and Ontario) would get richer, and the poor very little richer.

Quebec Wants Bigger Share

Quebec also reiterated its demand for 25 per cent of personal income tax, 25 per cent of corporation tax, and 100 per cent of succession duties—a substantially larger share of tax revenues than the provinces now enjoy.

Both Quebec and Manitoba were insistent that equalization grants be paid to the level of the top richest province, not to the average of the two top provinces, as is now the case.

It was, according to more than one delegate, rather a lethargic day in the conference chamber. But the activity outside helped to counteract the dullness. Security arrangements, for instance, were the subject of much publicity and not a little jesting.

An estimated 200 agents of various police bodies were around and about, some in uniform, some in plain clothes. The Chateau Frontenac, where the premiers were billeted, had more than its quota.

Plain clothes men stood guard at the elevators on floors where the premiers have rooms, demanded identification from any visitor, and escorted him to wherever he was going. Outside policemen emerged from the shadows Tuesday midnight to shoo back strollers on Dufferin Terrace just below the hotel. Getting into the legislative buildings without an authorized pass was a near impossibility. Quebec, which prides itself on its hospitality, is taking no chances.

'WE'RE ALL FOR PLAN' PREMIER BENNETT SAYS

QUEBEC (CP)—Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta today gave their support to the federal government's Canada pension plan as the second day of the federal-provincial conference got under way.

"We're all for the plan," said a beaming Mr. Bennett. "It would be better if Ontario and Quebec were in—I hope all provinces will take part—but B.C. will take part."

Pension Plan Goes Ahead Despite Ontario, Quebec

Beautiful Derrick, Burner Enhance Beacon Hill

Oilmen were excited today by reports that a rich petroleum reservoir had been discovered in Beacon Hill Park. Firm to be known as Kiernan Explorations wasted no time in erecting rig (centre, above), at same time announced that oil venture would be integrated with energetic sawmill development (right) pointing towards establishment of oak furniture factory adjacent to unused duck pond. "It is appropriate that this important source of revenue should be discovered April 1," president Kenneth F. Kiernan told the Times. Opening ceremonies featured HMCS Naden band playing: "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

Ontario Wants All To Join In

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robarts strongly indicated today Ontario will enter the federal pension plan only if it is "truly national"—that is, applies to all provinces including Quebec.

Mr. Robarts said his government intends to make sure that Ontario people will have "the best possible pension protection," whether this comes from federal or provincial legislation.

He told the federal-provincial conference that whether the federal plan is to be truly national—taking in the whole country—is a matter of some doubt.

RESERVE RIGHT

In the event that it isn't—that Quebec doesn't come in—"then we reserve our right to make the decision as to our further action in providing pension benefits for our people in Ontario until we see the ultimate form of the federal bill and the position of our sister provinces."

Mr. Robarts said Ontario wants to know whether the federal government is able to establish "a truly national pension plan in the sense that it will involve the people in all the provinces of Canada."

He stressed this all-Canada coverage several times in his relatively short statement.

Ontario does not dispute Quebec's right to decide to stay out of the federal plan, instead setting up its own pensions system, Mr. Robarts said.

NEW ATTEMPT

However, he noted there have been reports that the federal government is "to make another attempt to have Quebec join the plan."

If some provinces stay out, it would have "deep significance."

It could mean that non-participating provinces — through their elected MPs—would have the power to regulate and alter the plan, even though it would not apply to their own provinces.

And these non - participating provinces would be consulted on possible changes in the plan—so their own plans could be brought into line with the proposed changes — even though such consultation will not be necessary with participating provinces who will be controlled by the federal plan.

JOINT COMMITTEE

Mr. Robarts said he recognizes that the federal bill, Bill C-75, introduced recently in the Commons, will be scrutinized carefully by a joint Senate-Commons committee.

SPREADING REVOLT in Brazil today threatened to oust President Joao Goulart. Centres of rebel activity were cities of Juiz de Fora, the "revolutionary capital," 80 miles north of Rio de Janeiro; Belo Horizonte and Sao Paulo, all shown on above map. (AP Wirephoto.)

Brazil Rebels March on Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Governor Carlos Lacerda, a bitter foe of Brazilian President Joao Goulart, told the people of his state tonight that the revolution against Goulart has been won.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A revolt to oust Brazil's President Joao Goulart gathered speed today.

Declaring they would not allow Brazil to become another Cuba, army, navy and state political leaders deserted Goulart. The rebels said their army columns marching on Rio de Janeiro were being joined by soldiers sent out by Goulart to repel them.

Goulart, faced with demands to quit, flew from Rio to the inland capital of Brasilia where Congress is in session.

Some sources speculated his mission was to hand over the government to Ranieri Mazzili, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

There was other speculation that he had gone to make a stand against the rebellion.

Firing was reported in Rio itself. Some soldiers in famed Copacabana Fortress, in the fashionable beach and apartment section of Rio, proclaimed their solidarity with the rebels.

Shortly afterward, firing between the fort and soldiers on a nearby hill broke out, a radio station source reported. He said one officer and nine soldiers were wounded when the rebels took over the fort.

In a series of broadcasts, the rebels claimed seven of Brazil's 27 states had rallied to their banner in a drive to "lift the Red Yoke" from Brazil.

His opponents charge Goulart is leading the country of 71,000,000 inhabitants to Communism by nationalization of private industry, expropriation of land and his demand to legalize the Communist party. Goulart says he is only working to improve the lot of 20,000,000 illiterate peasants.

A spokesman for the Second Army said its commander, Gen. Amaury Krueh, would enter Rio to deliver a personal ultimatum to Goulart that he resign or be deposed.

The spokesman said troops of the Second Army, whose headquarters are in Sao Paulo, 220 miles southwest of Rio, already were near their objective.

Pearson Backs Plan 'As Drafted'

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today that the positions of Ontario and Quebec don't alter the federal government's intention to go ahead with the Canada Pension Plan "as it has been drafted."

Mr. Pearson was commenting to reporters on those two developments today in the federal-provincial conference:

1. Premier Lesage said his province reiterated its position that Quebec wants to have its own pension plan. He supplied the conference with a preview of the Quebec plan—not yet announced publicly. Both he and Mr. Pearson said it appears the plan would be comparable to the federal proposals.

TRULY NATIONAL

2. Premier Robarts, in a statement, strongly indicated Ontario may not come into any national pension plan unless it is "truly national" — covering all provinces. If it wasn't, Ontario reserved its right to take further action on pension benefits for Ontario people until it saw the federal plan in its final form, and the position of other provinces.

Said Mr. Pearson:

"I do not think Mr. Robarts has said anything this morning that would alter our federal decision to go ahead with the second reading of the Canada Pension Plan bill and send it to committee where it will be examined and ultimately decided on third reading in the House before the end of the present session . . .

"We think it is a good pension plan and we are anxious to proceed right away."

One section of the federal bill provides that the federal plan would not apply to any province which has announced its intention to have a pension plan of its own, offering comparable benefits and wide general coverage.

After hearing the preview of the Quebec plan, Mr. Pearson said it would be "comparable" to the federal proposal.

It would make it "undesirable" to have both plans operating in Quebec.

Asked to comment on Ontario's position, Mr. Lesage said:

"There is no question at all of changing our attitude."

GO-AHEAD

He noted that the Quebec government has a unanimous mandate to go ahead with its own plan, in the form of a resolution of the legislature.

Mr. Lesage said detailed reports by actuaries and economists on the Quebec proposals will be tabled in the legislature by the end of April. But when asked whether the government would introduce a bill at this session of the legislature, the premier replied:

"I'm afraid not. It's very complicated."

Senators May Go Home

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A restive Senate today served notice it may close up shop and go home until April 20 unless the House of Commons speeds up its handling of public business.

Impatient over Commons' delays, senators held a special sitting shortly before noon to express their frustration at having to stand by and do nothing while business is held up in the Commons.

Should the Senate finally decide to adjourn until April 20, this would mean a government bill for appropriation of more than $240 million could not get Senate approval or royal assent, and thus become law, until then.

The Senate has had little business to conduct this week because it has not received any from the Commons. For a week, MPs have been squabbling over the supplementary appropriations and have talked themselves out of a previously scheduled 10-day Easter recess.

POWER LEADS ATTACK

Liberal senators led the attack on the Commons. Senator Charles G. Power, who was air minister in the King government, wondered whether the problems in the Commons resulted from "political amateurism" or "stupid opportunism."

Armed Cypriots Marks 'EOKA'

(CP From AP-Reuters)

NICOSIA—Thousands lined Nicosia's streets today to watch Greek-Cypriot police and national guards parade in honor of the EOKA underground's fight for the independence of Cyprus.

President Archbishop Makarios took the salute from more than 2,000 marchers, many of them carrying weapons.

Home-made armored cars rolled by under fluttering blue and white Greek flags.

It was the largest turnout ever on EOKA day, commemorating the start of the fight against British rule in April, 1955.

The line of march was routed away from the Turkish quarter for safety's sake.

Earlier Makarios attended a special Te Deum mass at Phaneromeni church inside Nicosia's old walled city.

Nicos Koshis, former top EOKA man and now a member of the Cypriot Parliament, told the packed church that EOKA day again found the "Cyprus people armed and ready to protect . . . the integrity and independence" of Cyprus.

"The threat of Turkish invasion and plans of foreigners will not frighten us. We are going to fight to the end because Cyprus is Greek and is going to stay Greek," he declared.

Turkish-Cypriots continued their criticism of the UN force which took over the task of peacekeeping on the island last Friday.

POWER REACTIONS 'POLITICAL TOOL'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Bill Rathie said Tuesday it appears B.C.'s latest power rate reductions are being used as a political tool by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He likened the premier to a political Robin Hood.

"Hydro appears to be continuing its policy of taking from the high user and giving to the low user," the mayor commented while criticizing the reduction announced Tuesday. It is estimated at $2,000,000 a year.

"It is the same politically-inspired policy used last year when Hydro cut rates by 19 per cent for the largest group of consumers in the city compared with 25 per cent in rural areas of the province.

"There is no economic justification for rates to be cut the way the Hydro Authority has cut them," he said.

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said he didn't expect any more reductions to be made this year although the cut is $3,000,000 below the annual reduction promised by Premier Bennett.

"We make a reduction every March in accordance with our revenue. This year our revenue was not as high as we expected because of the mild winter," he said.

Premier Bennett, contacted at the federal-provincial conference in Quebec City, said that unforeseen costs prevented B.C. Hydro from making a bigger cut in electric power rates this year.

Special Sitting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons agreed today to a special sitting tonight to consider authorizing temporary loans to the dwindling unemployment insurance fund.

LABOR UNIONS STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS

Belgians Protest Doctors' Strike

By SERGE NABOKOFF

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Some 12,000 Belgian doctors went on strike today against government health service plans and quickly touched off protest demonstrations by workers.

The strike began at 7 a.m. after the collapse of talks between government officials and labor union leaders Tuesday night.

Two thousand metal workers in Charleroi, near Brussels, staged a rally in the centre of town in protest over the strike and caused a gigantic traffic jam. They whistled and shouted in front of the offices of the medical association.

The striking doctors left in operation a skeleton emergency service to handle the most serious medical cases, but warned in a communique the emergency service would halt immediately if there were any "maltreatment" of doctors, their families, or their property.

A labor union leader called for demonstrations outside doctor's homes this afternoon.

Prime Minister Theo Lefevre called the strike "deplorable." He said the doctors were "practically a monopoly" and would be conscripted—placing them under government orders — if necessary.

The doctors claim the government plan would curtail their freedom, abolish professional secrecy and impede standards of medical treatment.

It provides for a fixed scale of fees for all medical treatment and the granting of free medical treatment to certain categories of patients.

PLAN FIXES FEES

Negotiators said the main stumbling block was what fees should be paid to the doctors and how many afternoons a week would be left free for private practice.

During the Easter weekend, doctors from many parts of the country staged an unofficial warning strike when they walked off their practices and went on vacation in other countries.

Observers here said it was likely many of them would remain away until a settlement was reached.

Although many professional men appeared to side with the doctors in the dispute, the majority of the population supported the government reform program.

It provides for a 75-per-cent reimbursement of all medical costs and free medical care for disabled persons, widows and orphans.

Giant Rebuilding Job Moves Ahead in Alaska

By WARD SIMS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—New, chilling stories of earthquake and tidal wave terror mingled with constantly changing casualty figures for the stricken areas of Alaska.

The loss of life in the Good Friday disaster was still undetermined. Figures, gathered independently by various state agencies, changed constantly.

It might be weeks before an accurate count of the dead can be obtained.

State civil defence said its count showed 19 dead and 77 missing and presumed dead, plus 55 injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard had one death, at its Cape St. Elias station, which was not included in the civil defence figures. There were unofficial reports of single deaths elsewhere.

Additionally, there were unofficial reports of 31 persons missing who did not show on the civil defence list, including 23 at Chenega, five at Port Ashton and three at Port Nellie Juan.

START REBUILDING

In Anchorage, the state's largest city, most debris has been cleared. Workmen were preparing to remove what items of value they could from condemned buildings and start the mammoth job of reconstruction.

In Washington, various federal agencies were under orders from President Johnson to speed up relief.

The air force, navy and military air transports service flew supplies to Anchorage and Kodiak. Four commercial airlines —Northwest, Alaska, Pacific Northern and Pan American—also carried tons of food, hardware and clothing.

Alaska Governor William A. Egan said it might be necessary to call a special session of the state legislature next fall to meet problems of reduced tax income and increased state spending resulting from the tragedy. The legislature recessed Friday night after the quake.

Egan said Alaska has an adequate force of construction and technical workers to handle reconstruction. He left unsaid the matter of financing but

'Don't Abolish It . . . Improve It'

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today called for suggestions on how to make Bible reading in schools more effective.

The minister made it clear the government has no intention of abolishing the observances.

The B.C. Teachers' Federation at its convention in Vancouver Tuesday took a stand against Bible readings and recitation of the Lord's Prayer. Both are compulsory under the School Act.

The teachers had ducked the controversial issue at 10 previous conventions.

But a majority now say the exercises restrict freedom, have little or no effect on students and should be the job of parents and clergy.

Mr. Peterson's reply:

"Our position is reflected in the present legislation with the agreement of the major religions that certain selections of Bible passages should be included as well as the recital of the Lord's Prayer.

"I wouldn't anticipate any change. I would be interested in any proposal that would make religious instruction more effective or to inculcate any higher degree of morality in students.

"Personally I think it is good for every young person to be familiar with the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments.

"If we abolish this from our way of life, what have we left?"

CLERGY MEETS

Archdeacon J. W. Forth, president of Victoria Council of Churches, called a special meeting of the executive for noon today.

He expected that a protest would be filed with the government.

"It would be a shame to eliminate the reading of the Holy Scriptures and the saying of the Lord's Prayer," because there is "practically no religious instruction given in schools," Archdeacon Forth said.

CAN BE EXCUSED

"I think it's valuable," said District 61 chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson.

Bible-reading is properly the responsibility of teachers, she felt, although those who don't agree may ask to be excused.

Saanich school board chairman Reginald Sinkinson said he is "astounded and dismayed" at the teachers' request.

Burnside PTA president Mrs. Sylvia Cross said Bible reading is not a teacher's responsibility.

'NO REAL LOSS'

"I think the home and the church is the place. It would be no real loss if the practice were discontinued in schools."

At the convention, Burnaby teacher George McLean said the practices only antagonize students and smoother interest in religion.

"The exercises have a negative effect on our children. They are mumbo-jumbo which have no meaning," he said. "I believe prayer is a sacred and vital thing. There is nothing sacred and vital about the exercises in school."

Arthur Mayse

The other day I asked geophyicist Dr. W. R. Hugh White of Little Saanich Mountain what one should do if caught in an earthquake. Never having been trapped in a bad one, Dr. White couldn't speak from experience, but he did throw out a few suggestions.

Since quakes of the magnitude that shattered Anchorage rarely warn before striking, the instinctive reaction of the person indoors to get outside. That can be hazardous, says Dr. White. It's best to look before you leap into heaven knows what.

A doorway is as good a haven as any when the earth twitches its skin, but be wary of signs, aerials and other objects that could tumble on your head.

In plain fact, there's no guaranteed safe place to ride out an earthquake. You can only hope it will soon be over.

With this sketchy comfort offered, Dr. White went on to explain about these most terrifying of natural phenomena.

Our earth has a crust approximately 20 miles thick, and a liquid core of heat, that defies the imagination. Between crust and core lies a 2,000-mile deep mantle, plastic in nature, through which course strong currents.

Where these convexion curretns strike weak areas in the crust, we find earthquake zones.

★ ★ ★

Alaska has its Fairweather Fault, with Anchorage located above it. The press of earth-currents against the San Andreas Fault in California crumpled San Francisco in 1906.

Not to alarm anybody, but we too go about our affairs with a potential earthquake zone beneath us.

Dr. White and other seismologists are working to trace our British Columbia coastal fault.

As yet, it lacks a name; but at intervals, it offers the earthquake measurers a clue in the form of a shiver-and shake that sets the seismograph needles zigzagging along their graph paper.

Up at Port Hardy, a new seismograph station keeps close watch on a hotspot 80 miles off Vancouver Island's northern tip.

By taking Powell River, Campbell River and Courtenay as triangulation points, the experts have defined another area at the top of the Gulf of Georgia which is peculiarly earthquake-prone.

A further trouble section—and here we're getting uncomfortably close to home—embraces the Gulf Islands. The temblors we occasionally feel in Victoria are born out there.

★ ★ ★

Those disturbances have been minor. But the earthquake that rippled the Gulf of Georgia sea-bottom in 1946, tousling Courtenay and making itself felt cross-Island in the Albernis, registered 7.3 on the seismologists' Richter scale of energy released.

In 1949, this logarithmic scale gave a reading of eight for a Queen Charlotte Islands upheaval, and the shudder that passed through another Queen Charlottes area on Monday night was noted as a six-pointer.

The Anchorage earthquake registered an awesome 8.3, which is close to the 8.5 of earth's heaviest recorded shocks.

Usually (but not always, Dr. White points out) a severe shakeup relieves the stresses in the affected area. The main quake is followed by after-shakes, which gradually fade away.

It is those lesser temblors which Dr. White's seven busy seismographs are recording this week on Little Saanich Mountain. They will continue for several weeks.

Quake-inspired waves of the sort that beat up lowlying sections of the Albernis take their direction from the nature of the coastline and the depth of water over the Continental Shelf which projects seaward.

The Alberni Canal was a natural target: a relatively shallow funnel mouth tapering inland to a narrow channel.

Our earth, Dr. White agreed, is a restless creature. He did offer one ray of doubtful sunlight, however.

Even when a heavy quake strikes, the damage is usually confined to a hundred-mile area.

Downtown Parking Tax Drops 1 Mill

Victoria Parking Commission today asked city council to levy a special 3.5-mill tax on downtown properties to cover an anticipated deficit of $36,628 in this year's operations.

"It's down from last year's 4.5-mill levy and we are confident that we will be down to about one mill next year," said commission chairman Ira Hill.

The commission estimates 1964 revenues will almost double to $94,900 compared with last year when 12-months operation of the Yates Street parking garage and six-months operation of the View Street garage garnered total revenue of $55,735.

Expenses are expected to rise from $110,019 in 1963 to $131,528 this year when both facilities will be open a full 12 months.

"Our revenues will just about cover our debt charges of $95,330 this year and within two or three years the parking facilities will be very close to paying their way completely," said Mr. Hill.

"They are very well patronized now and the business is still showing increases each month."

Total sales of validating stamps to merchants underwriting customer parking charges were $6,132, accounting for more than 10 per cent of 1963 revenues, city comptroller James Bramley said.

Downtown property owners have to make up any deficits in the civic parking garage operations as guarantors of the $1,115,000 debentures used to build the facilities.

Servicemen Save Boys From Gorge

A soldier and a sailor rescued two young boys this morning when their boat capsized on the Gorge near Craigflower Bridge.

Gerald Garneau, HMCS Naden, was at Craigflower Service Station when a youngster raced up and said two others were in difficulty in the water.

He ran across the road to the Gorge and saw two boys hanging on to their small boat which was upside-down in the middle of the Gorge.

Mr. Garneau said the youths were trying to get in to shore. He said a soldier arrived and the two men waded in, the water up to their hips to haul the boys out.

Saanich police were on the scene within minutes with an inhalator which was not needed. Names of the youths have not been released.

$100,000 Granted Albernis

Two $50,000 grants today bolstered the Alberni Valley disaster fund.

The gifts were announced by Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop, who said the full purposes of the fund have not yet been decided.

They came from the provincial government and MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company.

But the money probably would be used to compensate the hundreds of persons who suffered personal losses in the $5,000,000 disaster caused by huge waves Saturday, the mayor said.

Premier Bennett wired Mayor Bishop from Quebec City, accepting patronage of the fund along with Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes.

NO STRINGS

The premier put no conditions on the $50,000 contribution, although it was considered separate to what the cabinet may declare at its meeting on Thursday.

The lumber company, which suffered heavy losses at its mills, announced its gift after the government made its contribution.

Meanwhile, Lieut.-Col. W. H. V. Matthews, second in command of B.C. Area army headquarters who is in charge of 200 troops posted to the area, said mopping up would likely be finished in two days.

"Everything is in hand. It's a mopping-up job and everything is being done. Another day or two and, in the main, it will be finished," Col. Matthews said.

A few additional days may be needed to put the Alberni's sewage lagoon back into commission, but this is a job mostly for heavy equipment rather than much manpower, the officer said.

Soldiers from the Queen's Own Rifles at Work Point Barracks, and from 3rd Field Squadron of engineers at Camp Chilliwack are assembling huge piles of personal effects. These will be distributed to owners by the RCMP starting this afternoon.

The men are also clearing boats, logs, cars, houses, sheds and other debris from their unusual resting places.

APPRAISAL

The next big job will be undertaken by government appraisers, Mayor Bishop said, to evaluate ruined property before it is demolished by soldiers.

Deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace, head of civil defence and representative of the government, was due back in the valley again today for talks with disaster officials.

Mayor Bishop said serious consideration would be given to banning low-lying areas along River Road from future development.

This area has been subject to river flooding in the past, as well as being hard-hit in the weekend Inlet surges.

The highways department may need some anyway to reconstruct River Road, a main artery, the mayor said.

BURNING DEBRIS

Soldiers have already started burning some debris and an athletic field full of household appliances is further sign of mopping up.

Troops fan out into small patrols to wade through the rubble in salvage sorties. They stand guard over the athletic field.

The disaster committee headed by Mayors Bishop and Les Hammer, of Port Alberni, put a figure of $2,000,000 damage to private homes and $3,000,000 to business and industry.

Immediate needs of citizens displaced, made homeless or completely ruined are being looked after by the welfare department or private welfare agencies. Many are living with friends and relatives.

Federal aid is also expected, and in Vancouver a special disaster fund has reached $12,000.

NO WISER, NO RICHER, NO PRISON

Henry McDonald told the magistrate today if he were sent to jail he would get out "that much older and no wiser and no richer."

Magistrate William Ostler let the 57-year-old man off with a suspended sentence on a charge of begging in front of St. Andrew's Cathedral last Sunday morning.

McDonald pleaded not guilty but didn't try to contradict the evidence.

"I'm defending myself and he who defends himself has a fool for a client," he said.

The magistrate told McDonald that he recognized the expression, "having heard it from you before."

He released McDonald on a $500 bond to keep the peace for six months.

DR. JOHN PETER

Uvic Professor Wins $10,000 Book Prize

University of Victoria English professor Dr. John Peter has won a $10,000 Doubleday Book Award for the best Canadian novel of the year.

An added distinction is his acceptance of a year's visiting professorship at University of Wisconsin, one of the top graduate English schools in the United States.

The book, Along That Coast, is his first, and is about his homeland, South Africa, a story of love and hate.

Dr. Peter, 42, is in his third year at University of Victoria. He is a scholarly writer as well as a novelist and poet, and prior to coming to Victoria was 11 years in the English department at University of Manitoba.

ABOUT PRAIRIES

His next novel, half-written, will be about the prairies.

Along That Coast will be published in mid-June in Toronto and New York. The book was chosen from three contenders for the prize.

"I've seen the dust jacket," Dr. Peter remarked whimsically. He is impressed.

"It shows a huge wave with rocks sticking up out of it. But I guess the dust jacket of one's first novel is bound to be impressive."

TURNED DOWN

Prof. Roger Bishop, head of Uvic English department, was amused by the fact that Dr. Peter had been turned down when he asked for a Canada Council grant to work on his second novel.

"There is a polite answer," Dr. Peter said, "and that is I had no novel in print.

"There is an impolite answer, too. I don't live in Toronto."

Three-quarters of the prize is taxable, as advance on royalties from the publisher.

The writer leaves for Madison, Wis., in September and will teach Milton and other 17th Century poets and authors during two semesters at University of Wisconsin, returning to Victoria in June.

OFFERED CHAIR

"It will be quite valuable to have had some experience in a good graduate school," Dr. Peter said. "We will be going into graduate studies here soon."

The professor admitted one further distinction: University of Manitoba tentatively offered him the chairmanship of its English department, which he turned down.

"I felt I wanted to be in Victoria because Roger Bishop is here. A lot of people in the department fell the same way."

FEARS FOR BLIND CALLED UNFOUNDED

New Legislation Aimed Only at Phonies

New B.C. legislation controlling fund-raising for the blind is aimed only at eliminating phoney and fraudulent appeals, a provincial government official said today.

"Anyone who has a legitimate cause won't have to worry—this is not put in to be dictatorial," he added.

The official was backed up by W. A. Timchuk, local director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who said he was "amused" at a story Tuesday saying some blind people fear the CNIB and that it is dictatorial.

The legislation provides for a cabinet-appointed board to police appeals for the blind.

The board has not yet been set up, but the government spokesman said it will be completely impartial.

Mr. Timchuk suggested the board include a representative of the Better Business Bureau to ensure fair decisions.

He said the legislation had been misinterpreted by some members of the public.

UNFOUNDED FEAR

A fear that it would prevent a blind person from selling his home is unfounded, he said

"The CNIB policy is to encourage blind people to be as independent as they can and to go into business on their own," Mr. Timchuk said.

The legislation will not affect such people, he maintained.

Mr. Timchuk said there have been a number of phoney appeals for the blind recently in this area.

Most of them were conducted by people from outside the province, he said.

One such appeal was a door-to-door canvass for magazine subscriptions.

The magazines were supposedly written and produced by blind people.

The subscription was $2, of which 80 cents was commission for the canvasser.

Investigations disclosed that less than 10 per cent of the $2 actually went to benefit blind people, Mr. Timchuk said.

The magazines were not written by truly blind people, either, he added.

The CNIB keeps a complete register of all genuinely blind persons for the federal government, Mr. Timchuk said.

There are people whose sight is partially impaired who claim to be blind but are not, he added.

Mr. Timchuk said the CNIB and the Canadian Council of the Blind, which has 12 affiliated clubs in B.C., had been trying for five years to get the legislation approved last month by the B.C. legislature.

Funeral Held For Skindiver

A funeral service was held this afternoon for Allan Pollock, 2592 Estevan, a 15-year-old skindiver who drowned off Ogden Point last Friday.

The service at McCall Bros. funeral chapel was conducted by Rev. Robert Morris. It was followed by cremation.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said today no inquest will be held in the boy's death. He said he has made an inquiry into it and a report will be submitted to the attorney-general's department.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Vanessa Carpenter, age 10, of Richmond, Va., for her question:

Where does the water come from when we cry?

Once in a while you may have a terrible day when everything turns out the wrong way. But sometimes mishaps strike suddenly from a clear sky—a cut finger, a bumped head or a broken toy. Then without warning the face puckers up with misery and down drip the tears, tears and more tears.

A sorrowful spell of sobbing brings rivers and rivers of runny tears. Your head feels full enough to burst, and an attack of sniffles adds to the misery. You wonder where all this water comes from. The flood may stop if you see something funny. It may stop if something interesting catches your attention—such as the Latin word for a dewy teardrop, which is lacrima.

We borrowed this word to name the glands that manufacture our salty tears. The two lachrymal glands are about the size and shape of shelled almonds. You have one at the outer corner of each eye, under the upper lid. These glands are always making lachrymal fluid—but they do not store up tears for a rainy day.

The teary liquid is meant to bathe the eyes and keep them moist. It contains salt and other soothing substances. When you blink, the muscles squeeze a drop of moisture into each eye, and the glands manufacture more to replace it. The eyelids work like windshield wipers and wash the dewy liquid over the surface of your bright eyes.

Laughter Produces Tears

The used bath water drains away through the tear ducts, which are tiny holes at the inner corner of each eye. From here it goes into the lachrymal sac and then down into the nose through a nasal duct. When the eyes blink, the lachrymal fluid is squeezed out time after time, and the glands work overtime to make more. Feelings of pain also may force the glands to make extra tear fluid.

At such times the surplus tears flow too fast to drain away by the normal channels. The nasal ducts become clogged and you get the sniffles. Surplus fluid overflows from the eyes, and rivers of tears run down the cheeks.

You do not have to wait for a teary tragedy to test the working of your lachrymal glands. Blink fast for about 20 times and you will feel extra moisture in your eyes. This happens because the eye muscles squeeze out the dewy liquid, and the tear glands are forced to replace it with more. These glands also are squeezed when you smile or giggle. And the very best tears flow from a spell of merry laughter—when you laugh until you cry.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Dan K. Fitzsimmans, age 10, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

Does the Evening Star twinkle?

The Evening Star really is not a star at all. It is one of the planets like the earth, shining with the reflected glory of the sun. And planets do not twinkle like the distant stars with arrows of darting light. The Evening Star that tags along after the setting sun may be bigger and brighter than any true star in the sky. The Morning Star that rises ahead of the dawn does not twinkle either, for it, too, is a planet.

The wandering planets forever are changing their places in the sky. Sometimes one, sometimes another is there to greet the dawn or put the sun to bed. The role of Evening Star and Morning Star may be played by Saturn or giant Jupiter, by rusty-red Mars or golden Venus.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The great wild comedy team, Marty Allen and Steve Rossi, celebrated Marty's 41st birthday at Roma Di Notte . . . Because of the wild hairdo of "Hello Dere" Marty, one guest gave his wife Frenchy a bag of steel wool to take his place when he's away . . . Marty and Steve, who spoof the national scene, had this to report: Gov. Rockefeller made an urgent phone call to Henry Cabot Lodge, like this . . . "Henry?" . . . "Hello, dere!" . . . "Can I ask you something very important?" . . . "Certainly" . . . "What's the name of your campaign manager?"

They claim that Bobby Baker refused to answer on the grounds that he might incriminate the U.S. Senate . . . They recently quizzed Lawrence Welk: "You've played for thousands of college dances. What request did you receive most?" . . . "The way to the powder room." . . . The team is now really going big-time after recent successes in Hollywood and on TV. Their "Hello Dere" routine is known around the world.

Sammy Davis Jr. made a speech in Paris that they loved: "I'm Negro, I'm Jewish, I'm one-eyed, and I'm wonderful." And the crowds agreed, as he bent to kiss the hand of one of the Rothschild ladies, that he is, indeed, wonderful. He's now captured that continent . . . The Merv Griffin World's Fair TV show, thought dead, has been resuscitated already, so look out there! We were in his office when he got the news . . . Sarah Miles, the beautiful little English star of "The Servant," smokes those wee Dutch cigars all over NY . . . Royal Dutch Planes Refuel at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Daily flights by KLM Royal Dutch Airlines from Amsterdam to Tokyo will make their refuelling stops at Vancouver instead of Anchorage. The route alteration begins Wednesday.

GLINZ BROTHERS WERE FIRST

Y Campers to Trace Paths of Pioneers

Campers at Camp Thunderbird this summer will hike through the Sooke hills around Glinz Lake much the same as the Glinz boys did 50 years ago.

Arnold and Leonard Glinz left Switzerland in 1910 and headed for Canada armed with a pistol. Friends had warned them they must go armed if they were going to that wild country of Canada.

The boys laughed at the time for they fully intended to continue on as hoteliers in Victoria.

Instead, they homesteaded two quarter sections (320 acres), off the Sooke Road.

SLEPT ON FERNS

Arnold Glinz, who now lives at 1032 Oliphant, recalls that during their first winter here they slept on beds made out of ferns and in sleeping bags made from sacks.

"We practically lived on venison at that time," said Mr. Glinz as he described quartering the deer and leaving it to hang in a bag on a tree.

There were bear in the area but Mr. Glinz only killed one during his hunting expeditions.

It was rugged outdoor life but didn't provide much of a livelihood.

Soon Leonard left and went back to the hotel business and Arnold bought a Sooke farm which became well-known between 1922 and 1947 as the "Woodside Farm".

In the meantime the boys continued to use the Glinz Lake property for hunting and "out-tripping."

NOMINAL PRICE

Then in 1932 they turned the large stand of timber and the lake over to the YMCA for a nominal price.

For 30 years now boys from the Victoria area have been enjoying "out-trips" through the same Sooke hills.

This summer the camping season has been extended to a two-week period in order that more emphasis may be put on the campcraft skills, all too familiar to the Glinz boys.

Every year many boys attend camp under the sponsorship of clubs and private citizens. This year with the season extended and the fees higher, more sponsors than ever before will be needed.

CLIMBER TAKEN SAFELY OFF SQUAMISH CLIFF

VANCOUVER (CP)—A mountain rescue party Tuesday rescued Paul Fhakowit, 21, of Vancouver, from a rocky ledge on 2,700-foot Chieftain Mountain near Squamish, 40 miles north of here.

The search and subsequent rescue started when Ron Rostill, 27, of Vancouver, told the RCMP his climbing companion was trapped on a ledge on the mountain.

IT ALL STARTED WITH ADAM

Church Can Be Fun, He Said Swiftly

TORONTO (CP) — "I like a little sense of humor," said Rev. J. R. Hord Tuesday in explaining why he has included a half-page of theological Tom Swifties in a United Church annual report.

The 285-page annual report of the church's board of evangelism and social service is called Breaking the Barriers.

A Tom Swifty is a gramatical construction in which the adverb modifying said, or an equivalent, is closely, and preferably illuminatingly, related to the preceding quotation, the report says. Some examples:

"I have sinned," said Adam originally.

"Well, if you really mean it you might build some sort of monument to commemorate my victory," said Constantine archly.

"I see through a glass," said Paul darkly.

Mr. Hord, secretary of the board, said the Tom Swifties originally were meant as fillers for the report, but were put together in the half page. They were written by Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion at Stanford University and an official observer to the Vatican council.

BRAZIL REBELS CLAIM VICTORY

Pension Plan To Go Ahead

QUEBEC (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today that the postions of Ontario and Quebec don't alter the federal government's intention to go ahead with the Canada Pension Plan "as it has been drafted."

Mr. Pearson was commenting to reporters on those two developments today in the federal-provincial conference:

1. Premier Lesage said his province reiterated its position that Quebec wants to have its own pension plan. He supplied the conference with a preview of the Quebec plan—not yet announced publicly. Both he and Mr. Pearson said it appears the plan would be comparable to the federal proposals.

TRULY NATIONAL

2. Premier Robarts, in a statement, strongly indicated Ontario may not come into any national pension plan unless it is "truly national" — covering all provinces. If it wasn't, Ontario reserved its right to take further action on pension benefits for Ontario people until it saw the federal plan in its final form, and the position of other provinces.

Said Mr. Pearson:

"I do not think Mr. Robarts has said anything this morning that would alter our federal decision to go ahead with the second reading of the Canada Pension Plan bill and send it to committee where it will be examined and ultimately decided on third reading in the House before the end of the present session . . .

"We think it is a good pension plan and we are anxious to proceed right away."

One section of the federal bill provides that the federal plan would not apply to any province which has announced its intention to have a pension plan of its own, offering comparable benefits and wide general coverage.

After hearing the preview of the Quebec plan, Mr. Pearson said it would be "comparable" to the federal proposal.

It would make it "undesirable" to have both plans operating in Quebec.

Asked to comment on Ontario's position, Mr. Lesage said:

"There is no question at all of changing our attitude."

GO-AHEAD

He noted that the Quebec government has a unanimous mandate to go ahead with its own plan, in the form of a resolution of the legislature.

Mr. Lesage said detailed reports by actuaries and economists on the Quebec proposals will be tabled in the legislature by the end of April. But when asked whether the government would introduce a bill at this session of the legislature, the premier replied:

"I'm afraid not. It's very complicated."

Ontario Wants All To Join In

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robarts strongly indicated today Ontario will enter the federal pension plan only if it is "truly national"—that is, applies to all provinces including Quebec.

Mr. Robarts said his government intends to make sure that Ontario people will have "the best possible pension protection," whether this comes from federal or provincial legislation.

He told the federal-provincial conference that whether the federal plan is to be truly national—taking in the whole country—is a matter of some doubt.

RESERVE RIGHT

In the event that it isn't—that Quebec doesn't come in—"then we reserve our right to make the decision as to our further action in providing pension benefits for our people in Ontario until we see the ultimate form of the federal bill and the position of our sister provinces."

Mr. Robarts said Ontario wants to know whether the federal government is able to establish "a truly national pension plan in the sense that it will involve the people in all the provinces of Canada."

He stressed this all-Canada coverage several times in his relatively short statement.

Ontario does not dispute Quebec's right to decide to stay out of the federal plan, instead setting up its own pensions system, Mr. Robarts said.

NEW ATTEMPT

However, he noted there have been reports that the federal government is "to make another attempt to have Quebec join the plan."

If some provinces stay out, it would have "deep significance."

It could mean that non-participating provinces — through their elected MPs—would have the power to regulate and alter the plan, even though it would not apply to their own provinces.

And these non-participating provinces would be consulted on possible changes in the plan—so their own plans could be brought into line with the proposed changes — even though such consultation will not be necessary with participating provinces who will be controlled by the federal plan.

JOINT COMMITTEE

Mr. Robarts said he recognizes that the federal bill, Bill C-75, introduced recently in the Commons, will be scrutinized carefully by a joint Senate-Commons committee.

FINAL BULLETINS

Yacht Aground, Man Missing

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police are searching for prominent Vancouver businessman R. S. (Stan) Leith after discovery of his yacht aground near the city. On the cabin floor of the 53-foot cruiser Bel Air was a jacket with papers containing Leith's name.

Sugar Price Jumps at Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The wholesale price of sugar reversed a three-week slide here by jumping 50 cents a hundredweight today to $13.

Higher prices for raw sugar in the world market caused the increase, said a spokesman for the B.C. Sugar Refining Co. Ltd.

New Children's Hospital Planned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Vancouver institutions have agreed to pool resources to build a new hospital for acute treatment of children.

The 250 to 350-bed hospital, to cost between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, would be located in the vicinity of the Vancouver General Hospital.

The idea was recommended by the Health Centre for Children and accepted by the Board of Children's Hospital, a 30-year-old 100-bed hospital.

Disbarred Lawyer In Custody

TORONTO (CP)—Disbarred lawyer Samuel Resnick, 42, was remanded today in custody until April 8 on charges of theft and one of fraud involving a total of $184,273. Resnick was picked up by detectives at Toronto International Airport and held overnight in jail. It was the end of a 10-month international search for him.

B.C. Firemen Curling Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia was the only undefeated rink today after three rounds of the Dominion firefighters' bonspiel.

A 13-8 victory by Pat Stranberg's Salmo quartet over Northern Ontario gave B.C. a 3-0 record. Southern Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan have two wins and one loss each. Northern Ontario and Quebec are 1-2 and Nova Scotia is 0-3.

Goulart Out Mazzili In BULLETIN

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Governor Carlos Lacerda, a bitter foe of Brazilian President Joao Goulart, told the people of his state tonight that the revolution against Goulart has been won.

Goulart has resigned as president of Brazil, the war ministry's press office announced tonight, and the presidency is being taken over by Ranieri Mazzili, president of the Chamber of Deputies who was next in line for the job.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A revolt to oust Brazil's President Joao Goulart gathered speed today.

Declaring they would not allow Brazil to become another Cuba, army, navy and state political leaders deserted Goulart. The rebels said their army columns marching on Rio de Janeiro were being joined by soldiers sent out by Goulart to repel them.

Goulart, faced with demands to quit, flew from Rio to the inland capital of Brasilia where Congress is in session.

Some sources speculated his mission was to hand over the government to Ranieri Mazzili, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

There was other speculation that he had gone to make a stand against the rebellion.

Firing was reported in Rio itself. Some soldiers in famed Copacabana Fortress, in the fashionable beach and apartment section of Rio, proclaimed their solidarity with the rebels.

Shortly afterward, firing between the fort and soldiers on a nearby hill broke out, a radio station source reported. He said one officer and nine soldiers were wounded when the rebels took over the fort.

In a series of broadcasts, the rebels claimed seven of Brazil's 27 states had rallied to their banner in a drive to "lift the Red Yoke" from Brazil.

His opponents charge Goulart is leading the country of 71,000,000 inhabitants to Communism by nationalization of private industry, expropriation of land and his demand to legalize the Communist party. Goulart says he is only working to improve the lot of 20,000,000 illiterate peasants.

A spokesman for the Second Army said its commander, Gen. Amaury Krueh, would enter Rio to deliver a personal ultimatum to Goulart that he resign or be deposed.

The spokesman said troops of the Second Army, whose headquarters are in Sao Paulo, 220 miles southwest of Rio, already were near their objective.

Armed Cypriots Mark 'EOKA'

(CP From AP-Reuters)

NICOSIA—Thousands lined Nicosia's streets today to watch Greek-Cypriot police and national guards parade in honor of the EOKA underground's fight for the independence of Cyprus.

President Archbishop Makarios took the salute from more than 2,000 marchers, many of them carrying weapons.

Home-made armored cars rolled by under fluttering blue and white Greek flags.

It was the largest turnout ever on EOKA day, commemorating the start of the fight against British rule in April, 1955.

The line of march was routed away from the Turkish quarter for safety's sake.

Earlier Makarios attended a special Te Deum mass at Phaneromeni church inside Nicosia's old walled city.

Nicos Koshis, former top EOKA man and now a member of the Cypriot Parliament, told the packed church that EOKA day again found the "Cyprus people armed and ready to protect . . . the integrity and independence" of Cyprus.

"The threat of Turkish invasion and plans of foreigners will not frighten us. We are going to fight to the end because Cyprus is Greek and is going to stay Greek," he declared.

Turkish-Cypriots continued their criticism of the UN force which took over the task of peacekeeping on the island last Friday.

Special Sitting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons agreed today to a special sitting tonight to consider authorizing temporary loans to the dwindling unemployment insurance fund.

Bennett Backs Pension

QUEBEC (CP) — Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta today gave their support to the federal government's Canada pension plan as the second day of the federal-provincial conference got under way.

"We're all for the plan," said a beaming Mr. Bennett. "It would be better if Ontario and Quebec were in — I hope all provinces will take part — but B.C. will take part."

Power Reductions 'Political Tool'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Bill Rathie said Tuesday it appears B.C.'s latest power rate reductions are being used as a political tool by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He likened the premier to a political Robin Hood.

"Hydro appears to be continuing its policy of taking from the high user and giving to the low user," the mayor commented while criticizing the reduction announced Tuesday. It is estimated at $2,000,000 a year.

"It is the same politically-inspired policy used last year when Hydro cut rates by 19 per cent for the largest group of consumers in the city compared with 25 per cent in rural areas of the province.

"There is no economic justification for rates to be cut the way the Hydro Authority has cut them," he said.

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said he didn't expect any more reductions to be made this year although the cut is $3,000,000 below the annual reduction promised by Premier Bennett.

"We make a reduction every March in accordance with our revenue. This year our revenue was not as high as we expected because of the mild winter," he said.

Premier Bennett, contacted at the federal-provincial conference in Quebec City, said that unforeseen costs prevented B.C. Hydro from making a bigger cut in electric power rates this year.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — John J. Wilson, 46, died when fire destroyed his farm home near here late Tuesday. Police were not able to approach the flaming ruins until this morning, when they found the remains of his body in the ashes.

RESTIVE AND IMPATIENT

Senators May Go Home

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA— A restive Senate today served notice it may close up shop and go home until April 20 unless the House of Commons speeds up its handling of public business.

Impatient over Commons' delays, senators held a special sitting shortly before noon to express their frustration at having to stand by and do nothing while business is held up in the Commons.

Should the Senate finally decide to adjourn until April 20, this would mean a government bill for appropriation of more than $240 million could not get Senate approval or royal assent, and thus become law, until then.

The Senate has had little business to conduct this week because it has not received any from the Commons. For a week, MPs have been squabbling over the supplementary appropriations and have talked themselves out of a previously scheduled 10-day Easter recess.

POWER LEADS ATTACK

Liberal senators led the attack on the Commons. Senator Charles G. Power, who was air minister in the King government, wondered whether the problems in the Commons resulted from "political amateurism" or "stupid opportunism."

Giant Rebuilding Job Moves Ahead in Alaska

By WARD SIMS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—New, chilling stories of earthquake and tidal wave terror mingled with constantly changing casualty figures for the stricken areas of Alaska.

The loss of life in the Good Friday disaster was still undetermined. Figures, gathered independently by various state agencies, changed constantly.

It might be weeks before an accurate count of the dead can be obtained.

State civil defence said its count showed 19 dead and 77 missing and presumed dead, plus 55 injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard had one death, at its Cape St. Elias station, which was not included in the civil defence figures. There were unofficial reports of single deaths elsewhere.

Additionally, there were unofficial reports of 31 persons missing who did not show on the civil defence list, including 23 at Chenega, five at Port Ashton and three at Port Nellie Juan.

START REBUILDING

In Anchorage, the state's largest city, most debris has been cleared. Workmen were preparing to remove what items of value they could from condemned buildings and start the mammoth job of reconstruction.

In Washington, various federal agencies were under orders from President Johnson to speed up relief.

The air force, navy and military air transports service flew supplies to Anchorage and Kodiak. Four commercial airlines —Northwest, Alaska, Pacific Northern and Pan American—also carried tons of food, hardware and clothing.

Alaska Governor William A. Egan said it might be necessary to call a special session of the state legislature next fall to meet problems of reduced tax income and increased state spending resulting from the tragedy. The legislature recessed Friday night after the quake.

Egan said Alaska has an adequate force of construction and technical workers to handle reconstruction. He left unsaid the matter of financing but

Belgians Protest Doctors' Strike

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Some 12,000 Belgian doctors went on strike today against government health service plans and quickly touched off protest demonstrations by workers.

The strike began at 7 a.m. after the collapse of talks between government officials and labor union leaders Tuesday night.

Two thousand metal workers in Charleroi, near Brussels, staged a rally in the centre of town in protest over the strike and caused a gigantic traffic jam. They whistled and shouted in front of the offices of the medical association.

The striking doctors left in operation a skeleton emergency service to handle the most serious medical cases, but warned in a communique the emergency service would halt immediately if there were any "maltreatment" of doctors, their families, or their property.

A labor union leader called for demonstrations outside doctors' homes this afternoon.

Prime Minister Theo Lefevre called the strike "deplorable." He said the doctors were "practically a monopoly" and would be conscripted—placing them under government orders — if necessary.

The doctors claim the government plan would curtail their freedom, abolish professional secrecy and impede standards of medical treatment.

PLAN FIXES FEES

It provides for a fixed scale of fees for all medical treatment and the granting of free medical treatment to certain categories of patients.

Negotiators said the main stumbling block was what fees should be paid to the doctors and how many afternoons a week would be left free for private practice.

During the Easter weekend, doctors from many parts of the country staged an unofficial warning strike when they walked off their practices and went on vacation in other countries.

Observers here said it was likely many of them would remain away until a settlement was reached.

Although many professional men appeared to side with the doctors in the dispute, the majority of the population supported the government reform program.

It provides for a 75-per-cent reimbursement of all medical costs and free medical care for disabled persons, widows and orphans.

IWA Seeks Conciliation As Contract Talks Fold

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations between the forest industry and International Woodworkers of America on a new wage contract have broken down.

The union is asking for appointment of a conciliation officer.

Negotiations opened here two weeks ago between the IWA, speaking for 25,000 workers on the east, and Forest Industrial Relations.

IWA demands would cost the forestry industry an estimated $26,500,000 a year.

Jack Moore, western regional president of the IWA, said after the breakdown was announced Tuesday that both sides "were so far apart it became obvious that we were not going to come to a settlement without the assistance of a third party."

ASK TOO MUCH

John Billings, president of F.I.R., said the industry "recognizes that there will be a wage increase this year" but it would be difficult to find a settlement because IWA demands are "excessive."

"If the huge increase such as demanded by the IWA were incorporated into the wage scale, the result would be disastrous, particularly when a break occurs in the market for lumber shingles and plywood," said Mr. Billings.

"The job security of thousands of employees would be affected."

The IWA is seeking an increase of 40 cents an hour for all employees and a total of 70 cents an hour more for tradesmen and improvers.

Youth Convicted Of Manslaughter

Sentence Scheduled for Friday After Fast Verdict at Nanaimo

NANAIMO—An Assize Court jury Tuesday found 17-year-old Dennis Roy Cline guilty of manslaughter in the death last August of 14-year-old Hugh George Nesbitt of Maple Bay Road.

Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson of Vancouver remanded the Duncan youth until Friday for sentence.

The jury took 38 minutes to arrive at a verdict.

Mr. Justice Hutcheson told the jury it had four choices: guilty of manslaughter, assault casing actual bodily harm, common assault or acquittal.

Evidence at the trial disclosed that Cline jumped out of a car on Maple Bay Road near Duncan and chased the Nesbitt boy to give him a scare.

The accused claimed that he chased Nesbitt and another boy because they made obscene motions with their thumbs.

FELL OVER HIM

He said the Nesbitt boy seemed to trip over something and he (Cline) fell over him.

He denied hitting the boy.

Dr. Florence Wilson, pathologist at Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital, who performed an autopsy on Nesbitt, testified that the boy died from asphyxiation.

She said he lost consciousness when he fell on the ground and choked on his stomach contents.

'WE WILL NEVER GIVE UP'

NANAIMO — Police here are still working on one of V.I.'s most baffling murder cases.

RCMP Staff Sgt. Jack Purdy said today police are still hunting for the killer of a young Nanaimo couple, Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon. They were slain here in October of 1962.

"We will never give up," he said. "The case will never be closed until we find the killer."

136 RIFLES CHECKED

Police believe the solution hinges on learning the history of a .22-calibre rifle, found at the bottom of Long Lake a few months after the slaying.

Sgt. Purdy said so far police have investigated 156 rifles reported by people all over Canada.

Investigators have also conducted 1,500 interviews and checked 60,000 car registrations, he said.

PLANE CRASH KILLS FOUR IN MANITOBA

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — A survey plane crashed on take-off at the Thompson airport today killing all four occupants.

The plane, owned by Kenting Aviation Limited of Toronto, burned after the crash.

The company identified the victims as Capt. Richard Wassell of Brampton, Ont., navigator Sherman Keeley of Agincourt, Ont., flight engineer A. E. Fulford of Brampton, and magnetometer technician Steven A. Hatton of Toronto.

Cause of the crash was not determined, but department of transport investigators were expected to arrive at the scene later today.

NOCTURNAL HUNTERS FINED $100

SOOKE—Three Victoria hunters who went shooting at night near Sooke were each fined $100 in Sooke magistrate's court Tuesday.

Magistrate Eugene Murphy also ordered that their guns be confiscated.

The three were Bruce Wight, 1033 Monterey; Fred Metters, 410 Quebec, and Douglas Mace, 1151 Roslyn. They were caught by RCMP March 14 at 4 a.m. on the road between Sooke and Jordan River.

Magistrate Murphy warned the accused of the danger of shooting at night. He said a hunter cannot possibly tell what may be in his line of fire if he shoots into the darkness.

CAMPBELL RIVER—A coroner's jury Tuesday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Peter Lactin, 43, of Vancouver, who died in a seaplane accident at Alert Bay on March 19.

It attached no blame to Campbell River pilot Capt. Gordon Wilkinson, who scrambled from his sinking seaplane without realizing Lactin was trapped inside.

Five other passengers were injured when the B.C. Air Lines Norseman flipped upside down at Alert Bay. The plane sank in six seconds.

Board Hopes For Saving On Willows

School trustees will wait a week before selecting a bid on Sir James Douglas School addition in hopes of saving money on a bid for new rooms at Willows School.

Tenders on Sir James Douglas were opened last week and found to be at least $4,000 higher than estimated.

Trustees are cautious because there is less than $7,000 remaining in a contingency fund for projects undertaken in referendum No. 5. There are two more projects to go before the program is completed — Willows and Victoria West schools.

Four additional rooms and alteration to the activity room at Willows are estimated at $93,700, and four classrooms at Victoria West at $65,000.

Buildings and grounds chairman George Curran said there could be a saving in the Willows tender that will help to cover the shortage in the Sir James Douglas low bid.

Teenders for Willows are to be opened April 9.
